OUR 51h YEAR

WOODLAWN KNIGHTS

Woodlawn Has Fifth Birthday

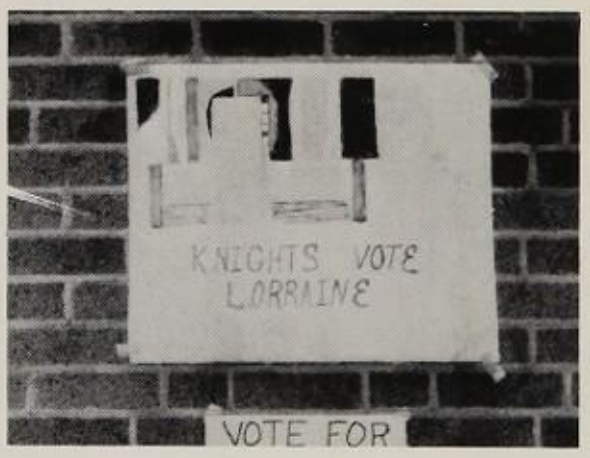
This school year marked the fifth one for Woodlawn High School. Five school sessions have brought many changes to the school. In all changes witnessed, growth has been the outstanding factor.

The very first Student Council President, Deborah Boring of Greenwood, said on opening day, September 6, 1960, that Woodlawn had no school spirit, no trophies, no traditions, and no reputation to live up to. She said Woodlawn had a clean slate with which to work, and it would be the task of the school to write its own reputation through the years.

Five years have brought a marvelous school spirit, a partially-filled trophy case, a well-established place in school annals, and school traditions such as the Accolade Pageant and the Knights' Ball. This year another tradition was established as the school had its first live knight mascot.

Sir Knight made his initial appearance to Woodlawn fans on October 22, 1964 at a special half-time ceremony at the Woodlawn-Byrd game. The unique program included several school organizations. The Lancerettes and Band spelled out SIR KNIGHT on the field as Mike McCollough came onto the playing field through a castle. Mr. Turner awarded the Accolade of Knighthood with a gentle tap of a sword on each shoulder. As he did so, the Lancer Drill Team, serving as an Honor Guard, fired a salute.

Mike was chosen to represent the school mascot by a committee of students and several faculty members. Mike is seen in the picture at the left as he made the historical first appearance as Woodlawn's Sir Knight.



Posters urge everyone to vote during student campaigns for office. Lorraine Bagby's sign had a sketch of the design on front of the school. She was elected Sophomore Class Treasurer.

To identify groups for the ACCOLADE, students must sign for their position in line. Beverly Tozier and Renda Vick wait for the clipboard as Craig Estes signs the Industrial Arts list.

Five different lunch shifts feed nearly 1600 students who eat daily in the school cafeteria. Pupils may choose their meat, vegetables, and desserts.

Representatives attend the regular meetings of the student council.

Year Five Sees Enrollment Doubled

Halls are nice and wide in the school, and the first student body of around 900 had ample space to travel in the halls between classes. As the population at school has more than doubled since that opening year, hall traffic moves more slowly now. Halls may be congested, tardy bells may ring, lessons may be waiting, but there is that inevitable last minute chat with a special friend. Byron Sprawls bids goodbye to Carolyn Owens until the next period is over when chatting time will come again.

Music for the Homecoming Dance was furnished by the Impacts, led by Vince Authement, Mrs. Whitaker's son-in-law. Knights enjoying the dance at the American Legion Club agreed that it was a "Wonderland by Knight."

The school library, with its thousands of volumes, furnishes reference material for Knights as well as books to read for pleasure.

More Knights Came Home This Year

Homecoming ceremonies offer alumni a chance to return home to greet old friends. There were no former students to come home in the fall of 1960 so there was no program to call Homecoming until the fall of 1961. When the 1964 ceremonies were held during halftime at the Woodlawn-Neville game, four graduating classes had gone forth from the Sherwood Park School. So there were 1300 former students who could come home for the festivities. Those who did come saw Woodlawn defeat Neville, and they witnessed the crowning of Brenda Boyette as 1964 Homecoming Queen. Brenda and her maids then watched the last half of the game from a decorated float on the sidelines as seen on the opposite page.

During the first five years, baseball has been a successful sport at Woodlawn. The Knights have been contenders for the district championship several times.

Woodlawn's track program improves each year. Gerald Burnett and Jimmy Buckner, shown here, helped the Knights win third place in the district meet last year.

Honors Add Up Over Five Year Period

"No trophies," said Deborah Boring on opening day in 1960. And the first year added none to the three cases in the gym. The Knights' football team, created and built in the summer and fall of 1960, played nine games that first season and lost nine games. But spectacular growth was also evidenced in the sports program at the school. The team in its second year emerged as District 1-AAA Champions and entered the state playoffs. Thus, in five years, they went from a winless first season to being district champs once, runners-up three times, and they entered state playoffs three times. The picture on the opposite page shows Buster Herren carrying the ball in the game that wrapped up the playoff berth in the '64 season.

More Classes Required In Fifth Year

With the annual increase of students, the number of classes in some subjects has had to be increased also. New subjects such as Speech III, Mechanical Drawing III, and Home and Family Finance have been added through the past five years until the curriculum now is enriched with a well-balanced program for the students' selection.

In the field of art for example, only three classes with a total of forty-four pupils were offered in Year One of the school history. This year, only five years later, six periods of art are taught with a total of one hundred sixty-four students. Through this subject, the more creative students develop their talent and prepare for advancement in the field of art. As seen at the left, the training has enabled Jan Wartick to do a creditable job of painting what she sees. Rhonda Ainsworth poses as Jan does her portrait in water colors.

Wearing the school colors of red and blue, the seniors make their first group appearance in cap and gown at the Baccalaureate sermon. The Concert Choir performed last spring at the service which was held at the Youth Center at the State Fair Stadium.

Though the "Woodlawn Spirit" has widespread fame now, it was not always so. In fact, just five short years ago, there was no such thing! Deborah, on opening day, counseled the students that a spirit of unity and school pride were nonexistent on that day, but they would have to be developed.

The first student body had owed allegiance to several different schools when the school session closed in May of 1960. Yet, in September, these pupils who had been scattered in three other high schools and several junior high schools, assembled together at Woodlawn to make the historic first student body. Thus it took time for the new group to develop a sense of loyalty and love for the new school.

Many factors have contributed to developing a great school pride, but one group has added greatly to continuing this marvelous Woodlawn Spirit. Each year six young ladies, working with an enthusiastic pep squad, yell their hearts out as they brave rain and cold to cheer for the athletic teams. Those who lead the cheering this year—Susie Wright, Pat Rice, Judy Cole, Marcia Dolin, Pam Fain, and Brenda Boyette—are seen on the opposite page near the goalposts they had decorated in freezing weather.

Faculty

No part of Woodlawn's educational program has escaped tremendous growth during five years of existence.

The nearly-all-day first faculty meeting on Tuesday, September 5, 1960, found 51 faculty members in attendance. At this meeting Mr. Turner discussed policies and rules for operating the brand new school. The first faculty, for the most part, was made up of teachers who were transferred from the other schools in Shreveport and Caddo Parish. Some, however, began their teaching career at Woodlawn. Of the 51 original faculty members, 38 are still here.

Student enrollment has increased by 200 or more each year since the school opened, and because of this increase, new teaching positions have been added yearly. September of 1964 showed the school's largest enrollment with the largest teaching staff on record. The faculty now totals 87.

Mr. Turner returns to the office after meeting with the homecoming court nominees at a special assembly.

Principal Reviews Awards Day Program

MR. JAMES EARL TURNER . . . Principal . . . BS, NSC; MA, LSU . . . controls nerve center of Woodlawn . . . is our first principal . . . has one son, Stanton, and his wife, Ferne, is librarian at Midway Junior High School . . . enjoys golf and operating his ham radio . . . was an Army Air Force 2nd Lieutenant—flew B-17 in World War II . . . considers his work at Woodlawn most enjoyable . . . is responsible for many of the honors attained by our school

Outlined against the windows in his office, Mr. Turner thinks about his schedule that he has planned for the day.

During May, 1964, the NDCC held its annual Awards Day Parade. The distinguished guests included Commander Calhoun Allen, USNR, Mr. Earl Turner, Lt. Col. George McGovern, USAR, and a Major of the USAFR. The newly elected NDCC sponsors, who can be seen in the background, were eagerly awaiting the announcement of their rank.

At the Byrd pep rally, Mr. Earl Turner reads a telegram of good luck from Henry Hungerbeeler, a 1964 graduate, who is now attending the United States Air Force Academy.

A crucial Knight football play caused the anxious look on Mr. Turner's face. Mr. Roscoe H. White, retired Superintendent of Caddo Parish Schools, shares the excitement of the game with Mr. Turner, who usually sits as near the sideline as possible.

MR. J. W. COOK, JR. . . . Assistant Principal . . . BS, La. Tech; MEd, NSC . . . in charge of Administration . . . handles student elections in all parts . . . enjoys golf, fishing and sports . . . attended one week Science Workshop at Alexander State Forest last summer . . . vacationed in Gulfshores, Alabama . . . considers working at Woodlawn to be a great honor

Teachers Do Check Homework Papers

Checking homework is not always an easy job as shown by the expression on Mrs. Watson's face as she examines her sophomore English class notebooks during fourth period.

Serving as team physician for the five years in Woodlawn's history, Dr. D. A. Hiller, is at each game to aid any injured player. He also gives a pre-season examination to each player to see that he is in top physical condition.

The day of a football game is always a busy one for Mr. Cecil Herren. He sees that tickets are distributed, money collected, counted and then taken to the bank.

Daily during fourth period Mr. Charles McLain will be found in the bookroom. There he is in charge of all textbooks—distributing, receiving, and ordering needed books.

MISS TOMMIE A. BLACKBORNE . . . Art . . . BA, U. of Ark; MA, N. Tex. St. Coll. . . . sponsors Art Club . . . enjoys painting in many media, preferring oils and water colors . . . entered painting in several exhibits during the summer . . . won first place in 1964 Hoover Watercolor Show

The smiles indicate that teaching is a pleasant experience for the two young ladies who did their practice teaching here this year. At the sign-in counter chatting with Mr. Turner are Centenary student teachers, Mrs. Michelle Scott and Miss Ann Covington. Art classes were instructed by Mrs. Scott under the guidance of Miss Blackbourne. Miss Covington taught Shorthand II and Bookkeeping under the watchful eye of Mrs. Kirkland. Miss Covington was selected as Miss Centenary.

Academic

A fairly complete schedule of subjects was offered to Woodlawn's first student body. One could take chemistry, geometry, art, typing, civics, as well as many other subjects of his choosing. Yet, only five years away from its opening day, other subjects have been added to the curriculum, and some subjects already being taught have had many more sections added to them.

To cite examples of growth in the academic field, there were 17 classes of senior English this year as compared to only 5 classes in Year One at Woodlawn. The number of biology classes has grown from 13 in the first year to 27 for the current session. This year it took 6 teachers to meet the needs of students enrolled in American history whereas 1960 showed only 1 instructor of this subject.

One of the many methods used to teach English is showing films, which helps to create an interest in what a class is studying. One of Mrs. Lawson's junior classes watches a film entitled "The Rise of Realism," in connection with their study of realism.

William Barnette, Jeanne Annison and Wayne Morrison listen intently as Mrs. Adams, senior English teacher, reads a paper written by Wayne entitled "America Is."

In English IV a medieval morality play, where characters represent the chief morals, was presented by Ann Stegall, Mary Greer, Kandy Morrow, and Jeanne Annison.

English Teachers Approve Discussion

Great opportunities for learning are given to Woodlawn's English students as sixteen teachers use various methods to teach spelling, vocabulary, grammar, composition, and literature.

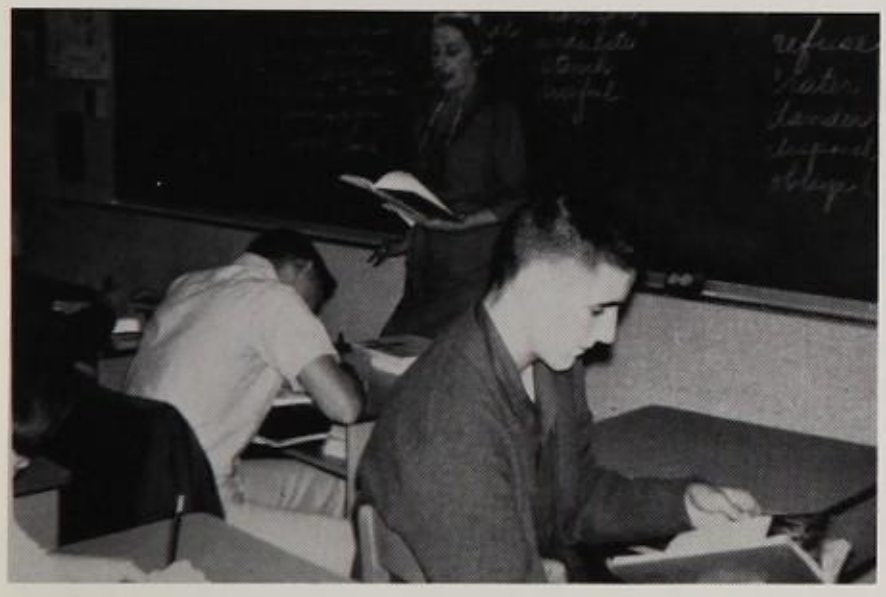
Comments from the teachers indicate that class discussion is a most successful teaching device. They report that it provokes thought and interest and is very stimulating. Several agree though that demonstration is best for teaching grammar. A sophomore teacher says, "I lecture to introduce, demostrate to explain, and discuss to complete."

Unusual projects add great interest to the learning of English. A sophomore group wrote Goldilocks in 20th Century slang to show what style can do to a piece of literature. Through interest gained in class, many sophomores attended plays given at Centenary College.

Creative Writing is stressed by several instructors. In one class students keep a notebook and attempt to write around certain ideas. To enrich a junior study of America's literary history of the mid 1800's, one group built a model of "Old Ironsides." One rapid learner junior class chose American drama for a research project and re-wrote Little Red Riding Hood in the style of five American playwrights.

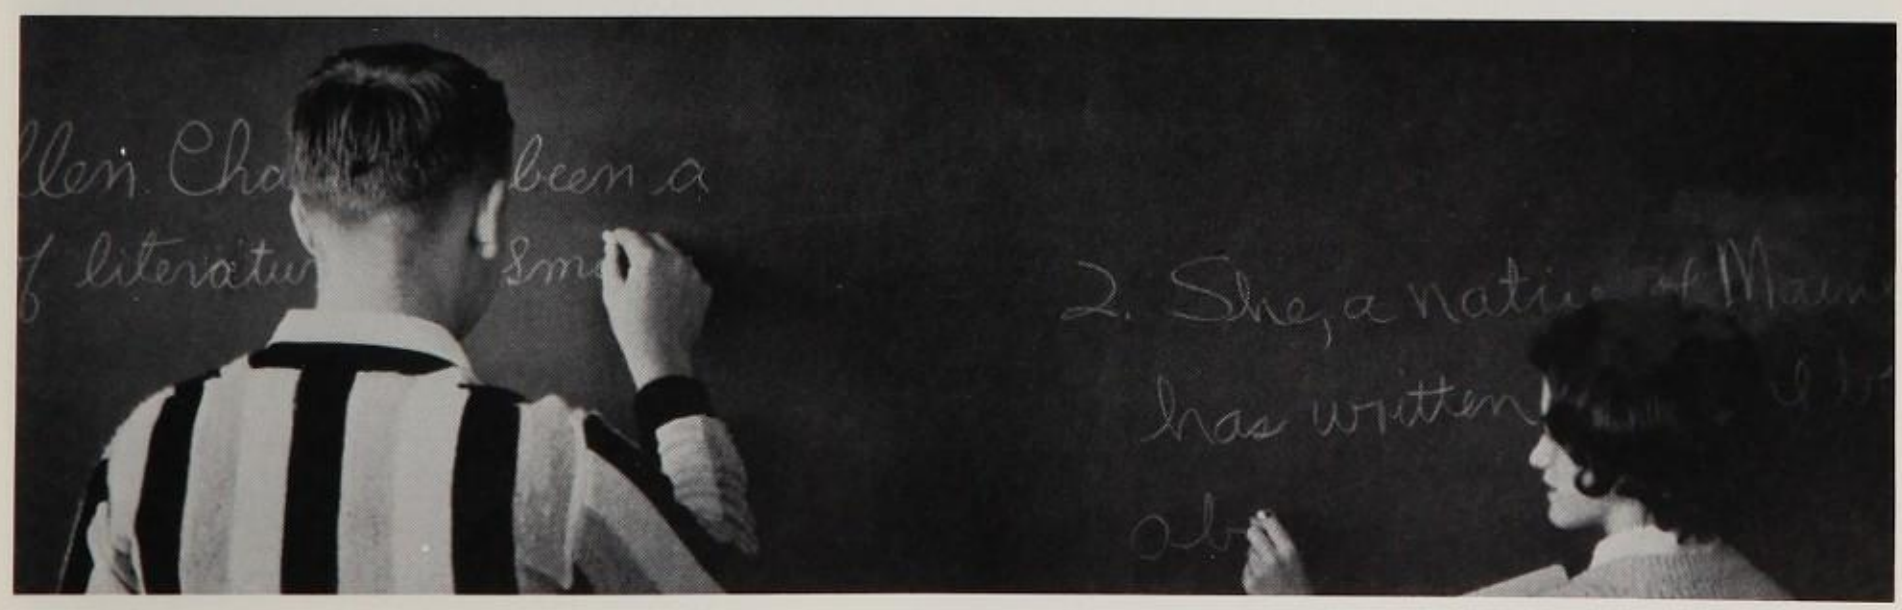
Senior classes attended Macbeth which was produced at a local boys' high school with the boys playing the feminine parts as in Shakespeare's day. Another senior group built an Elizabethean theater in conjunction with a study of Shakespeare.

Billy Prothro gives his spelling test a careful last-minute check as Mrs. Scott goes back over the list. Presley Prudhomme appears to have other things in mind.



Shirley Louis gets help from Mrs. Greene on a grammar drill on participles, while Janet McCallum and Jimmy Glover work on composition in their junior English class.

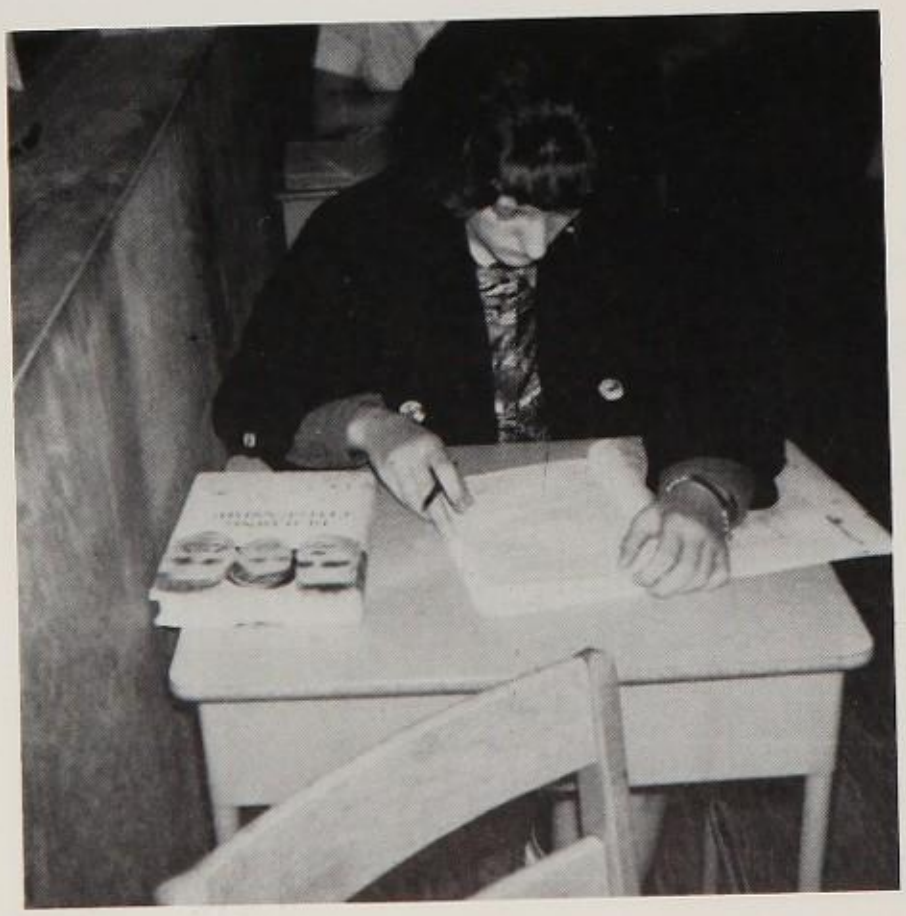
Erwin Parish and Beverly Clark put their homework sentences from the night before on the board for discussion by class members. English instructors find this method of teaching helpful in showing students how to correct their mistakes.



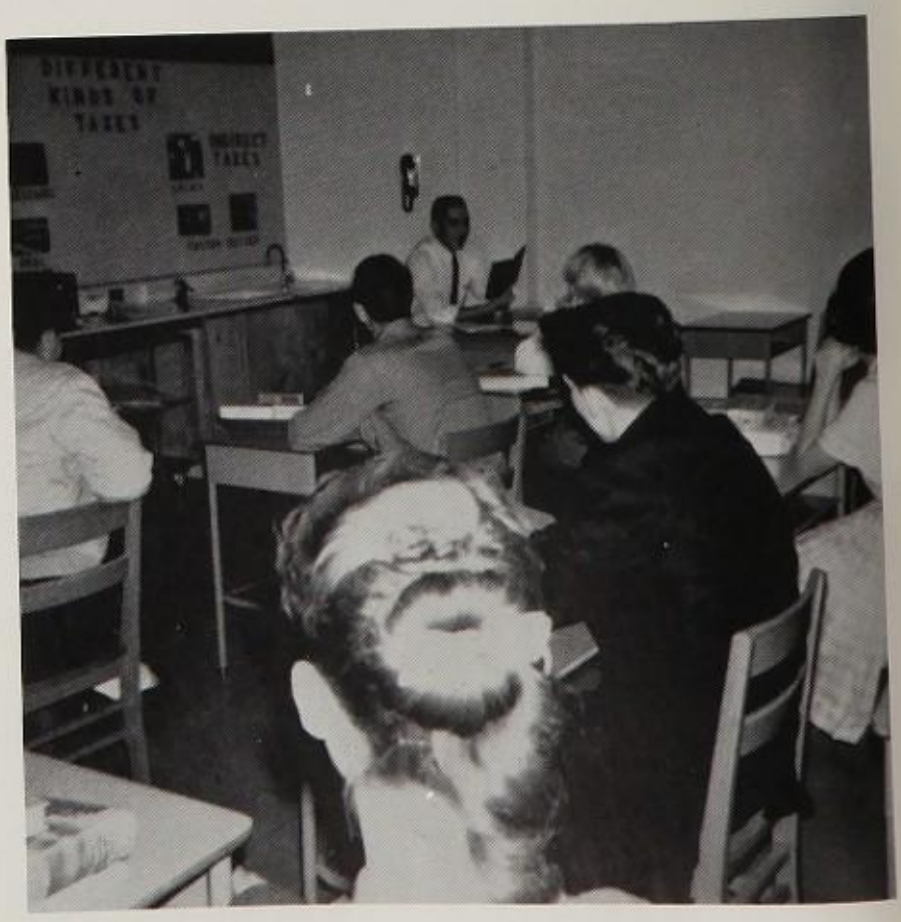
"Each state has as many electors as it has Congressmen," says Miss Coffey while lecturing on the Electoral College to her American History class. Linda Thornton and Jean Morrison listen closely to make sure their notes are correct.

Patricia Quin and Dianne Taylor are busy taking notes as their Civics teacher, Mrs. Spinks, talks to the class on how a bill becomes a law.

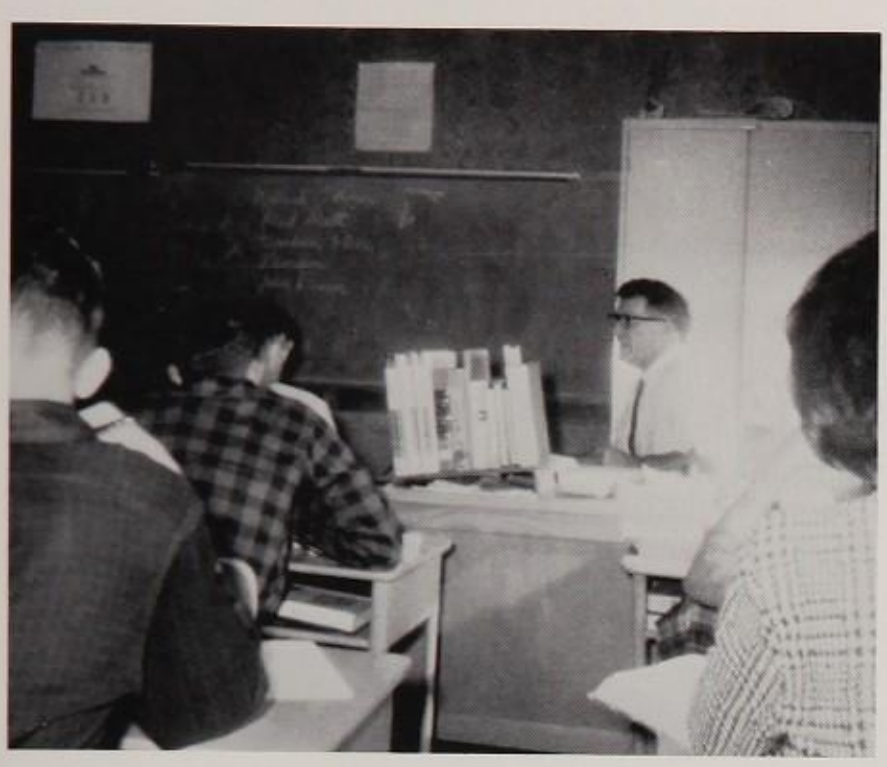
Her up-to-date notebook makes studying much easier for Carol Brown as she prepares for a big Civics test. This class emphasizes the privilege of being an American.



"Any fact that might be true would be only coincidental," says Mr. Priddy about It All Began With Columbus, a take-off on our American heritage, to his Economics class.



Social Studies Include Six Subjects



"Henry Clay sponsored the compromise that delayed the Civil War for ten years," says Mr. Scott to his American History class as he discusses the Great Compromise.

Woodlawn students can best plan for the future by understanding the past, and this understanding can come from a study of history. Students learn of their responsibilities as citizens, and they explore man's struggles and achievements from ancient times to the present.

Effective learning results from lectures, discussions, committee work, maps, movies, occasional debates, and required outside reading.

Civics, American History, General History, World Geography, Economics, and Government make up the curriculum in the social studies department. Civics and American History are required.

Most classes had projects in connection with the presidential election in November. Civics students learned about the stock market by pretending to buy and later sell several shares of stock. General History classes made reproductions of a Roman chariot, a pyramid, and an atlas.

Future politicians, economists, teachers, and foreign diplomats will come from students who have applied themselves in this field of study.

Charles Bollman and Pat Mathis listen as Mr. Freeman discusses the European empire, the people, their neighbors, and the way they use their land. Mr. Freeman's World Geography classes have many activities and class discussions.

New Book Used In One Math Course

Six math courses are available from which students may choose, and only two math credits are required for graduation.

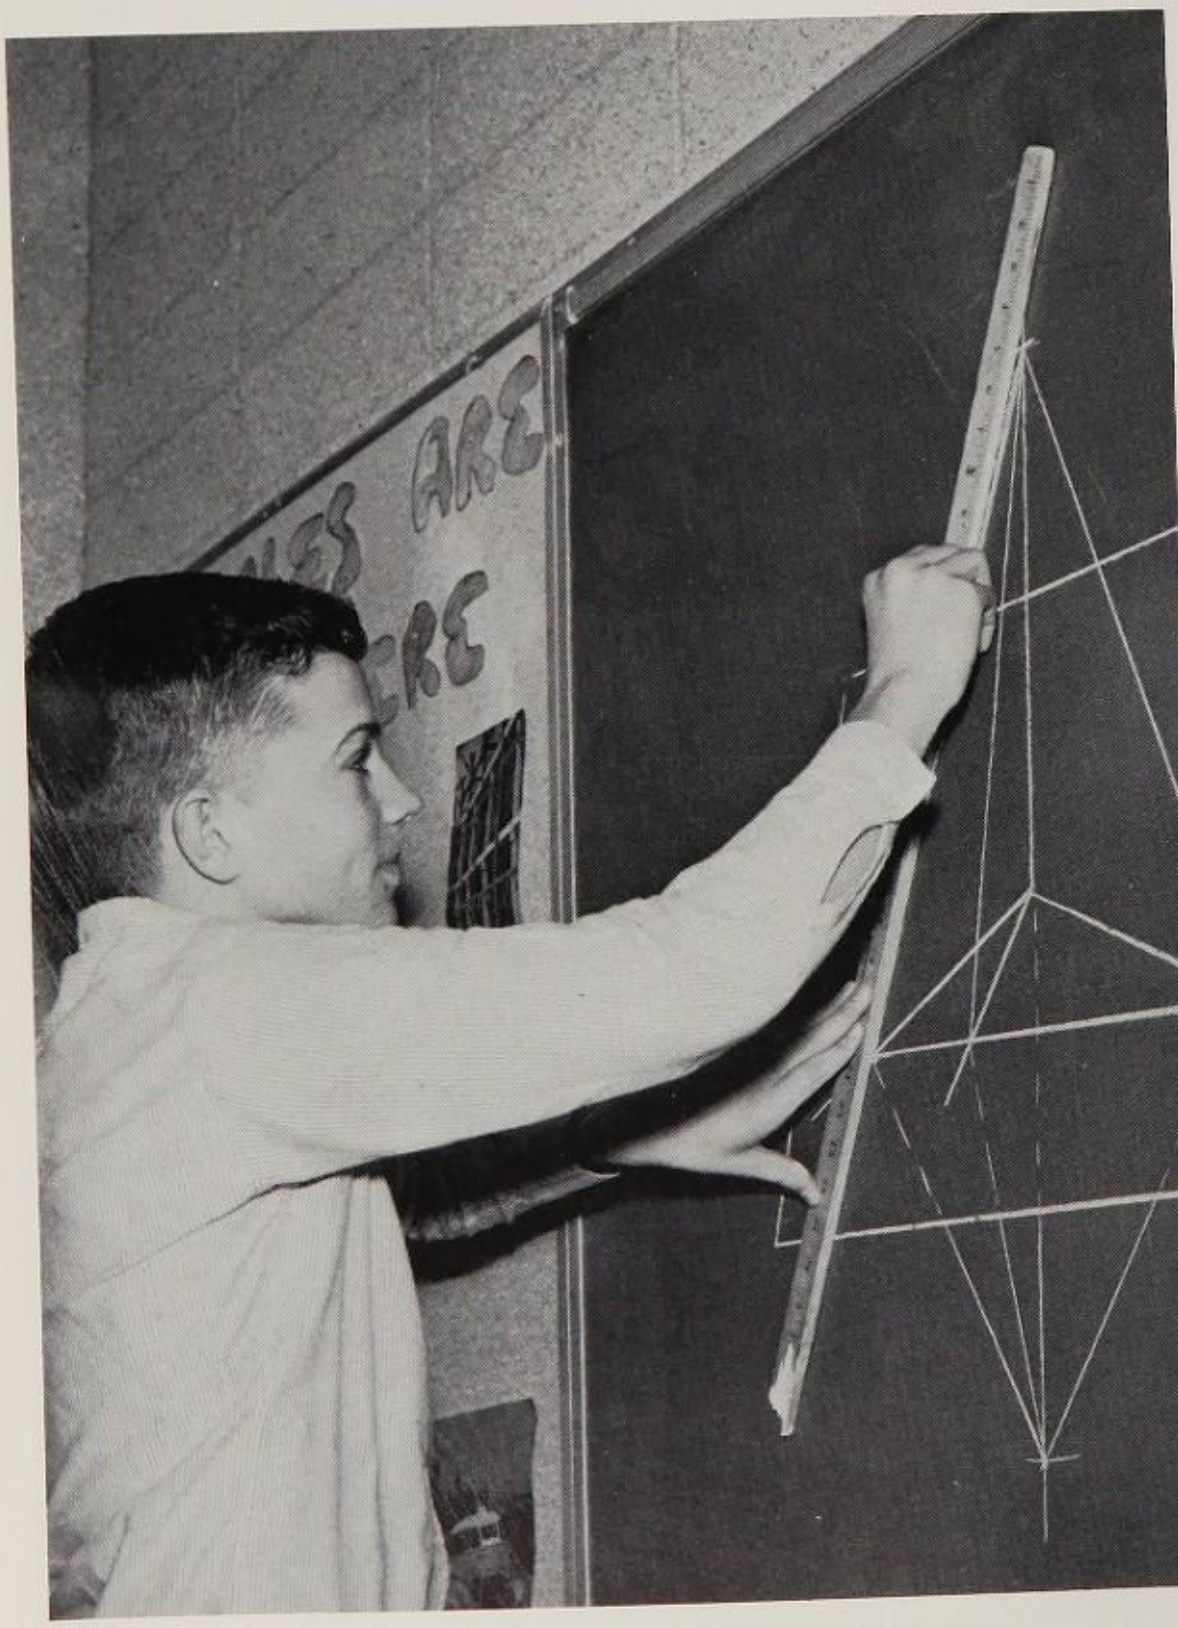
General Math and Business Arithmetic help to give the students a general working knowledge of math used in everyday life. Algebra I, Algebra II, and Advanced Math provide the fundamentals and background for higher mathematics. Geometry is very helpful in that it establishes good thinking by teaching logical reasoning.

Most of the math teachers use a combination lecture-demonstration. Thus the blackboard is a very important teaching tool in a math classroom.

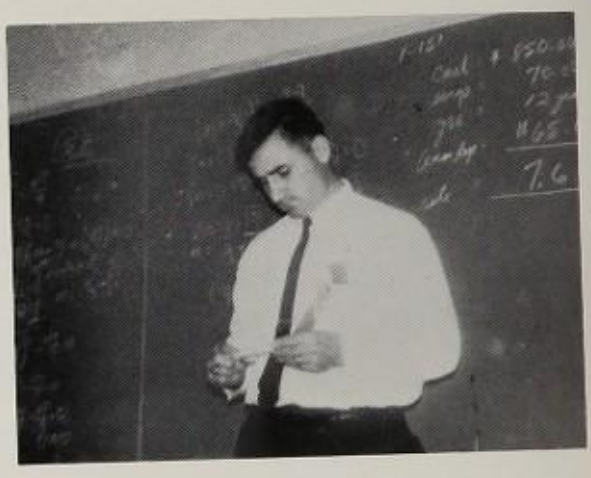
A new Algebra I textbook is being used this year. The teacher indicates that it is more in line with modern day thinking in terms of the new math, including the theory of sets.

"Clear plastic solid geometric models are being used this year for the second time, and they are most helpful in the proof of three-dimensional problems," said a Woodlawn geometry teacher. This is the third year that plane and solid geometry have been taught as one course. For additional interest in classwork, students made Christmas cards using only geometric designs.

Careers in architecture, engineering, cartography (map making), research, and teaching await good mathematicians.



Carey Walters, a member of Miss Speers' rapid learner geometry class, uses a blackboard illustration to prove that a line is perpendicular to a plane.

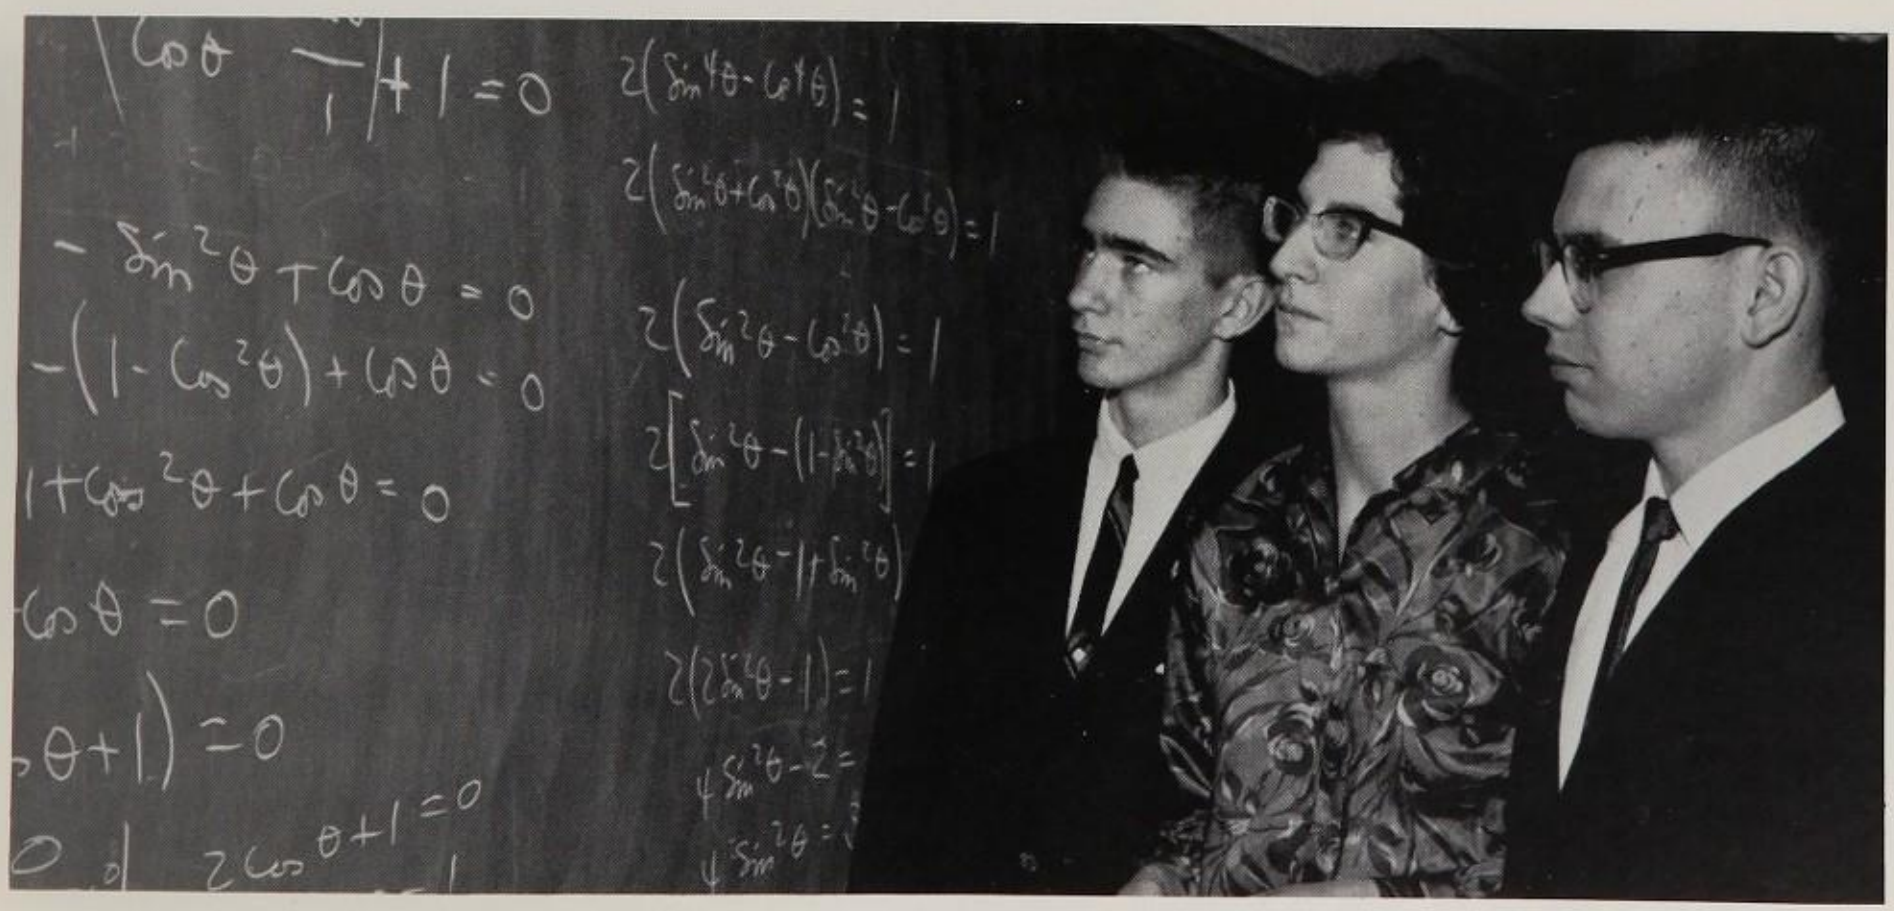


Mr. Aarons, Business Arithmetic teacher, shows his students how to work a slide rule and explains it.

Dennis Haws waits while Mrs. Alice Aiken helps Richard Sirman find the factors for the least common denominator for a difficult addition problem.

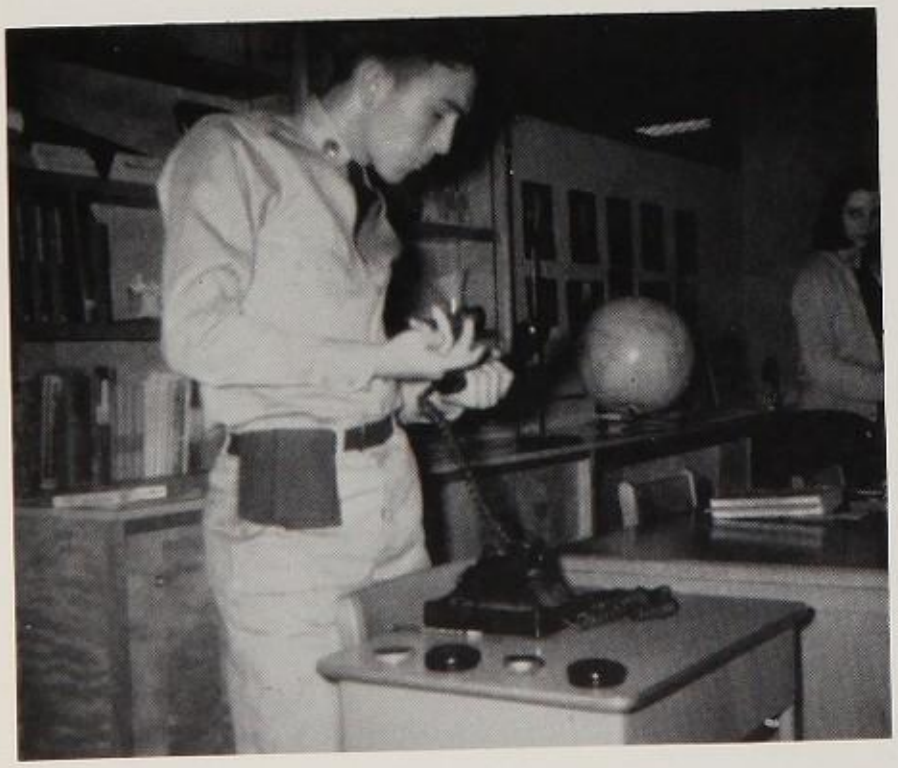
Algebra I helps to teach the fundamentals of higher math. Mr. Boydstun's class watches closely as he explains to them how to solve equalities and inequalities. He believes that the classes benefit greatly from board explanations.

Math teaches one to think, especially Advanced Math, which provides a student with a solid background for college courses. Clarence Adams, Katherine Nutt, and Eddie Jordan examine a problem in Mr. Wilder's class involving a trigonometric equation.



Chemistry experiments intrigue the young learners as they do lab work. Ronald Spigener, Mike Baudry, Raleigh Whitehead, and Bob Petrus perform a chemistry experiment involving the collection of oxygen by checking the properties of hydrogen.

Science Students Do Required Projects



Robert Joe Odell disassembles part of a telephone and explains each part for an experiment in Mrs. Hicks General Science class for a unit on the study of sound.

In order to graduate, a Woodlawn student must complete two units in science. He may choose from any of the four courses offered. General Science gives a general survey of all the sciences. Biology emphasizes the life sciences and the factors affecting them. Chemistry deals with the composition and properties of substances, and physics deals with the interaction of matter and energy.

Lectures, demonstrations, discussions, and lab experiments are used to teach effectively. Chemistry and physics experiments offer intrigue as the students watch the reactions. Microscopic studies, dissections of frogs and earthworms, and the study of the plastic human skeleton afford interest also.

Most of the science teachers find that special projects are most effective in maintaining student interest. Most teachers require one major report or research paper during the second semester.

Mostly sophomores take biology and general science whereas juniors and seniors register in chemistry and physics.

In Mr. White's Physics class Wayne Garlington and David McCallum perform an experiment and record their findings in conjunction with their study of the inclined plane.

Biology students, Kenneth Everage, Rene Hargis, Pickett Walther, and Dolly Caliway examine the plastic models of the body organs which are used by the biology classes in the study of the human body and its functions.

Chemistry students, Robert Brown and Lyn Malcom, test some chemicals to see what reactions will occur. They try to determine which are good conductors of heat, which are water hydrates, and whether or not they contain oxygen.

A combination of Latin III and IV—the only such class—is taught during first period each day by Mrs. Mary Curlin. Several from this class of eager, advanced students cluster around the map as the teacher traces the journey of Aeneas.

Florence Saxon tries to convince her Speech I class that a certain condemned man was innocent of the crime.

French students, Barbara Roberts, Jimmy Roper, Charles Tucker, Shirley Slay, and Andy Twyman follow along in their book as the teacher, Miss Margaret Van Rossum, reads for them the lesson she had assigned for their homework the night before.

Languages Induce Student Projects

Woodlawn offers three foreign languages—Latin, French, and Spanish. Vergil's Aeneid is being taught in Latin III and IV this year for the first time. While taking Latin, students make models of Roman war machines and chariots, and they cook and eat Roman foods.

French classes debate on topics such as French education vs. American education. French III was offered this year for the first time.

Spanish is enriched by using records to accompany the text.

Journalism classes hear editors and photographers speak, and they visit print shops. Each keeps a notebook for the year on newsclippings about one subject to observe history in the making.

Speech I teaches a student to speak before a group while Speech II is a course in drama. The drama students attended two dress rehearsals at Centenary.

Their Speech II classmates had a treat as Bill Lowe and Debbye Whitney practiced their parts for the play "True Blue and Trusted" which was given at the Carnival.

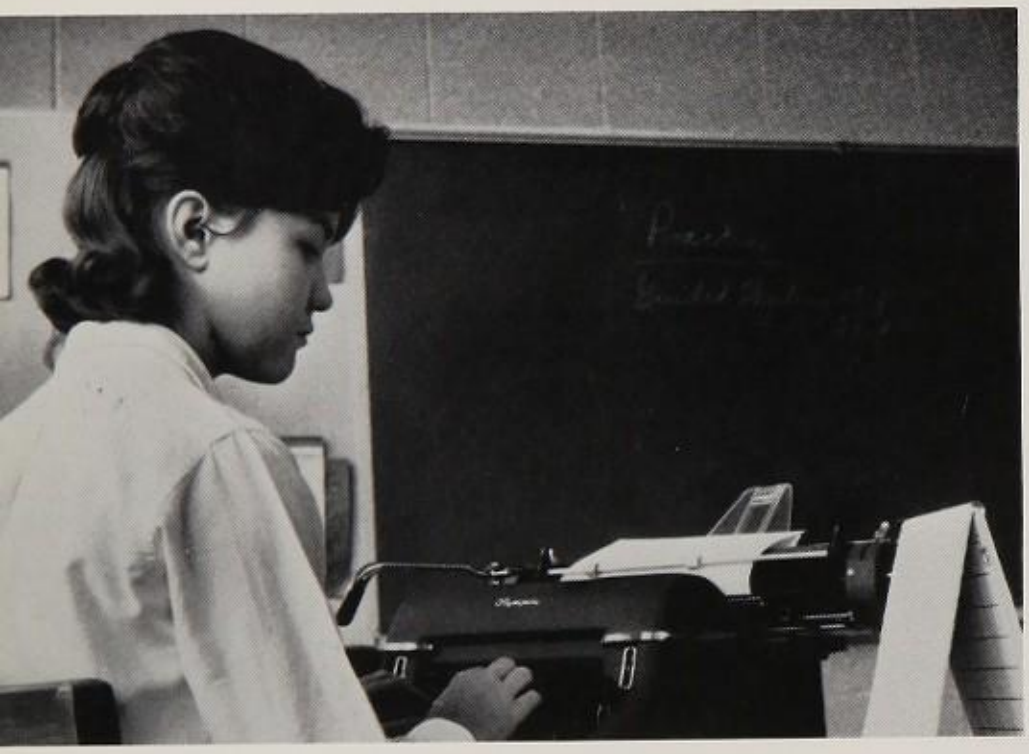
Admiring the pinata that the Spanish Club got for a party are Spanish students Patsy Allen and Cheri Lyon.

Is the old hoola hoop fad back? No, Ronnie Goodwin uses one to give a required demonstration talk in Speech I.

Mary Thompson, David Waddell, and Donna Albritton make a final check on the Roman Forum they reconstructed for a Latin project. All students did a project.

Business Teachers Number Seven

Glenda Hutchinson's fingers whiz along as she transcribes a letter from notes she took during Shorthand II class. This course is designed to train one to transcribe a mailable first copy from notes taken at high speeds.



Students who do well in business subjects in school may attain a job after graduation without further training. The business curriculum includes seven subjects—Typing, Shorthand I, Shorthand II, Business Math, Business English, Bookkeeping, and Clerical Office Practice.

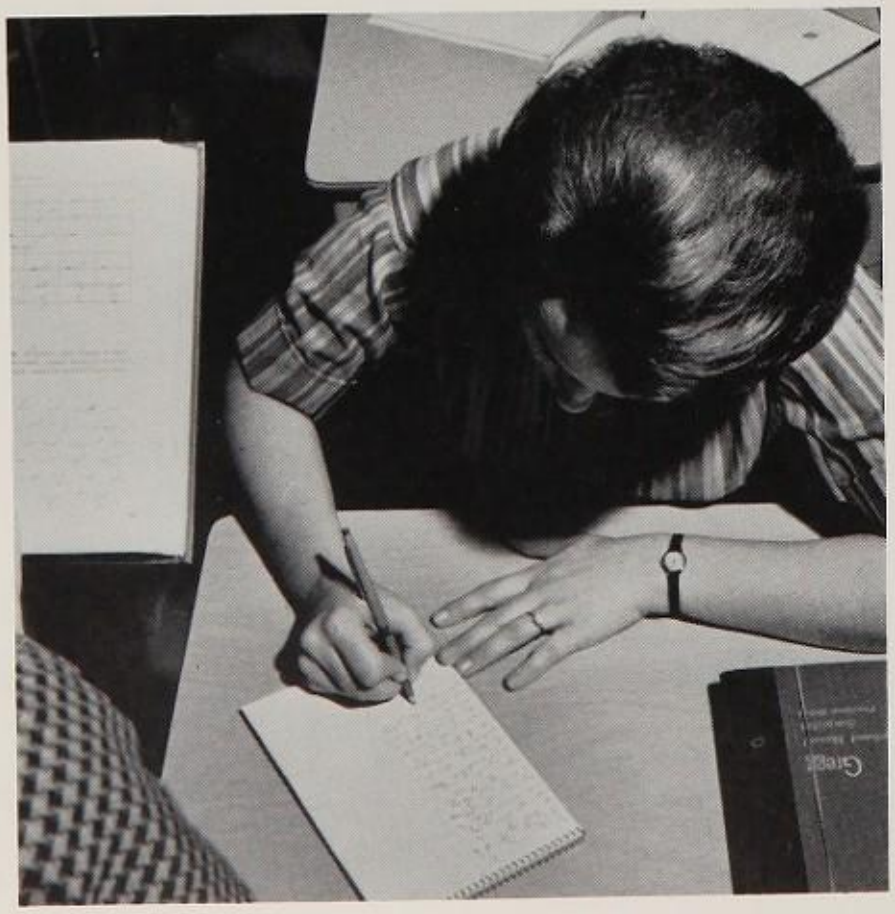
Typing is probably one of the most useful courses as many who take it do so for personal use. Lectures are used only occasionally by business teachers as individual help seems to be more effective. All three typing rooms, with 32 typewriters each, are used six periods each day. Timed writings and typing to musical records keep the students fascinated, so they constantly strive to better their own record.

One of the more interesting courses is Clerical Office Practice. Five groups rotate and work on a different phase—typing, filing, office machines—for an assigned period. As a project for the year, a selected group typed a booklet entitled "Helps For a Secretary."

A second class in Shorthand II was added this year to take care of the added students who wanted it.

RIGHT: Marion Ziobrowski and Larry Netherland employ two of the adding machines to total their figures on a six column worksheet during third period bookkeeping.

BELOW: Looking over the corner of the teacher's shorthand book as she dictates, one observes that Linda Eubanks does a fine job for a first year student in taking dictation.



Oral drills during class periods are extremely helpful in teaching grammar. Miss Loper drills her Business English class on adjectives and other parts of speech. This helpful course will make letter writing easier for office workers.

LEFT: It takes a lot of effort and concentration to gain desired finger control, but Miss Smith's Typing class works to achieve that control. BELOW: Judy Matheson, Vivian Farrell, and June Ogburn put on a stencil and prepare to learn how to operate the mimeograph machine as a part of their training in Clerical Office Practice.

Students Elect Subjects For Variety

Most students enjoy the required courses that they take in high school, but nearly everyone likes to take a few subjects just because he chooses to. Special interest courses add a little spice to the required curriculum.

Many of the courses are very practical ones. General Metals, Graphic Arts, and Woodwork give actual practice and preparation for a trade profession.

Housing and Family Finance stresses the roll of economics in the family. Home and Family Living impresses young people with personal attitudes that lead to success in marriage and family living.

Mechanical Drawing gives students an insight into architecture and teaches them basic principles of engineering. Late in the year some students built a house model, and some entered drawings in area Industrial Arts Fairs.

Agriculture teaches the use of surveying tools, forestry measuring devices, and vaccinating equipment. The group took field trips to US Experiment Farms and fertilizer companies.

Any of these subjects will help to brighten many a day for the students who take them.

Donny Zeagler and John Mustian do practice welding on a piece of scrap metal before starting on a regular project like building a barbecue pit.

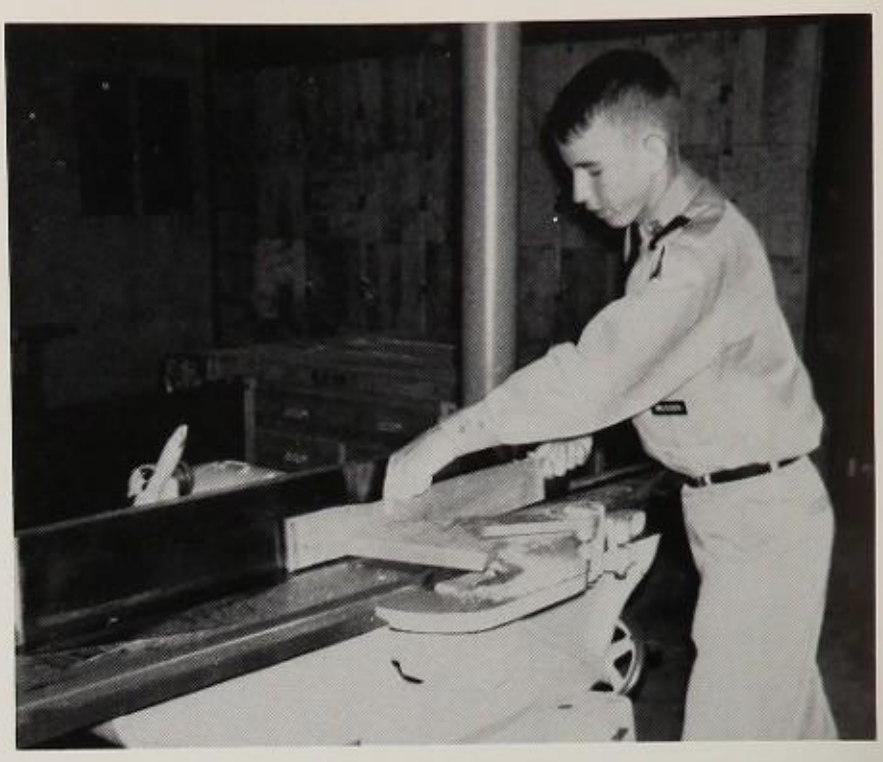
Betty Tyler threads a needle while Mrs. Young corrects a mistake on her suit.

John Ellis parks the car after a driving lesson. Coach Adcox says he doesn't worry about student driving as there is a brake on his side.

Woodwork students may choose their own projects. Four boys—Jay Nichols, Mike Brooks, Ken Lollar, and Herman Skyles—display the articles that they made as class work. The students also choose the finish that they apply to the articles.

Music Appreciation students, Bill Powell, Toni Williams, and Nancy Adams listen to "Swan Lake Ballet" by Tchaikowsky.

As Mr. McKinnon watches, Larry Wells uses a Biltmore Stick to estimate the yield of standing timber on the campus for an agriculture class.



Special Interest Courses Offer Appeal

Mechanical Drawing I teaches the basis for architectural work. Students begin by drawing from pictures. Ronnie Hooper sketches as Mr. Crowder and Gary Chatelain look at some drawings that have been completed.

EXTREME LEFT: Jack Lenox and Lynn Choate work with the platen press to print absentee forms for the teachers.

LEFT: Jerry Wilcoxen is learning a skill as he uses the joiner, a long plane used in dressing boards.

Art student, Larry Netherland, is dressed for the job as he works at the potter's wheel and shapes a piece of pottery.

Home Economics III students are required to tailor a garment in class. To fit it properly, Barbara Fonville tries on the full-length tweed coat she is making. Jeanne Annison checks a bound buttonhole and the interfacing for her.

"Apartments Leveling Off," reads the headline of The Dallas Morning News displayed by Howie Ingols. He, Barbara Foster, and Noel Haston used newspapers for research on a housing unit in Housing and Family Finance.

Jo a very sweet girl.
Hope to see you next year.
We enjoyed knowing you.

Honors

Growth in this area is not so noticeable as in the others already cited. Perhaps the number of honors awarded and the number of recipients have increased since the first year, but one thing to be noted here is that the basis for receiving these awards remains the same.

For five years now, acclaim has been given to those who deserve ~~rec~~ognition. Annually, Woodlawn's accolade goes to those who possess outstanding qualities, to those who go beyond the call of duty, to those who obtain high scholastic goals, to those who accomplish something to benefit the school, to those who render service to Woodlawn, and to those who win the school's highest elective honors.

Through the years there have been Miss and Mr. Woodlawns, kings and queens, favorites and beauties. Several have won scholarships for scholastic ability; some have held state offices in a school organization. Three have rated All State honors in sports and one made All American. One student now serves on a youth council which will report to President Lyndon B. Johnson. One graduate received appointment to the Air Force Academy, and many others could be added to the illustrious list.

Five years may be short in terms of history, but this short time has been long enough for fame to come to students and former students.

Miss and Mr. Woodlawn High School

Pat Rice

Jerry Humphries

Two Woodlawn Scholars Win Highest Honor

Pat Rice, elected Miss Woodlawn by the student body, has participated in many school activities. She served in the 1963 Accolade Court and in the 1963 and 1964 Homecoming Courts. Serving as a cheerleader in both her junior and senior years, Pat was chosen Head Cheerleader her last year at WHS. Pat is a member of National Honor Society and Quill & Scroll, and she attended Pelican Girls' State. She is also a member of the Accolade Ad Staff and serves as a Key Club sponsor.

Reading, drawing, and tennis number among Pat's favorite pastimes. After graduation she plans to study psychology at Louisiana Tech.

Mr. Woodlawn, Jerry Humphries, who has long been a favorite with Woodlawn students was named Sophomore and Junior Favorite. Chosen King of the 1965 Pageant of the Accolade, Jerry had previously been elected to the court both as a sophomore and junior. Jerry is also a member of the National Honor Society, the Latin Club, and he served as a Student Council Senator.

Sports occupied much of Jerry's time as shown by the fact that he lettered in football all three years at WHS and in track his sophomore and junior years. He also enjoys camping out.

Jerry is planning to attend Texas University.

Class Favorites

Senior Favorites Relax As They Study

JACK HARPER has been active in Student Council work serving as Sophomore Senator, Parliamentarian as a junior, and President in his senior year. He was a member of the Key Club and the National Honor Society. Long an outstanding member of the 4-H Club, Jack is serving on President Johnson's 4-H Council, and he was elected to the 1964 and 1965 Accolade Courts.

MARGARET HAWTHORNE served in the Accolade Court and was elected a Beauty in her sophomore year. She attended Pelican Girls' State. In her senior year Margaret served as a Student Council Representative and was elected to the 1964 Homecoming Court. Margaret, a Lt. Col. Sponsor, was also Sponsor of the NDCC Drill Team and worked on the Football Ad Staff.

Junior Favorites Relive Past Two Years

TOMMY SPINKS, a young man who plays quarterback in football, was chosen by his fellow classmates as Junior Favorite. He was elected Junior Class Vice President and served as a Squire in the 1965 Accolade Pageant. Tommy lettered in track his sophomore year and in football his junior year. He enjoys swimming and sports, especially football. After graduating from Woodlawn, he plans to attend Southern Methodist University.

NANCY NEWBURY, Junior Favorite, enjoys cooking, sewing, and is interested in archaeology. As a Junior Senator, much of her time is taken by Student Council work. Nancy was a Lady in the Accolade Pageant in her Sophomore and Junior years, was elected Sophomore Favorite, and is a member of the Lancerettes. Her future plans are to attend college and major in social or secretarial work.

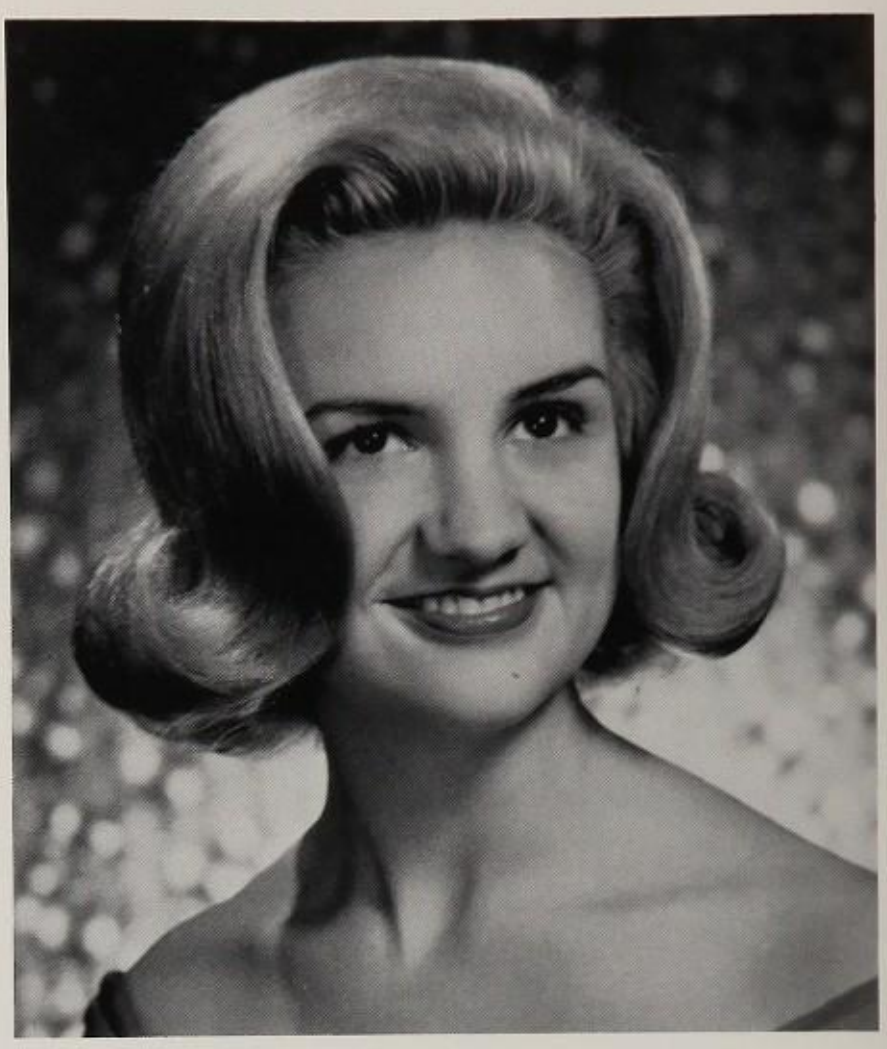
WALLY HOOD, football tackle, played in all the B team and sophomore games this year. Wally, who relates that he was stunned at his election as Sophomore Favorite, was Mr. Oak Terrace last year in junior high school. This young man enjoys fishing, fox hunting, and riding horses. As a member of the Southside Saddle Club, he has won four first place ribbons in local rodeos.

JANICE MATTHEWS enjoys swimming, horseback riding, and is interested in gymnastics. She was chosen a Sophomore Beauty is a Maid of the 1965 Accolade Pageant. Janice is also a member of the Pep Squad. To attend Northwestern State College or Baylor University to study nursing is her future plan. She says that being chosen Sophomore Favorite was one of the happiest moments of her life.

Woodlawn

Beauties

PAT RICE, Miss Woodlawn, was in the Homecoming Court for the past two years. She, as Head Cheerleader, played her part in promoting the famed Woodlawn Spirit.



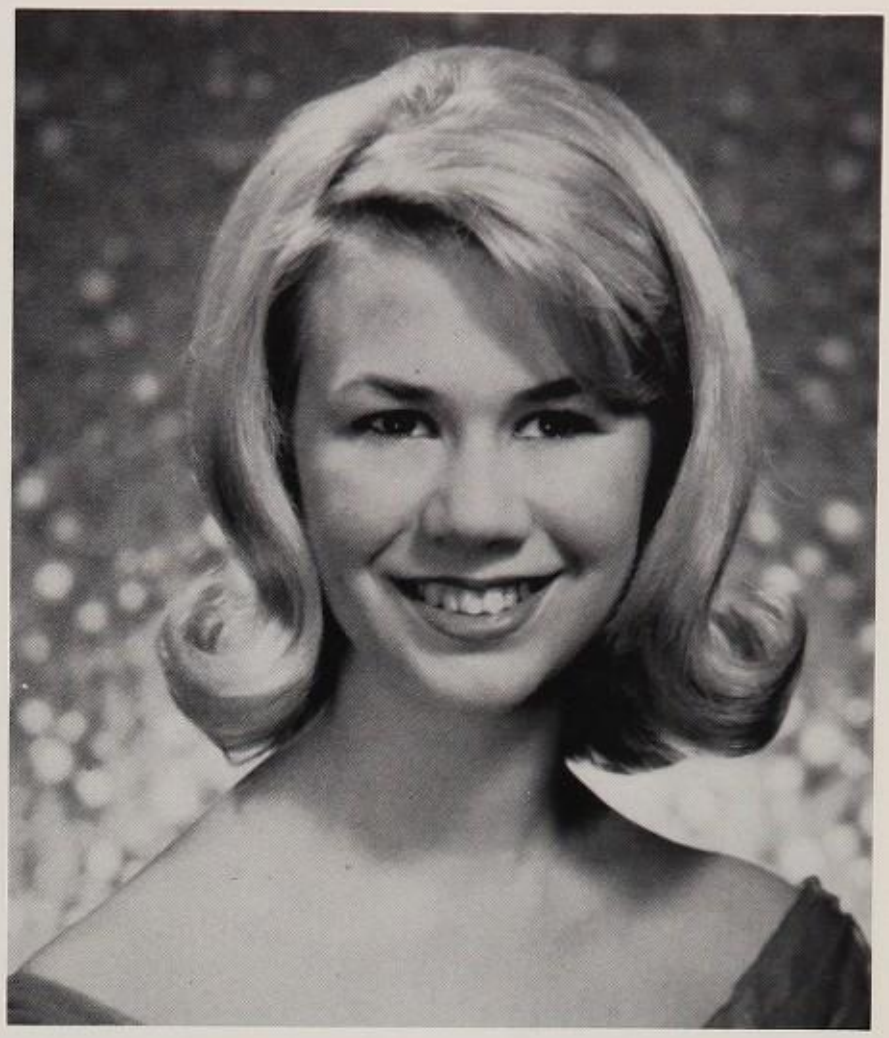
JANE CANTRELL, twice elected a beauty, was in the Accolade Pageant last year and the Homecoming Court this year. She plans to attend Abilene Christian College.

Eight Young Ladies Are Elected Beauties

PAM FAIN, a cheerleader for two years, enjoys skiing, swimming, and tennis. Pam eagerly anticipates attending Louisiana State University to major in French.

BRENDA BOYETTE has been elected a class beauty for all three years she has been in high school. Brenda, who was Homecoming Queen, has summer marriage plans.

HELEN CHARPING, a second-year Key Club Sponsor and a Junior Lady in the 1965 Accolade Pageant, enjoys playing tennis. Helen also works on the yearbook staff.

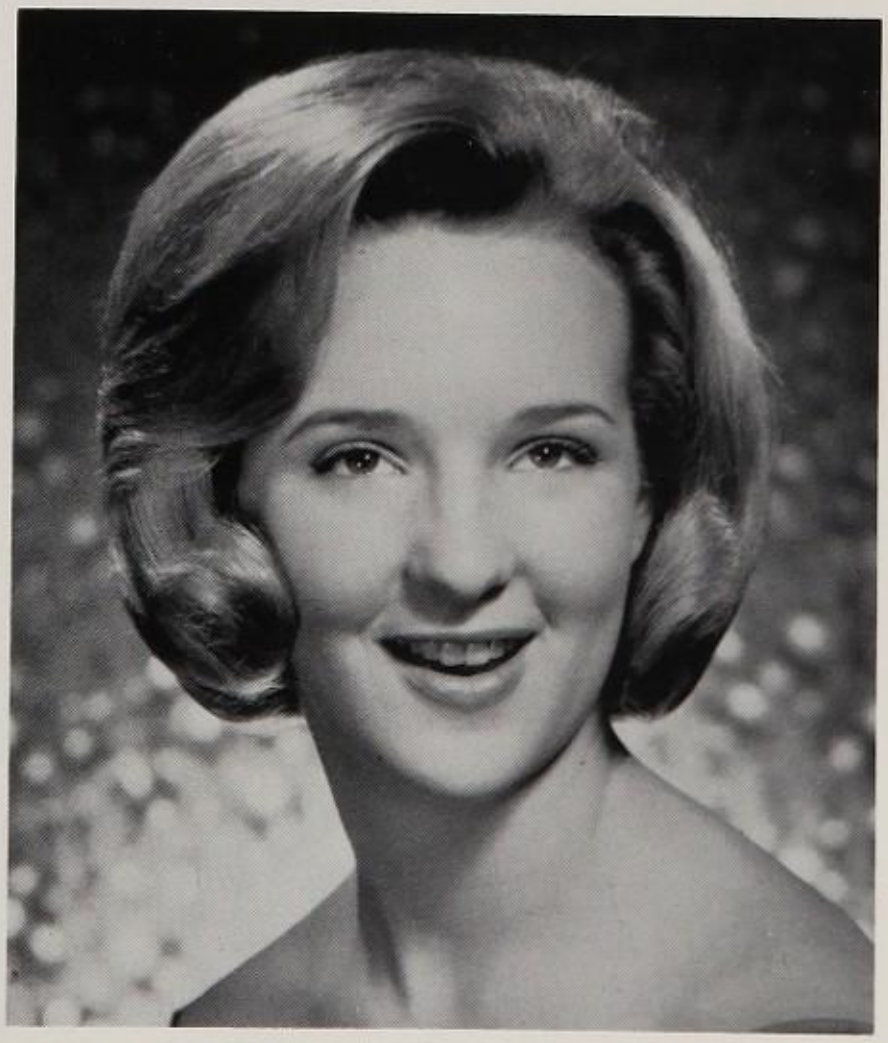


SUSIE WRIGHT, Junior Cheerleader and Key Club Sponsor, enjoys cheering and swimming. Susie, who is in the French and Drama Clubs, hopes to teach in high school.

By Woodlawn High School Students

CECELIA BROCK participated in the 1964 Homecoming Court as a Sophomore Maid, and she was elected a Key Club Sponsor. Cecelia also played in the Woodlawn Band.

JANICE MATTHEWS has been a popular young lady in her first year at Woodlawn as she has won three honors—Class Favorite, Beauty, and Accolade Pageant attendant.



Snow Postpones Accolade Pageant

Snow holidays are always welcomed by Woodlawn students, but this year's first snow didn't bring the usual joy. The Pageant of the Accolade, one of the most important events of the school year, had to be postponed. The 1965 ceremony and dance were originally scheduled for Friday, February 26, but it snowed on Wednesday, February 24. Because of the snow and a large number of absentees due to a flu epidemic, school was dismissed for the rest of that week. Sighs of disappointment were heard throughout the Castle, but the event was re-scheduled and presented on Friday, March 5.

Miss Blackbourne's art classes, with a scene from Camelot in mind, painted trees in springtime colors to decorate the stage for this event. Green archways and a green-draped throne completed the setting. The olive green-and-gold brocade gowns and the green satin shoes of the court ladies complimented the spring scene. These soft colors provided a stunning background for the white-and-silver brocade gown worn by Queen Martha Sanders. The court ladies carried tangerine-colored bouquets, and the queen's scepter was entwined with ivy and white carnations.

Appropriate music was used for the ceremony with the King and Queen entering to the Triumphal March from Aida by Verde. Several teachers helped with the pageant plans, with Mr. Dunn and Mrs. Curlin serving as co-ordinators.

KING

RIGHT: Jerry Humphries, Mr. Woodlawn, was also elected to be the King of the Accolade Pageant. He participates in three sports, the National Honor Society, the Latin Club, and is a Student Council Senator.

QUEEN

FAR RIGHT: Queen Martha Sanders is president of the Girls' Choir, a member of National Honor Society, Senior Class Chaplain, and is an active member of NFL. She said, "Nothing like this ever happened to me before."

TOP LEFT: One recipient of the Knights' Accolade was Trey Prather. Trey lettered in football, baseball, and track all three years at Woodlawn and was named All State in football. He will attend LSU.

TOP RIGHT: Ken Liberto, who was honored at the pageant, lettered in football two years and in basketball and baseball three years. He made the All State football team and will attend La. Tech.

BOTTOM LEFT: Knighted in the 1965 Accolade Pageant was Gerald Burnett. He is a member of the National Honor Society and was a three-year letterman in football and track at Woodlawn.

BOTTOM RIGHT: Jack Harper, Student Council President, was also knighted. Jack, long an active 4-H Club member is currently serving as one of 11 national "Report-to-the-Nation" delegates.

Queen Martha watches King Jerry confer the Accolade of Knighthood upon one of the four senior boys.

Queen Brenda Crowned By Mr. Turner

Sir Knight stood guard as the 1964 Homecoming Queen, Brenda Boyette, and her court were ushered onto the football field of the Fairgrounds Stadium during the half-time ceremonies of the Woodlawn-Neville game, played on November 6. The Queen and the ten maids were escorted by graduates of the Class of 1964.

Participating in this annual event were the Woodlawn Band led by Drum Major Fred Chevalier, the Lancerettes, Woodlawn's Pep Squad, led by Col: Jeanne Annison, and the Lancer Drill Platoon led by Cadet Commander Lt. Col. Martin Philyaw, Cadet Deputy Commander Major Erwin Parish, and sponsor Barbara Shaw.

The mighty Knights plunged to a victory of 28-14 over Neville to please the Homecoming Court, which was presented in half-time ceremonies. The band, pep squad, and drill team assisted in this annual event.

Rainy weather did not dampen the spirits of the Woodlawn Knights in anticipation of the 1964 Homecoming activities. Mud-spattered and rain-soaked Lancerettes worked for hours Friday afternoon attaching tissue flowers to the platform to be used to seat the court during the game. Cheerleaders, Pat Rice, Judy Cole, Pam Fain, and Susie Wright, later to be presented as Senior and Junior Maids in the court, spent their day climbing ladders in the pouring rain trying to persuade wet tape to stick to wet crepe paper and wet goal posts. While all this activity was going on, Student Council members transformed a room of the American Legion Club into a "Wonderland by Knight." This was the theme chosen for the Homecoming Dance.

While the cheerleaders participated in Friday night's ceremonies as members of the Homecoming Court, Woodlawn supporters in the stands were led in cheers and chants by former cheerleaders Charlotte Hudson, Barbara Norrid, and Sheila Mondello.

This year's faculty sponsors for the Homecoming event were Mrs. Mickey Fair, Mrs. Martha Watson, and Mrs. Virginia King.

Former graduates of WHS joined the Knights in dancing to the music of the Impacts led by Vince Authement at the American Legion Club. "Wonderland by Knight" was the theme chosen by the Student Council for the Homecoming Dance.

Brenda Boyette, escorted by Keith Hetrick, was crowned Homecoming Queen by the Principal, Mr. Earl Turner.

There are many reasons for being called to the principal's office, but for these girls it was to learn of their election to the Homecoming Court. Brenda, Cecelia, and Pat (right) smiled about it all as they stood around and talked, but Susie Wright and Patti Hodge (above) were comforted as they shed tears of joy.

Ken Liberto and Trey Prather were both outstanding athletes during their three years at Woodlawn. Ken was an All-State end in football, a sport in which he lettered two years. In basketball, he was a three-year starter and the leading scorer for his last two years. He also lettered three times in baseball. Trey was a three-year letterman in football, basketball, and baseball and was chosen as an All-State quarterback last fall. Both boys hold numerous records in the sports they participated in.

Two Knights Win All-State Honors

Jane Cantrell, serving as Caddo Parish Farm Bureau Queen, won the state title last summer over 33 other contestants. As Louisiana Farm Bureau Queen, Jane has participated in festivals all over Louisiana. While attending the 1965 Sugar Bowl activities, she met Miss America and Miss Great Britain. Jane was presented at the Mardi Gras Ball in Washington, D. C., in February. She also toured the White House and met Lynda Bird Johnson.

Cadet Receives Highest National Honor

The Legion of Valor Award was presented to NDCC Cadet Col. Jerry Jefcoat by Admiral Griffith, USN (Ret.). In competition with fifty cadets in this area, Jefcoat was judged on leadership ability and academic standing. Only six such NDCC awards are presented annually in the US. Jefcoat is Battalion Commander at WHS and Deputy Commander of the Shreveport Brigade.

As one of the eleven "Report-to-the-Nation Delegates," he will travel this summer over the USA and will later report to President Johnson.

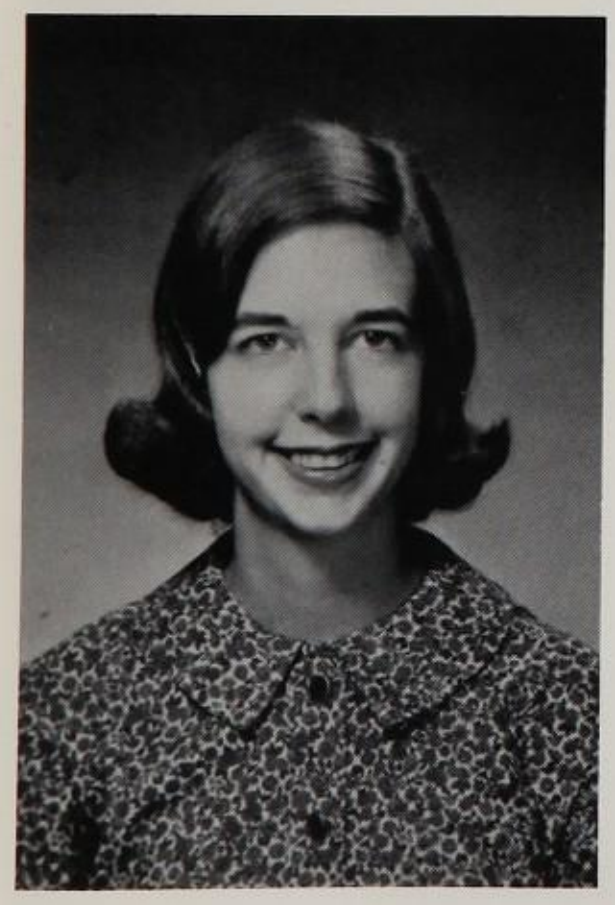
During Youth Appreciation Week, November 13, 1964, Sheryl Garner and Jerry Jefcoat were presented the "Pat 'Em On The Back" award. The presentation is made annually to a boy and girl from each high school by the Optimist Clubs of Shreveport and Bossier in recognition and appreciation of youth for displaying leadership in the home, school, church, and community.

Henry Hungerbeeler, US Air Force Academy Class of 1968, received appointment from Rep. Joe D. Waggoner. Henry, Woodlawn's first graduate to be an academy appointee, was among 1002 who qualified from 5532 applicants.

WHS Club Members Hold State Offices

Attending the 4-H Short Course in Baton Rouge last summer brought a reward to Jeanne Annison—that of being elected State Secretary of 4-H clubs. Jeanne, along with the other officers and delegates on the executive council, met twice to plan activities for the state organization. This active club member has also held many parish offices.

Mary Margaret Higginbotham, who hopes to attend Centenary, was the Woodlawn student chosen to receive the DAR citizenship award. Mary, along with the recipients from the other high schools, was presented a certificate and pin from the DAR. They were also honored with a luncheon. Mary enjoys reading, churchwork, and music.



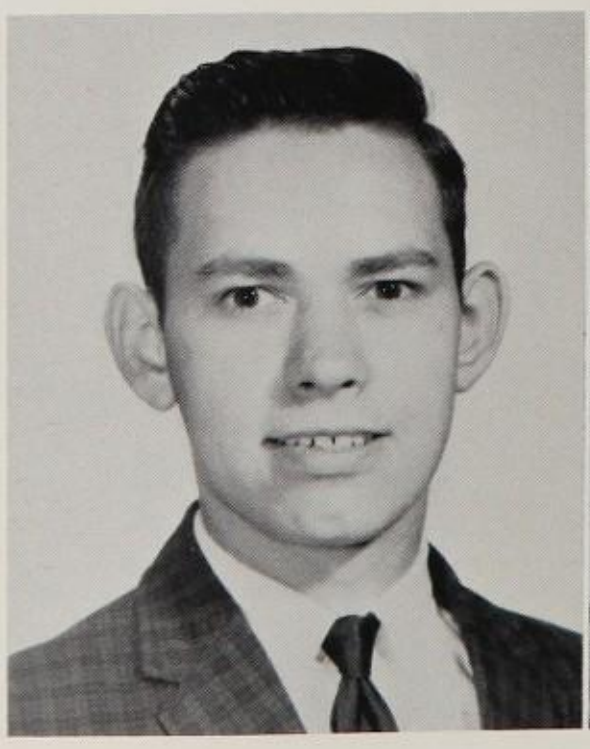
At the Junior Classical League Convention held last April in Baton Rouge, Kay King was elected State Public Relations Officer. It is her duty to handle state-wide publicity for this organization of Latin clubs. Kay, who keeps a scrapbook of state activities, is on the executive board which meets three times a year. She is helping to plan the state meet for this year.

LEFT: Wayne Garlington, National Merit Scholarship finalist who plans to take the Pre-Med. course at Louisiana Tech, is a member of the Student Medical Association and the President of the Junior Medical Association.

TOP LEFT: Byron Sprawls participated in football, baseball, and Student Council. He was a member of the Key Club and National Honor Society in his junior and senior years. Byron plans to study engineering at Louisiana Tech.

LOWER RIGHT: Dale Ward, a finalist who enjoys working with radios in his spare time, plans to study electrical engineering at Louisiana Tech. He is President of the Industrial Arts Club and Deputy Rifle Team Commander.

TOP RIGHT: Bill Lowe, who plans to attend Louisiana Tech, is a member of the Drama Club and the Creative Writing Club. His favorite subject is chemistry. To verify finalist position, winners take the Scholastic Aptitude Test.



Caddo Parish 4-H Club President, Steve McFerrin, will preside over executive council meetings and over Achievement Day. The last five Caddo 4-H Club presidents have been Woodlawn students.

Linda Garvin, who is 4-H Club Parish Secretary, is responsible for taking notes at all parish meetings. After seven years in 4-H work, Linda's main projects are dairy cows and clothing.

Three Place In All-State Groups

ALL-STATE—BELOW

Mike Simmons, who won the position of first chair second trumpet in the All-State Band competition, has also won first chair in the National High School Band and Northwestern Band Camp.

Stanley Ward, winner of fourth chair French Horn in All-State Band competition, plays first chair French Horn at Woodlawn. He is also in the Shreveport Senior High Symphony and the All-City Honor Band.

Janet Moon, first chair bassoon in the All-State Orchestra, has also been in the Shreveport Junior and Senior High Symphony and held first chair position in the Holiday in Dixie Band.

Wilson H. Harrington, Jr., who has a hobby of collecting picture postcards, is a remarkable person. He is somewhat physically disabled, yet he has attended three classes daily. This is his first year ever to go to a public school as he has attended the Caddo Exceptional School for 14 years. Wilson says, "I have enjoyed meeting the kids here and making new friends."

Attending Leadership Conference were Ray Jackson for the HERALD; Kandy Morrow, HERALD; Sandi Tison, HERALD, and Nico Van Thyn, ACCOLADE.

Nine Went To Summer Leadership At LSU

The annual Leadership Conference at LSU was attended by nine Woodlawn students. They received instruction in newspaper and yearbook production, library work and recreational activities.

Newspaper delegates were taught principles and styles involved in high school newspaper work. They also created their own publication of which Sandi Tison served as news editor and Kandy Morrow as recreation editor.

In the second phase of journalism, yearbook production, delegates learned principles of copy writing, selecting pictures, and drawing layouts.

Speech delegates practiced principles of interpretation and discussion. This department also produced and presented a series of one-act plays.

Library delegates worked on library advisement and general efficiency. They toured the LSU and Louisiana State Libraries.

Delegates in the recreational field learned games and provided entertainment.

Leadership Conference Delegates Sandra Wellborn represented the Library; Jerelyn Coker, Library; Sherry Jones, Recreation; Shellye Abington, Speech; and Martha Sanders, Speech.

Thirteen Knights Go To Pelican State

In the spring of each year the junior class at Woodlawn elects five girls and eight boys to attend Pelican State.

Held in August on the campus of Louisiana State University, its purpose is to educate youth in the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship. Its plan is to train the students in leadership of local, parish and state government.

The delegates choose their own officials in regular elections, introduce and argue their own bills, and the justice is administered by their own law enforcement agencies and courts. Each student is expected to enter his candidacy for election to the government of his choice and to enter all phases and activities of the program. Here each girl and boy "learns to do by doing."

"It's Great!" Says Romelia About WHS

Woodlawn's second Foreign Exchange Student, Romelia Lopez Canadas, came to the U. S. from Quito, Ecuador. Says Romelia about WHS: "It has been great being at Woodlawn this year. I think I couldn't find a better school in the world; its people and its ways are one of the things I really enjoyed in the States." Woodlawn students enjoyed Romelia's stay almost as much as she. Romelia will be leaving many new friends behind when she returns to Ecuador.

Romelia, who enjoys living with her "American family," the P. L. Giddens, will join other exchange student in the American Field Service Program in Washington, D. C. this summer where they will be entertained by the President. They will also tour the United States.

A former cheerleader at American High School in Quito, Romelia, as an honorary member of Woodlawn's Pep Squad, enthusiastically cheered the Knight teams. She also served as an honorary member of the 1964 Homecoming Court, the Student Council, and the Accolade Pageant.

Romelia loved out-of-town football games. About the rainy state play-off trip she says, "I couldn't believe it; I was so wet."

This Latin American lass, who is taking secretarial courses here at Woodlawn, plans to attend junior college and become a legal secretary when she returns to her native country.

National Honor Society Has Forty-Two

The National Honor Society looks upon education as a total product, measured by the four dimensions of life—Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service. Society programs are dignified and impressive for they bestow honor on those students who excel in the scholastic field.

Members of the Woodlawn chapter must have a 3.0 average academically, but they must also rate high in service, character, and leadership as well.

Prominent among the many activities of this honor group are the annual spring banquet and the impressive induction of new members in an April assembly. The group had an additional activity this year as members participated for the first time in the NDCC Carnival.

Names of forty-two people, the largest number since the chapter was founded, are listed on the membership roll this year.

Bobby Basinger, President of the National Honor Society, makes plans with fellow officers, Ken Harrison, Vice President; Donna Cook, Secretary-Treasurer; Martha Sanders, Chaplain and Mrs. Susie Whitaker, Advisor; concerning the annual spring banquet and induction of new members.

Quill and Scroll Head Is Paper Editor

The Quill and Scroll is a national honor society for journalists and those in related fields. The Woodlawn chapter was granted its charter on April 17, 1962. This organization seeks to recognize and reward individual staff members for their particular talents and abilities. The Woodlawn chapter is an honorary one so there is no calendar of activities.

To be a member of Quill and Scroll a person must be an active member of one of the publication staffs—the editorial or business staff of the HERALD or the ACCOLADE or the Football Program Ad Staff. Students must maintain a high average, be recommended by their faculty advisor, and meet the requirements of the Quill and Scroll Society. Induction ceremonies for new members were held in April. Mrs. Elizabeth Lawson is the advisor.

NFL Members
In Tournament Of Champions

The National Forensic League is in effect a national honor society for debaters. Its main purpose is to stimulate interest and activity in speech and interscholastic debate. To become a member, a debater must earn twenty-five NFL points in interscholastic competition and have a C+ average.

The Woodlawn NFL invites debate teams from Fair Park, Jesuit, Byrd, or Bossier at least twice each month to compete with the WHS squad. Regularly scheduled meetings are held the third Thursday of each month.

The Woodlawn group also travels to many out-of-town tournaments. This year they went to North Texas State University in Denton, Texas, La. Tech, Northwestern, Northeast, and Centenary. All of the members have won several competition awards.

To produce money for their activities, Woodlawn's NFL sold cotton candy at the NDCC carnival and helped produce the Senior Play. They contributed Christmas baskets of food and toys to needy families.

The question chosen this year by the national organization to be debated was:

Resolved: Nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization.

This year's club, sponsored by Mrs. Alice Richardson, adopted a new constitution and added several new tournaments.

Military

The NDCC enrollment has doubled in size in five years. Membership has grown from two companies—88 cadets and 12 sponsors—in the first year to four companies—175 cadets and 14 sponsors—in the current year. The fifth school session shows that 20% of the boys enrolled at Woodlawn are corps members.

Cadets in 1960 did not have uniforms for a few weeks, and the armory facilities and weapons were not available until mid-term that year. However, the waiting was forgotten when the new facilities were opened. Woodlawn cadets have the most outstanding armory and drill facilities for a public school in the Fourth Army Area. This area, which covers five states, includes 50 NDCC units and approximately 40 ROTC units.

Only two class periods per day were needed for class instruction the first year. In 1965, with the enrollment doubled, four periods were required each day with one additional period per week scheduled for parades. The weekly parades have been held since the program was begun in Year One. This year only about three weeks of training were necessary to prepare the cadets for the first parade, whereas six weeks were required for the first parade in 1960.

The military program is now a well established part of the school, and the interest and enthusiasm seem to increase each year.

Didn't we have a grand team?!

NDCC Unit Has Parade Each Wednesday

Woodlawn's Cadet Corps, rated an Honor Unit each year after Federal Inspection, has a weekly Wednesday parade that demonstrates the marching skills learned in the cadet training program by 175 cadets and 14 sponsors. This training in the National Defense Cadet Corps, which is under the direction of two retired army officers, motivates young men toward a professional military career. It teaches them principles of leadership, discipline, orderliness, respect for authority, and military courtesy.

This three-year course, including Military Science I, II, and III, provides one credit per year towards graduation and may be taken in place of physical education. If this training is pursued at the college level, it may lead to a commission as a 2/Lt. in the Army Reserve or a commission in the Regular Army.

All textbooks used in this cadet program have been revised to include a study of the latest weapons used by the current "atomic army."

Many activities maintain the interest of the cadets and sponsors. NDCC participants enjoy the Lancer Drill Team, Rifle Team, Holiday In Dixie Parade, Veterans' Day Parade, Drill Team competition in Arlington, Texas, a two-week voluntary encampment at Fort Polk, a fall carnival, and half-time activities at football games. Perhaps the greatest event of the year is the Military Ball, which was held this year on January 29 in the Municipal Auditorium.

With clipboard in hand each morning before school, Mrs. Sylvia Adams, advisor for the NDCC Sponsors, checks the girls' uniforms. Beverly Richard is happy that her brass passed the test.

Two permanently assigned instructors—Hugh McClary, Lt. Col., USA (Ret.) and Henry E. Turner, Lt. Col., USA (Ret.)—guide the NDCC program. Together these two officers provide 15 years of ROTC and NDCC experience.

Organized in the school year of 1962-63, the Woodlawn Rifle Team has rapidly gained the interest of NDCC cadets. Its main purpose is to promote safety and marksmanship training. Any cadet interested in marksmanship and having the desire to allot extra time for the program is qualified for membership. The team members practice every afternoon Tuesday through Friday in the rifle range.

The Rifle Team has been very active this year by participating in several rifle matches. It has won first place in the District National Rifle Association Match at Center, Texas, second place at the Fourth Army National ROTC and NDCC Rifle Match, and fourth place in the Shreveport City Rifle League.

As members of the National Rifle Association, the Rifle Team this year became members of the Woodlawn Junior ROTC Rifle Club.

Having shown outstanding marksmanship, Eddie Jordan and Richard McComb received the Expert Marksman Medal from the National Rifle Association.

The Woodlawn Rifle Team is under the leadership of Lt. Col. Henry E. Turner.

Lancer Drill Team Rated First In City

Sponsors Margaret Hawthorne and Barbara Shaw observed as the Lancer Drill Team defeated rivals Byrd and Fair Park for the second straight year in city competition.

Under the sponsorship of Lt. Col. Hugh W. McClary, the Lancer Drill Team has become a source of pride for the corps and the school.

An hour of after-school practice three days a week has resulted in prize-winning precision drills, as the Lancers currently hold the title of "City Champions" —having defeated the Byrd and Fair Park drill teams for two successive years. They also won the title of "Holiday In Dixie Champions." Another outstanding honor was won when the group placed in the top ten (40 competed) teams in the Fourth Army Competition in Arlington, Texas.

Besides competition and exhibitions, Woodlawn has been represented several times by the Lancers. This year they appeared at football half-time shows, Homecoming, the presentation of Sir Knight, and a Parents' Club meeting.

CROWN IMPERIAL

Music

The Woodlawn Band has come a long way in the five years since the very first practice session held at Fair Park on July 5, 1960, the summer before Woodlawn opened. Some new instruments were available that year, but much of the first equipment had formerly been used by the Fair Park Orchestra. Some of those instruments have now been replaced, and additional new ones have been added.

Woodlawn fans applauded the band's first half-time show at the Fair Park football game. Band members appeared in blue jeans and white shirts for all performances until the uniforms arrived months after school opened.

Since that small first band of 41 appeared, membership has doubled to a total of 82 this year. There are 153 people in the total program which includes the Knights' Band, Intermediate Band, and a Stage Band.

Various ratings have been received in the five years, but the group went from a 2nd Division Rating in Year One to a Superior Rating in Year Five.

The director says, "The one outstanding thing I remember about the first band was the fantastic Esprit De Corps."

Three choir groups have made up the vocal music curriculum each year with an all Girls' Choir being added in the second year. Only 24 people sang in the first concert choir until mid-semester when the number was increased to 45. Choirs B and C are instructional only and do not perform publicly.

Dress-up clothes or formals were used for stage appearances the first year. Since then the girls in each choir have had identical dresses with matching shoes, and the boys have worn dark suits.

Performing at the annual L.M.E.A. Festival at NSC in March, the Concert Choir won a Superior Rating and the Girls' Choir rated Excellent. The Concert Choir also attended the State L.M.E.A. Festival held at Louisiana Tech in April.

Band Creates Vibrant Spirit At WHS

A vibrant spirit permeates the hearts of students as the different bands perform during pep rallies, football games, assemblies, festivals, and parades.

Practice sessions for the Concert Band are held daily during second period and often times after school. Mr. Jennings refers to the Concert Band as the "work horse" of the Instrumental Music Department as those students put in more time and energy than any of the others. They played at all twelve football games and the pep rallies, and they marched in the Holiday In Dixie and State Fair Parades. The group presented a winter concert for the student body, attended many festivals, and won its first Superior Rating at the Marching Festival in Bossier. They also had the honor to represent the Fourth Congressional District at Governor John J. McKeithen's Inaugural Parade last May 10.

The Knights' Band of 37 members, meeting fifth period each day, often relieves the Concert Band during third quarters at football games and takes trips with them. This band gave a night concert for the Woodlawn PTA on January 26.

A newly created Stage Band consisting of 22 members has been very active also. They played for the Shreveport Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs in the Crystal Ballroom of the Washington Youree Hotel, the Cedar Grove Kiwanis Club at the El Chico Restaurant, the Convention of the State Superintendents of Education at the Captain Shreve Hotel last November 23, the Band Parents' Club, the PTA and occasionally for pep rallies. Stage Band members practice only on Tuesday night.

There is still another instrumental group, the Intermediate Band, which practices during first period.

Band students not only receive one credit for their hard work, but they also have an enriching experience as they perform.

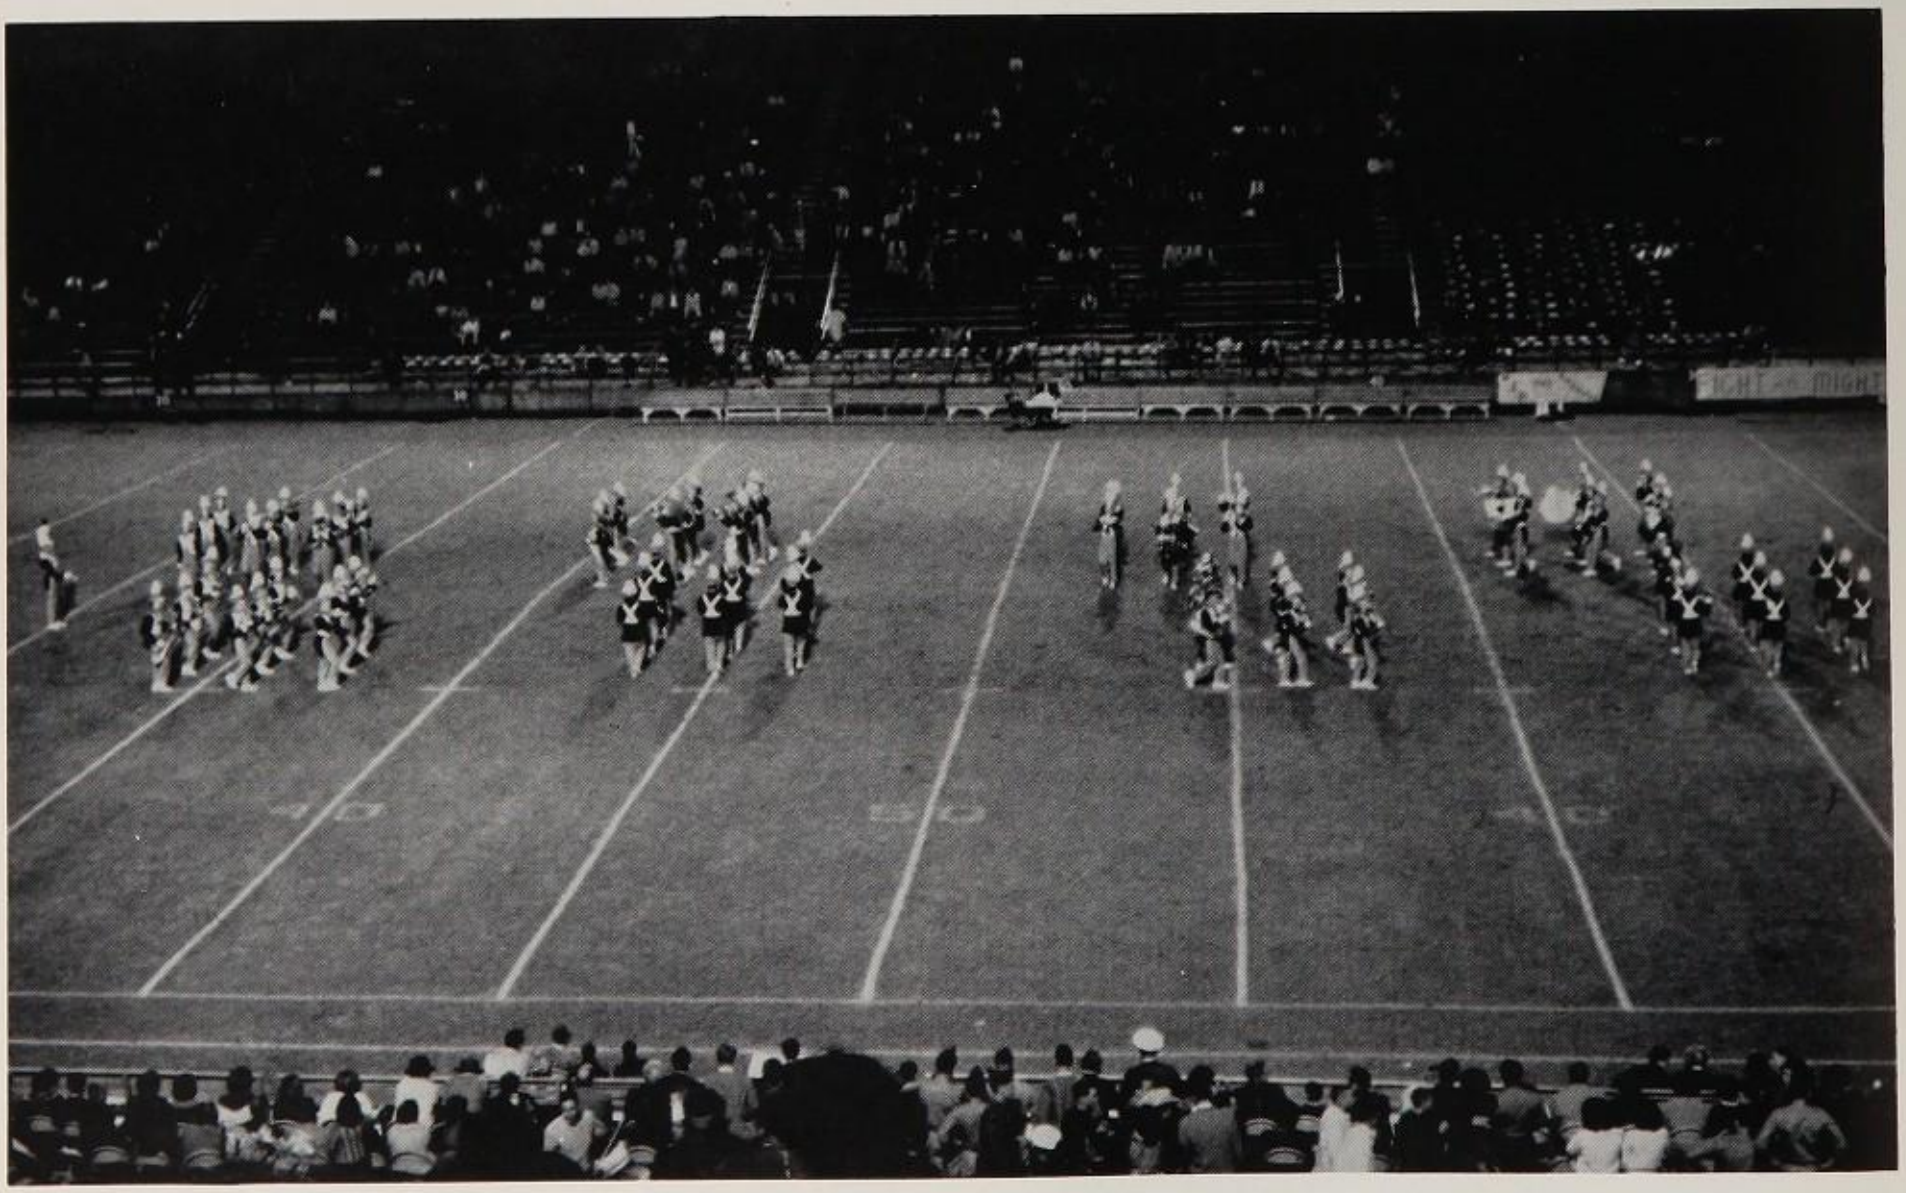
Precision Marching Is Band Specialty



Fans are fascinated by half-time ceremonies at the football games as the band performs a variety of precision maneuvers. In the "four-winds" maneuver, as shown above, the "Block" band splits into eight sections—all going in different directions.

ABOVE: Fred Chevalier is Drum Major of the Woodlawn High School Band. He is in charge of the marching band during rehearsals and performances.

ABOVE: Loading Crew members are Cecil Richie, Kenneth Nealy, Mike Simmons, Tommy Manning, Quartermaster; John Foster, and Billy Riggs. The Quartermaster and Loading Crew handle a tremendous amount of equipment. These boys, in charge of all equipment on trips, can load buses in as little as three minutes. They pride themselves on speed in handling equipment.

RIGHT: Assistant Drum Major Ronnie Simmons takes charge of the band in the absence of the Drum Major. He is also in charge of one half-time show.

Mr. Richard Jennings directs the band as they play during the pep rally held before the Bossier Game. An air of excitement is created at all of the fall pep meetings as the musicians play at least two numbers for each rally.

John English, the Band Captain, is the only elected officer. As top officer, he presides over the band council.

BELOW: Band Librarians are Libby Holmes, Ann Stegall, Margaret Grant, and Sharon Nance. They have the responsibility of keeping up with all the music that is issued. Then they must see that all music issued is returned. Additional duties are keeping records and filing all music. If the music is damaged, they make the needed repairs to keep it in playing condition.

Concert Choir Sings For Civic Groups

Elegant is the word that would best describe the appearance of the Concert Choir members as they perform. A beautiful scene is presented by the girls wearing black shoes and black peau de soie dresses with a single strand of pearls, and the boys wearing black suits.

Another attractive group is seen when the Girls' Choir performs as they dress in three shades of pink with matching shoes.

These musical ambassadors have represented Woodlawn at various places this year. Both groups, each containing 53, performed at the Winter and Spring Concerts and both attended the Choral Festival at Northwestern State College in March.

Concert Choir members sang for the Downtown Optimist Club, the Caddo School Administrators' Club, and the Cedar Grove Rotary Club.

The Girls Choir entertained at the State Librarians' Convention during LTA last November and the Caddo PTA Council in December.

Choir students, meeting daily, receive a full credit as they learn vocal techniques and become acquainted with a wide range of choral music.

RIGHT—TOP: Singing for the Shreveport Optimist Club at the Washington Youree Hotel was an enjoyable experience for the Concert Choir. Throughout the year they sing for similar clubs and organizations.

RIGHT—BOTTOM: After singing their regular program of songs the Choir was asked to continue singing with a few favorite Christmas Carols.

Choirs Entertain Students In Assembly

Baton held high as he leads them, Mr. Melvin Simmons directs the Concert Choir in singing "Hayride." The group was singing during a regular assembly program given for the students on November 17, 1964.

Hi! waves John McIntosh and "Hello" says Presley Prudhomme as the Concert Choir prepares to leave for the Optimist Club to sing. This Choir takes many bus trips in the course of a year to sing for various organizations.

LEFT: Rotary members, at Mr. Simmons' invitation, joined with the Ensemble in singing a few carols.

RIGHT: A reception for all the members of both choirs was given in Room D-5 after the Winter Concert which was held in the Woodlawn High School auditorium. Beverly Richard serves Presley Prudhomme punch while Holly Reynolds carefully observes. Chocolate fudge and many kinds of cookies were also served on this occasion.

LEFT: Concert Choir members look happy as they wait and chat in the lobby of the Captain Shreve Hotel. They were waiting to sing for the downtown Optimist Club.

TOP: Concert choir members sang to attentive listeners at their annual Winter Concert on Tuesday, December 15. BOTTOM: Singing at the teachers' Christmas party gave the Ensemble extra practice on their Christmas program.

What's so funny? Nelda Strickland and Sandra Churchill should be nervous backstage before the December concert as most performers usually fear the spotlight. But Nelda and Sandra, choir accompanists, appear relaxed and ready.

Choir Performs At Baccalaureate

Senior Week activities usually provide the last opportunity in each school year for the Concert Choir to perform. Mr. Simmons directs the group in singing at the Baccalaureate service last spring at the Hirsch Youth Center on the Louisiana State Fairgrounds. Senior choir members, wearing cap and gown, also participate in the singing part of the program.

Organizations

When Woodlawn opened only five short years ago, the Student Council was already organized and operating. The band, too, was a going concern, having been formed during the previous summer. But all other groups were yet to be organized.

Many months of the first year were required to decide what clubs or groups would even be started. That made very difficult indeed the planning of pages for the first ACCOLADE.

The new school at the end of the first year could count 25 official organizations or activities.

With the passing of five years, a few others have been added. Now the total listed on the calendar shows 29, and other new ones are in the planning stage.

Student Council Plans Knights' Ball

Jack Harper heads the "Knights of the Round Table" which has its largest membership this year. Each homeroom elects one representative and one alternate to serve as members of this body. Senators are elected by their respective classes, and the officers are elected each spring by the entire student body after a spirited campaign with slogans, ribbons, and speeches.

Last summer Jack Harper, Sheryl Garner, and Jeanne Annison attended a training workshop held on the campus of USL at Lafayette, Louisiana. In October the State Convention of the Louisiana Association of Student Councils was held at Thibideaux. Romelia Lopez, serving as an honorary council member, attended with Jack Harper, Sandy Ebarb, Kandy Morrow and Mr. Priddy. Jacksonville Beach, Florida was the scene of the Southern Association meeting which Mr. Priddy, Sheryl Garner, Shirley Grunwald, and Al Farr attended late in October.

This has been a busy year for the council. To help raise money for special projects, they sponsored a "Knight Club" at the NDCC Carnival. The group planned the theme and decorations for the Homecoming Dance and the Knights' Ball, and they were in charge of publicity and ticket sales for those two events.

Special projects involved a committee which sponsored the drawing and selecting of a design for a school flag. All students were given several weeks to submit designs, done in color, to the committee. The student group then met with a faculty committee to make the final selection.

A young man in this organization proposed that something be done to replace the dying shrubs in the flower boxes at the east end of the courtyard. Thus a flower-box committee was appointed to accomplish this deed.

Standing in a spotlight on the football field last October was Woodlawn's Sir Knight in shining armor. The appearance of a live mascot marked the fulfillment of an idea which originated among several of the council officers. The idea developed and grew and, through the efforts of many, the knight became a part of Woodlawn's history.

Performing his duty as Student Council president, Jack Harper introduces the candidates for Sophomore Class officers at a Sophomore assembly.

The cheerleaders take part in the Pledge of Allegiance led by Student Council chaplain, Byron Jeter, during a pep rally held prior to a game.

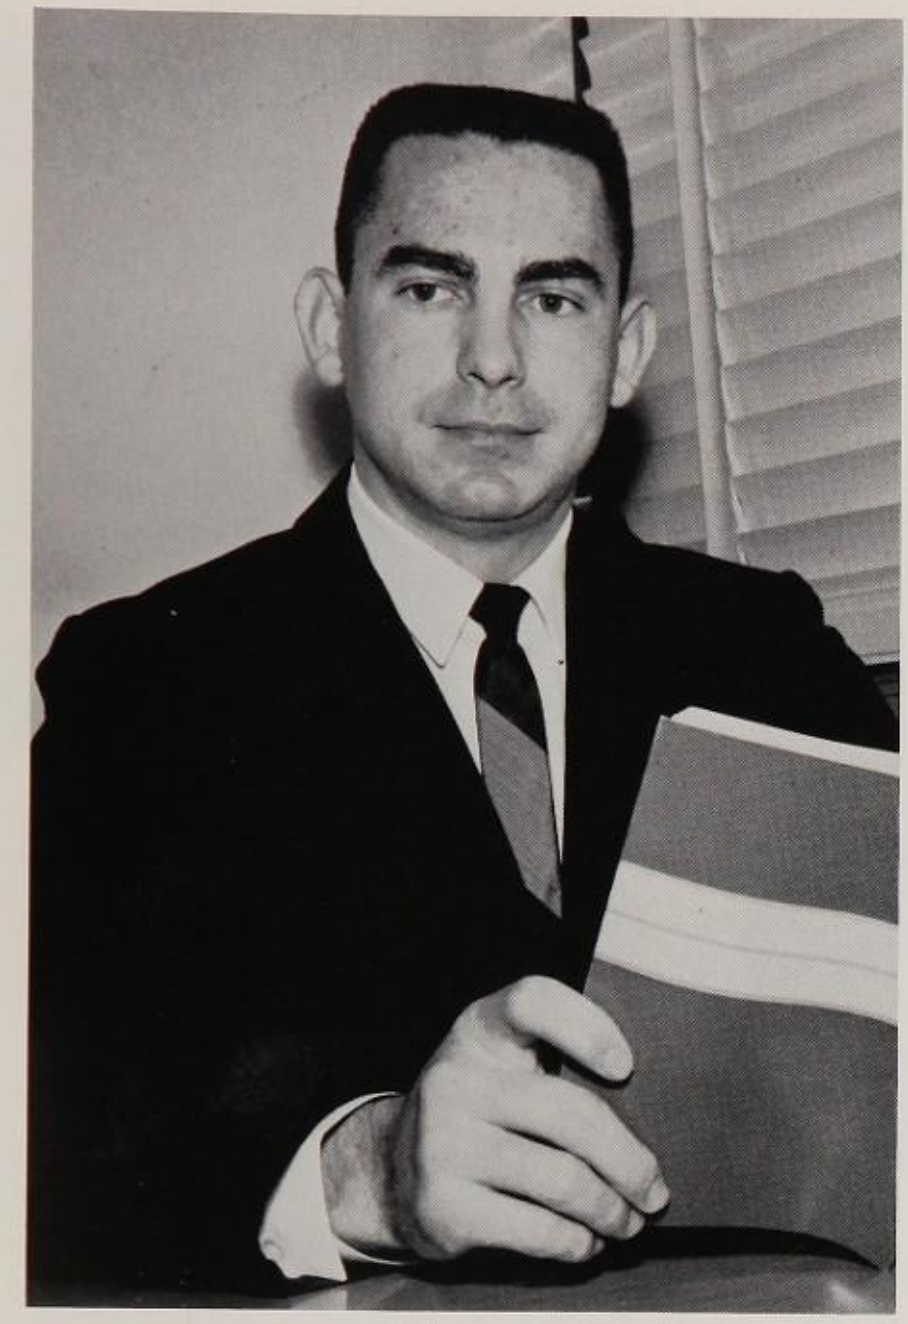
Jeanne Annison, seeking the office of Student Council Corresponding Secretary on the Conservative ticket, campaigns for her running mate, Sheryl Garner. Sheryl seeks the office of Recording Secretary on the same ticket.

As an attraction to their campaign, these Conservative Party members, Sheryl Garner, Jack Harper, Jeanne Annison, Pam Parker, and Mary Richard, dropped balloons from a third-floor classroom the day before the election.



"Hold that tape measure," Nancy Newbury told Ralph Kraft as they worked after school to measure the flower boxes. They had to determine how many shrubs were needed to fill them.

This year marked the second one for Mr. Richard Priddy to advise Student Council activities. He sponsored out-of-town trips to workshops and conventions.

Council Committees Do Decorating

Planning and decorating for the Homecoming Dance and Knights' Ball is the responsibility of the Student Council. LEFT: Sandra Groves, Peggy Paulin, and Diane Thomisee decorate for the Knights' Ball. On the first day of school many sophomores find themselves lost in the halls at Woodlawn. Nancy Newbury, junior senator, remembers her first year as she gives directions to one of the many bewildered sophomores.

The first and third Monday of each month are designated for Student Council meetings. At these meetings the treasurer, Kandy Morrow, is responsible for reporting to the members on the financial condition of the council.

Selling tickets to the Homecoming Dance and the Knights' Ball is one of the responsibilities of the Student Council. Corresponding Secretary, Jeanne Annison, sold a ticket during homeroom period as she made a daily sales trip.

A committee of several students was appointed to supervise the designing of a school flag. A faculty group helped them select the final sketch. Mari Tobin, Shirley Grunwald, chairman; and Robert Anderson display a top design.

Chapel services are held each Wednesday before school in the auditorium. This devotional period is also a Council activity. Byron Jeter and Nancy Newbury chat with Rev. Bobby Anderson, who spoke on Wednesday, January 13.

Herald Staff Puts Out Eight Papers

So that the students will "be in the know" as to what happens around the school, the HERALD Editorial Staff presents the news in a factual, unbiased manner. To do this, they publish eight issues of the Woodlawn HERALD. By editing the school paper, they learn the make-up and reporting techniques needed for a journalism career.

Headed by Kandy Morrow, the staff keeps a close tab on all school activities. To be eligible for membership on this staff, students must have had one year of journalism, be nominated by the previous staff, and be approved by the journalism instructor. The newspaper advisor herself chooses the editor, and the reporters are the members of the journalism classes. Regular staff meetings are held during fifth period on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Harwell Printing Company publishes the newspaper. Staff members spend hours there reading galley proofs to correct any errors or to make needed changes in copy.

Several incidents from this year are noteworthy. The HERALD staff received a letter from the director of the Louisiana Scholastic Press Association commenting on the good layout and planning for the November issue. A new flag was designed by Jimmy Downey a reporter, and the design first appeared in the headline of the December issue.

Kandy Morrow, HERALD Editor-in-Chief, calls from Room 205 to someone in the office to check on some facts as she prepares copy for the Thanksgiving issue of the HERALD.

Herald Group Also Circulates Paper

Cookie Hollowell, HERALD picture editor, finds a place to photograph Sir Lancer Lott, James Boyles, for the Halloween edition of the paper. The prop emphasized what not to do on Halloween night—to steal a gate.

A few HERALD staff members get additional practice in writing by contributing articles to local newspapers. Robert Anderson has a weekly write-up, "Knight Lights" in the Shreveport Journal. Another editor, Sandi Tison, is paid for reporting school news in the Shreveport Times.

Last summer Kandy Morrow, Ray Jackson, and Sandi Tison attended Leadership Conference at LSU. Sandi was elected News Editor of the "Leadership Voice" and Kandy was elected Recreation Editor of the same paper.

Work on the HERALD isn't finished when the news goes to press. The Editorial Staff "doubles" as the Circulation Staff with all editors participating. Sale day means meeting in Room 205 at 7:45 a.m. to get some change and a stack of papers to sell during first period.

Herald Ad Staff Plots Ad Layouts

Advertising space is sold for all eight issues of the HERALD by this small group of ad salesmen. Approximately 150 inches are sold for each paper.

By serving on this staff students become acquainted with the field of advertising and they learn the finer points of salesmanship. This personal contact with business people helps to promote strong public relations for the school.

Applicants for the staff must be co-operative and be able to get along well with other people.

Staff members plan the ad layouts for each paper and then proofread before publication. They also work at the constant job of billing and collecting from advertisers.

Cookie Hollowell, Business Manager of the HERALD Ad Staff is also a HERALD Editor, and she serves on the Circulation Staff. Thus she has the distinction of being the only person in all three groups connected with the school newspaper.

MANAGERS—FRONT ROW: Mrs. Kirkland, Advisor; Cookie Hollowell, Manager. SECOND ROW: Maxine Harris, Bookkeeper; Mary Jo Laenger, Assistant Manager. STANDING: Vicki Reynolds, Secretary.

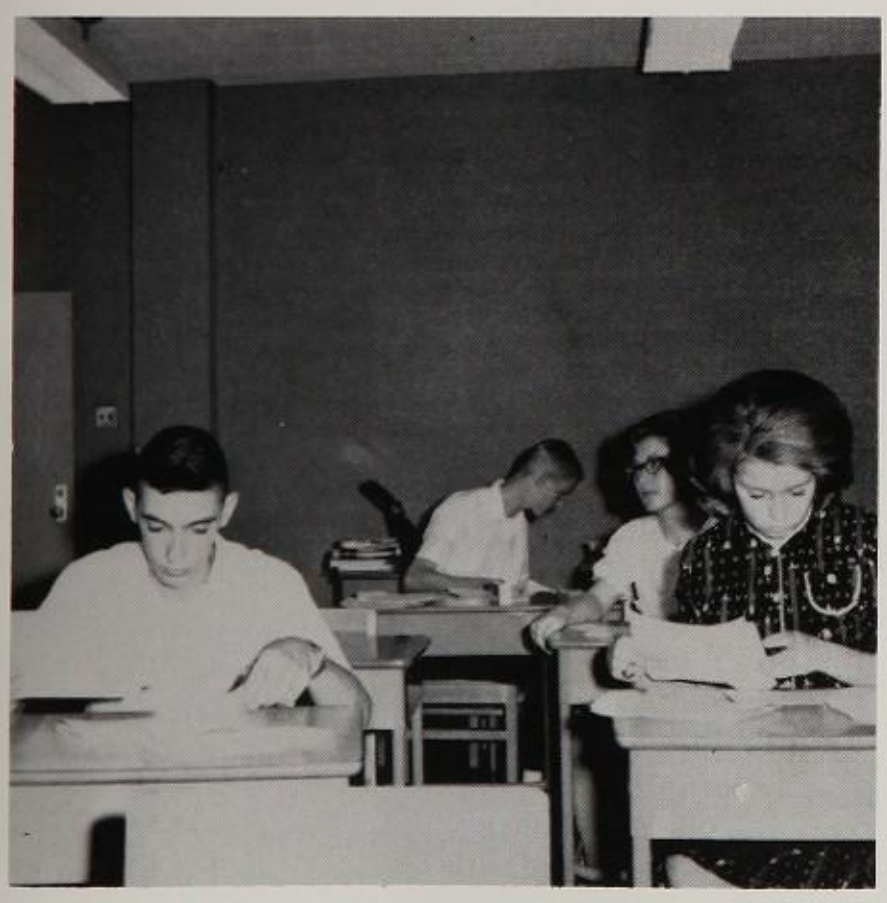
RIGHT—TOP: Linda White, Faculty Editor, sorts the teachers' pictures into the letters of the alphabet to help speed up the alphabetizing. BOTTOM: Beverly Tozier (standing), Renda Vick, and Helen Charping search through other yearbooks to get ideas for writing copy for the organization pages.

Completely surrounded by yearbook materials, ACCOLADE Advisor, Miss Willa Smith, makes plans for a staff lecture on dos and don'ts in planning layouts for the 1965 book.

RIGHT: As she reviews the 1964 All American ACCOLADE, Editor-In-Chief, Sharon Bagby, thinks of ideas that will help to make this year's book an award winner also.

Editorial Staff Plans Largest Accolade



Sophomore and junior forms, which indicate they had a yearbook picture taken, are alphabetized by Nico Van Thyn, Jimmy Hammett, Shirley Loftin, and Marion Ziobrowski.

"How far from the top should I start?" "Will you read this cutline?" "Do you want me to take any pictures today?" "Where will I find a typewriter?" "Is there anything I can do?" "How can I crop this picture?" "How many words of body copy do I need?" "Do you capitalize this word?" "May I go to Mrs. Lawson's room for a minute?" "May I go get some needed information from a club sponsor?"

Miss Smith's ears hear questions of this type hundreds of times in the course of a year. And on some days she hears all of them asked at once! Often she says, "Working with the ACCOLADE Staff during fifth period is like carrying on a half-dozen telephone conversations at one time."

However, questions usually are deciphered and answered as time permits. As a result, the ACCOLADE develops page by page into a bound book of school memories.

Twelve students and the advisor did the thinking, planning, and working to make this the largest book in the school's five year history.

Accolade Circulation Staff Sets Record

They get the glory of distributing boxes and boxes of yearbooks, but they do other things too! They write slogans. They paint posters. They stamp receipt books. They distribute receipt books. They collect money from ACCOLADE sales. They balance their books. THEY are the circulation staff members.

Membership this year was increased from seven to nine because of the larger student enrollment. All nine girls are in Mrs. Fair's first period study hall. Each was chosen because she was considered dependable and reliable and neat in appearance.

Four scheduled sales in the fall yielded good results. Approximately 82 per cent of the student body purchased a book, making this year's order the largest yet.

The spring Publications Banquet interests the workers because the members receive Certificates of Merit as a reward for service to the school.

Circulation Manager, Lyndal Ursery, and Advisor, Mrs. Elizabeth Fair, total up sales for the 1965 book before placing a final order with Taylor Publishing Company.

It's a tedious job to collect, count, and balance the money from a first period yearbook sale. Cynthia Cooksey, Mary Stanford, and Margie Brady add receipts from one of the four sales.

Comic characters and amusing slogans were used on posters urging Woodlawn Knights to buy an ACCOLADE. Using glue, scissors, and pens to make posters are Linda Daniel, Genie Stephens, Peggy Paulin, and Priscilla Daniel.

Accolade Salesgirls Worked In Summer

"Good morning, sir. I am from Woodlawn High School, and this is a copy of our yearbook. Would you like to buy an ad to appear in the 1965 edition?" This question was asked hundreds of times during last summer as the ad staff girls crisscrossed the city of Shreveport to sell ACCOLADE ad space to interested people and businesses.

Before the summer sales campaign began, the group met at the home of advisor, Mrs. Elizabeth Fair, for an organizational meeting. From a city map, areas for selling were determined, and each girl was assigned a sales quota of at least $150. Susie Simmons far outpassed her nearest competitor, so she was declared top salesman for the year.

The work isn't finished when all ads are sold. During the year they send out statements to those businesses which request to be billed.

Aching feet are forgotten at year's end when a Publications Banquet honors the ad staff members along with all staff members of the yearbook and newspaper.

Five Girls Manage Football Ad Staff

Approximately 6000 programs! Can you imagine selling so many at only four home games? Twenty-eight Football Program Ad Staff girls did just that during football season.

Ads for the program are sold during the month of June and the girls selling the most ads become managers. A record was set this year as five girls—Beverly Tozier, Peggy Paulin, Vicki Reynolds, Vivian Farrell and Madelaine Hall earned the title of manager. They, with the guidance of Mrs. Sylvia Adams, designed the programs and got them ready to sell. Many hours were spent designing the Homecoming Program which featured Sir Knight introducing the Homecoming Court and their escorts.

Members must be a Senior with a C average, have a pleasing personality, be willing to work hard, be of good moral character, have transportation, and be DEPENDABLE.

This year the girls attended all home football games. They also went as a group on a chartered bus to Baton Rouge for the State Football Playoffs.

Mrs. Adams gives an annual Christmas and Graduation party for the members.

Mrs. Sylvia Adams, the advisor, checks the 1964 Homecoming program before filing it for future use.

Key Club Helps With March Of Dimes

A group of twenty-six boys comprise the membership of the Key Club at Woodlawn. Service to the school and to others is their desire as they work to develop citizenship qualities. That they are eager to serve is reflected in their willingness to come to school early one morning each week for the regular meetings. They meet at 7:30 a.m. each Tuesday morning in Room B-2 in the gym.

This organization is under the sponsorship of the Cedar Grove Kiwanis Club. Mr. John Wilder is the faculty sponsor and Mr. Pat Tobin, who is in the insurance business, serves as the Kiwanian advisor. New members must be voted in by present members.

Ten girl sponsors were elected this year by the boys themselves, and the girls also attend the meetings.

Cedar Grove Methodist Church is the site of the Kiwanis luncheon each Thursday. Using a rotation schedule prepared by Al Farr, three boys and two of the girl sponsors attend each week as guests of the Kiwanians.

Many of the group attended the La-Miss-Tenn district convention which was in Memphis, Tennessee this spring. All the representatives from the Shreveport schools went together on chartered buses.

At Christmas they remembered the unfortunate and used money from their treasury to buy toys for the children's ward in a local hospital. Taking donations for tags to help pay expenses for a foreign exchange student was one of their big projects last fall. They worked at all home football games but one to do this. Later in the year they sold tickets for a spaghetti supper at the school for the same purpose. The local March of Dimes drive benefited from the efforts of club members on Saturday, January 9. Carl Smith, club representative to the local March of Dimes committee, got twenty out of the twenty-six members to work in the drive.

Though she travels most of the time with the Giddens family with whom she lives, the Key Club provides transportation for the exchange student if it is needed. President, Al Farr, had the privilege of taking Romelia Lopez to Drummond's Studio to have her picture taken for the ACCOLADE. That was the last make-up day for the seniors, so the appointments continued into the night hours until finished.

Key Club Elects Ten Girl Sponsors

Mr. M. B. "Pat" Tobin, a local insurance man, is the Kiwanis Chairman for Woodlawn's Key Club. He has served in this capacity since the group was first organized. Mr. Tobin attends the before-school regular meetings each Tuesday, and he also accompanies the group to district meetings.

Red Cross Collects Food For Needy

Members of the high school Red Cross worked on local and community problems during the year as it is the purpose of the organization to serve those who are less fortunate than others.

Christie Rogers and Mary Richard attended a camp at Chemin-A-Haut State Park Training Center last summer to learn methods of promoting Red Cross work in high schools.

This club takes orders for the giant mum Homecoming corsages. They are delivered at school by the florist on the day of the game, and Red Cross members distribute them. This year students bought a total of 171—69 blue and 102 white.

Student directories, listing the name, classification, address, and telephone number of each student, are compiled by this organization. After being printed, they are sold to students for fifty cents each.

Two hundred fourteen people responded to the membership drive and paid twenty-five cents to join.

A Christmas food drive at school netted eight baskets of food which were distributed to five or six needy families.

Veterans at the VA Hospital were entertained by a variety show planned and presented by Red Cross members. Some also visited an old folks' home, entertained them by singing, and gave them cookies. Tray favors made by the group cheered veterans at the hospital.

A spring assembly program used a skit to dramatize the work and accomplishments of the school Red Cross chapter.

Red Cross President, Mary Emmons, carefully packs a box with food to be given by the Woodlawn students to some needy family. This project is an annual one.

Red Cross Compiles Student Directory

Charlcie Rogers, Janet Thrasher, Bobby Waddell, and Christie Rogers are carefully proofreading the lists which are to be used in making the student directories.

Susan Williams, Mary Emmons, and Gwen Jones spend much time in double checking the lists used for the student directory before sending them off to be printed.

Student Cafeteria Workers Give Service

Type A meals are prepared and served daily in the school cafeteria under the direction of Mrs. Sybil Thompson, Manager, and Mrs. Carolyn Meshell, Assistant Manager. They assist in every way to make the lunch program an integral part of the total school program. During five lunch shifts they serve around 1600 students daily.

Three students serve as assistants and they work one lunch shift each. These student helpers are required to be in good health and have clean hands. They work only in the dessert, bread, and sandwich lines, and it is their responsibility to replenish those items as needed.

To keep the conveyor belt moving and operating without confusion, several football boys stay around to see that trays are not stacked on it. They also check to see that napkins and milk cartons are removed from the trays as those items mess up the dish washers.

LEFT: John Gray, working during the first lunch shift, keeps the desserts replenished on the lunch counter. CENTER: "One piece of bread for you," says Bennie Holland as he serves Mr. Leonard W. Hennigan during his lunch time. RIGHT: With a tray of jello in his hands, Ronnie Goodwin prepares to place the desserts along with the others.

Football players are chosen to work in the cafeteria to keep students from stacking their trays and leaving milk cartons and napkins on them. Mack Ramsey, Byron Sprawls, Dale Wray, and Gerald Burnett render service to the school in this manner.

Rita Woodruff types information given to her by Judy Talmadge for the parking stickers while Ronnie Ray approves a safety poster to be used.

Safety Council Checks Car Stickers

Promoting safety in the school and community is the main purpose of the Safety Council. This is done by having fire drills regularly, tornado drills occasionally, and checking fire extinguishers weekly.

To enforce parking regulations, the Council sold around 1200 parking stickers at ten cents each to students who park their cars in the school's parking lots. Car stickers are checked daily and those cars without stickers get a notice. If after the third notice they still do not get one, they must report to Mr. Cook.

It has been determined that during the one hour traffic rush, morning and afternoon, around 1500 cars come and go at the school. On rainy days there are twice that many. Thus one-way traffic is enforced in places during that time to handle the cars more efficiently.

The Safety Council is composed of a representative and alternate elected from each homeroom. Meetings are held the second Monday of each month, and the students report back to their homeroom group.

Last August the officers attended a Louisiana Youth Safety Conference in Bunkie, Louisiana. President Ronnie Ray was selected to participate in a panel discussion "Youth Discusses The Traffic Problem" at the Louisiana Youth Safety Conference in New Orleans in December.

Woodlawn served as host school to the annual city Teenage Safety Conference and made about twenty-five posters to advertise it. Ronnie Ray was moderator for a panel discussion and Karen Bryant talked on "Community Safety." Woodlawn students acted as guides and discussion group leaders.

Each spring the Council gives service awards to representatives and alternates who do work beyond the call of duty.

Library Assistants Work An Hour Daily

Library assistants serve the school by giving up their study hall to work an hour a day in the library. The workers must have a C+ average and be acceptable to the librarians.

A day's work consists of checking books in and out, straightening books on the shelves, arranging magazines, sorting library mail, checking students in and out of the library, and totaling the circulation for each day.

Members are eligible to attend the summer Leadership Conference at LSU and the Louisiana Teen Age Library Association Convention in Baton Rouge each February.

The assistants receive joy at Christmas by giving "Little Golden" books to hospitalized children.

Student Assistants

Literature characters can take on new meaning when they are seen in a special film. Speech students may improve their speaking voice by having the opportunity to hear their speech on a tape recorded in class. Both these things may happen if the teachers take advantage of the visual aids equipment available at the school. Many teachers do use the equipment often.

Twenty-eight boys volunteer to operate the equipment in this department. They show films in classrooms, operate tape recorders, opaque projectors, filmstrip projectors and 16 mm. projectors.

Mrs. Odessie Frisch, Visual Aids Secretary, trains the boys how to operate the machines during the first few weeks of school. A new Kodak 16 mm. projector was acquired this year.

Teachers schedule films with Mrs. Frisch ahead of time, and she sends the operators and equipment to the classrooms when needed.

Three girls have the job of keeping the magazines in chronological order. They are also responsible for checking the magazines in and keeping current issues available in the library reading room.

School store workers, Barry Parker, Jayne Ayres, and Glenda Corley can be found daily during fourth period in the commissary, as busy as bees, ready to serve their fellow students. They, as school store workers, sell school supplies, car stickers, and cokes.

3 Store Workers Volunteer To Serve

Knights enjoy a school convenience because of the concern of the Student Council as a commissary is operated on the campus under the supervision of that organization. The actual operation of it and the bookkeeping is under the guidance of the council treasurer.

During fourth period each day three volunteer workers, giving up their study hall, work in the school store. This gives students an opportunity to purchase needed supplies while at school. Items such as ink, notebook paper, typing paper, notebooks, clipboards and folders may be purchased there.

Lots of cokes are sold by them during the noon hour so they must see that the machines are kept filled.

Woodlawn Knight decals, Key Club stickers, and Safety Council car stickers can also be bought in the store when it is open.

Office Workers Get Valuable Training

In and out of the rooms and up and down the halls they go as they collect the yellow cards of each teacher's absentees. This is the first daily duty of the office workers. Then when Mrs. Opal Garner, Attendance Secretary, has alphabetized the names and mimeographed the morning sheet, they are off again to deliver one to each teacher.

Student helpers work each of the six periods and perform various duties for the office staff. They answer the telephone and the intercom, and they inform teachers when their students check out of school.

They save office personnel many steps, and in so doing they receive valuable training themselves.

These volunteer workers must have a C average and a study hall period, but the most important qualification is a willingness to work.

Some FTA Members Teach For One Day

"Me . . . Teaching?" these members may once have said to others as they talked of future occupations. Now, teaching is their goal after obtaining a college education.

Woodlawn's Roscoe H. White FTA Chapter was formed to promote an interest in the teaching profession, and to enable students to learn about required college courses. Each member must have a desire to become a teacher, have personal qualifications befitting a teacher, attend meetings regularly, and maintain a C average.

FTA meets on the second Wednesday of each month. Programs vary at these meetings, but they all relate to the teaching field. One day Sophomore Counselor, Mrs. Randle Geisler, showed a film on the testing program. Centenary student Ann Covington, a practice teacher at Woodlawn, spoke at one meeting and invited the FTA chapter as a group to visit the classes at Centenary. On another afternoon program, a speech therapist and a teacher of the deaf gave a demonstration with a four-year old deaf boy. They showed how proper training helps the handicapped by demonstrating how he could respond to such commands as jump and run by reading lips.

Last February the group was invited to a Tea given by Delta Kappa Gamma, a teacher's sorority. Members attended the area meetings and the State FTA Convention held in April in Baton Rouge. Some helped to register teachers at the annual Louisiana State Teachers' Convention in Shreveport last November.

A spring project that creates enthusiasm among these future teachers is teaching for one day in an elementary school.

FHA Members Hold Parish Offices

"Toward New Horizons" is the motto which all the girls in the FHA strive to uphold. The Future Homemakers of America offers opportunity for members to further their interest in the art of homemaking. The goal of the national organization is to help individuals improve personal, family, and community living.

Pam Parker, president of the Future Homemakers of America, is also parish FHA Vice President. Brenda Boyette serves as parish treasurer.

During the year, the members have attended the State FHA meeting which was held in Shreveport. The Woodlawn girls helped decorate for the state meeting. They attended the District FHA meeting in Ruston.

Any girl enrolled in Home Economics now or who plans to major in it is eligible to be a member of the FHA.

With an enrollment of 112 members, the FHA is one of the largest clubs in the school. Three advisors work with this large group.

Art Society Began Year With Banquet

What a fine start the Art Society had this year, because a banquet on October 8, 1964, at Holiday Inn West created enthusiasm among those members attending. Caddo Parish Art Supervisor, Mrs. Zelphia Layton, inspired the group with a talk relating to art.

This group of talented young people meet each Tuesday after school with Sam Shields guiding the club as president this year. Membership affords interested students additional opportunities and experiences in art.

Stage settings for the Accolade Pageant are designed and constructed by Miss Tommie Blackbourne and her art students. These club members do quite a bit of that work.

Fifty-seven people who are taking or have taken French comprise Le Cercle Francais.

Meetings are held monthly and programs are designed to promote a better understanding of French culture and customs.

The highlight of the year is the French Club Interlingual Noel Fiesta. This year the French Club decorated for the dance and presented a skit, "The Night Before Christmas."

FFA Membership Increases 30 Per Cent

John Garvin, FFA President, exhibited his Holstein cow at the State Fair. John has also shown poultry and swine. He will apply for his State Farmer degree this year.

FFA membership increased 30% this year to bring the total to 97 members. This organization strives to develop leadership, to nurture a love of country life, to create more interest in the intelligent choice of an agricultural career, and to provide organized rural recreational activities.

To become a member, one must be actively enrolled in Vocational Agriculture, memorize the FFA Creed and be voted in by the Chapter Farmers.

The Woodlawn Chapter attended the State Convention and won several honors. Members won First Place in Livestock Judging, Fourth Place in Forage Identification, and Fifth Place in Farm Mechanics. The group also won a Superior Chapter Award and a Bronze Emblem for Soil Judging. Queen Jane Cantrell placed third in the State FFA Queen's Contest.

Mayor Clyde Fant proclaimed National FFA Week in February at a chapter meeting. Woodlawn Chapter displays promoting FFA Week were exhibited during that week in a downtown store and bank.

Burton Long received his State Farmer degree at the State Convention last summer. This degree represents a $3000 investment in farming. Burton is now building a beef cattle herd. Another member, Joe May, was elected Secretary for Area I.

This year 75 new members received the Future Farmer Greenhand degree. The boys were required to wear green hands as part of their initiation. To get this degree, a boy must be enrolled in Vocational Agriculture, be able to recite the FFA Creed, and be voted into the chapter by the Chapter Farmers.

DE Club Has Largest Enrollment

Boosting its record enrollment to date, the Distributive Education Club went from a membership of fifty-two to seventy-four this year. Any student enrolled in the DE program is eligible to join this organization. Club activities for the year included sponsoring a money-raising booth at the NDCC Carnival and collecting toys for tots at Christmas. Some club members spoke at the Lions' Club, and several attended the State DE Convention held in the spring at Baton Rouge. At the annual Employer-Employee banquet the outstanding boy and girl in the DE program were revealed.

Distributive Education is a vocational training program for juniors and seniors that helps to prepare them for employment in retail, wholesale, and service establishments. Mr. Clyde Self and Mr. Frank Sanders serve as co-ordinators of in-school instruction and supervised training on the job.

All students in this program spend half a day in school taking required subjects along with one period of instruction in a DE class. The other half of the day is spent at work under the direction of the business manager of the job. Besides getting a class grade, students are graded on their job by their employer and they are also paid for their work. Two credits per year are earned in this course.

Several teaching methods are used to maintain student interest. Invited speakers discuss topics related to DE, sales training films are shown, and field trips are taken to local business establishments.

Spanish Club Member Lived In Venezuela

Highlighting this year's programs were two guest speakers from our own school. Miss Margaret Van Rossum, the French teacher, spoke about her life in Mexico. Voncile Jennings, a Spanish Club member, who lived in Venezuela for several years, showed slides of Venezuela and Mexico. For her program, Voncile wore a dress to illustrate the type of clothes worn in that country.

The purposes of Los Alegres are to create an interest in Spanish and to help its members understand our Spanish-speaking neighbors.

As a project, the club decided to buy something annually for the Spanish Department. This year they bought a Spanish record of Christmas Carols.

The year ended with the annual banquet at El Chico's Restaurant.

Club members and sponsor, Mrs. Mary Tidwell, listen to Voncile Jennings talk on Venezuela, where she once lived. She is wearing a dress from Venezuela.

Club President, Jan Wartick, distributed pins, charms and keys to twenty members before watching slides about Mexico and Venezuela which were shown by a member.

Promoting interest in all Social Sciences is the goal of this club. To help achieve this goal, 50 members heard several guest speakers during the year. A retired army major, Mr. Freeman, talked about World War II, Mr. Lewing spoke on Lincoln and Mrs. Coil showed slides she took in Europe.

To be a member, one must have a "C" average and have taken or be taking at least one social studies course. Meetings are held on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month.

4-H Club Is Top Club In Caddo Parish

Woodlawn is the outstanding parish club again for the fourth consecutive year. The members have made this possible by participating in various activities which develop good citizens.

The Woodlawn Club was represented at the Parish Achievement Day, Short Course, State Fair, Spring Livestock Show and Parish executive meetings.

Woodlawn members won many honors this year. Steve McFerrin is the 1965 Parish President and Linda Garvin is Parish Secretary. Jeanne Annison, State Secretary, and Jack Harper, a member of the State Working Committee, attended special meetings during the year. John Garvin and Jack Harper attended 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. There John was 1st runner-up in the National Poultry Contest and Jack was 4th runner-up in Leadership. John won a trip to the Kansas City Poultry Fact-Finding Conference and Jack was one of four people representing Louisiana at the Washington, D. C. Conference.

Jack Harper, elected to be a Report-to-the-Nation Delegate, will speak throughout the nation on the activities of 4-H during 1965-1966.

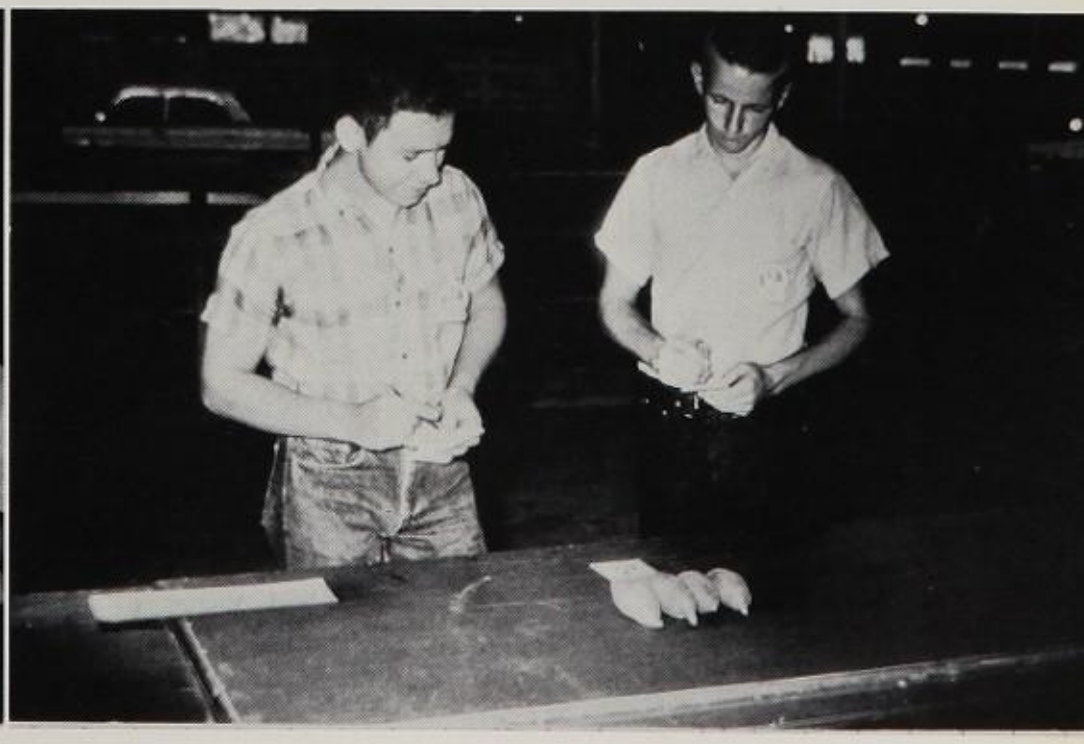
Barney McCalister, Larry Gordy, and Robert Sayers represented Caddo Parish at the Short Course held at LSU. While there, they served as a Poultry Judging team.

During Short Course at LSU, Steve McFerrin and Mike Pennywell judged sweet potatoes. Although the competition was stiff, Steve placed in the Blue Ribbon group.



Latin Club Is School's Largest Club

Byron Jeter (left) read the Christmas Story at the annual Inter-Lingua Noel Fiesta. Other Latin Club members sang Christmas Carols in Latin which were enjoyed by members and their dates from the French and Spanish Clubs.

One hundred forty members? In one club? It can't be possible! The Latin Club has its largest membership since it was organized. Socii Romani is one of the most active clubs at Woodlawn and has very enthusiastic members.

Members attended the Louisiana Junior Classical League Convention in Monroe in March. Another outstanding activity was the participation in the Inter-Lingua Noel Fiesta, which is a joint Christmas Party with the Spanish and French clubs. They sang Christmas Carols in Latin and Byron Jeter read the Christmas Story. In the Spring they enjoyed a Roman banquet at the Petroleum Club. Probably the most memorable activity during the year was "Pluto's Palace" at the NDCC Carnival. It was a satire on famous people and Woodlawn's favorite teachers.

For the third year Woodlawn has had a State officer. This year Kay King, a junior member, served as State JCL Public Relations Officer.

Club members feel that they successfully reached their goals of promoting interest in the classics and imparting a better understanding of practical and cultural values of Latin.

Drama Club Awards Given At Banquet

Dianne Feazel, Debbye Whitney, and Bill Lowe perform in the club's "melodrama" given at the NDCC Carnival.

Drama club members, the "High Masquers" have had a busy, fun-filled year. A kick-off banquet in September, a "melodrama" at the NDCC Carnival in November, and a Christmas basket for the needy, produced memorable occasions.

Perhaps the greatest event was the spring banquet at the Rovana Restaurant when awards were given to the best actor, best actress, and the most outstanding member.

Enriching monthly programs included a talk on dramatic interpretation by Patrick Curlin, drama major at Centenary, and a talk by Rev. John V. Tinnin about the Passion Play.

Ten club members were chosen as charter members of National Thespians, an Honorary Drama Society, and application was made for a Woodlawn charter.

Creative Writing Club Is Organized

Becky Hollis and Shelley Carter, along with other club members, review several manuscripts which were entered in the Creative Writing Club contest held in March.

Through a teacher's interest in and concern for the creative students, a Creative Writing Club was formed this year. Mrs. Martha Watson, a Sophomore English teacher, felt that the creative students did not get enough special attention during regular classes. The club gives its members a chance to develop their natural writing ability by learning to take and give constructive criticism. They also learn to use guided creative topics to improve their writing of essays, poems, short stories and plays.

Meetings are presided over by Danny Ferguson, president, on the last Wednesday of each month.

A creative writing contest for all Woodlawn students was conducted in March. Three teachers from another school judged the entries. All winning manuscripts were put in a booklet and distributed to students in the school.

Girls' Junior Medical League Formed

Nurses? Doctors? Technicians? "Should I enter the field of medicine?" Girls with these questions in their mind have formed the Girls' Junior Medical League.

The League brings together young people interested in medical and related careers and provides practical experience so the girls will find out if they are really interested in the medical field.

The girls work as aids in the local hospitals to relieve the nursing shortage. Members work at the Doctors' and Willis-Knighton Hospitals. They work three hours twice a month in the wards carrying trays, running errands for nurses, taking patients to and from various parts of the hospital, reading to patients and making beds. Blue and white striped uniforms, furnished by the girls, are worn when they work.

Various activities for the first year included tours of Hospitals, participation in a parish career day, and having speakers in the nursing field.

Certificates of citation were awarded to the girls for their volunteer work at the close of the year.

Junior Medical Association Is New

Under the direction of Mr. Thomas C. Carson, a Woodlawn teacher, and Dr. James E. Smith, a Junior Medical Association for boys was formed this year. Dr. Smith was appointed by the Shreveport Medical Society to work with the Woodlawn Club because of his interest in our school area.

Its purpose is to bring together, in high school, young people interested in medicine and related fields of science.

The 19 members share their interest, explore opportunities and requirements in medical fields, and learn about individuals by working together.

The boys get experience by actually working in the Confederate Memorial Hospital making beds, raising and lowering beds, running errands, working in the X-ray room and various other jobs. They furnish their own uniform which is a white smock.

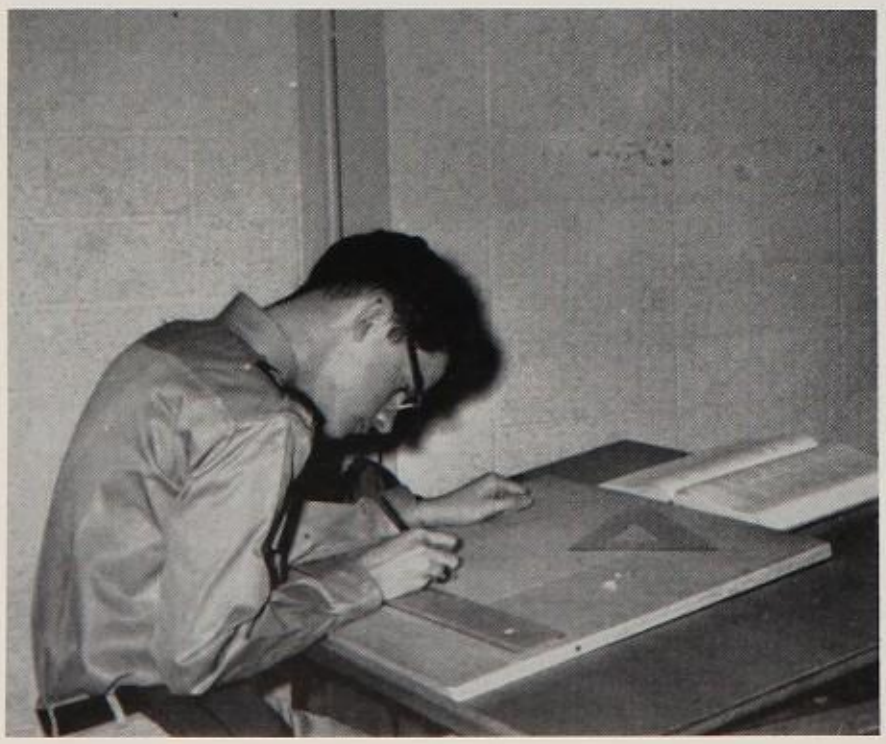
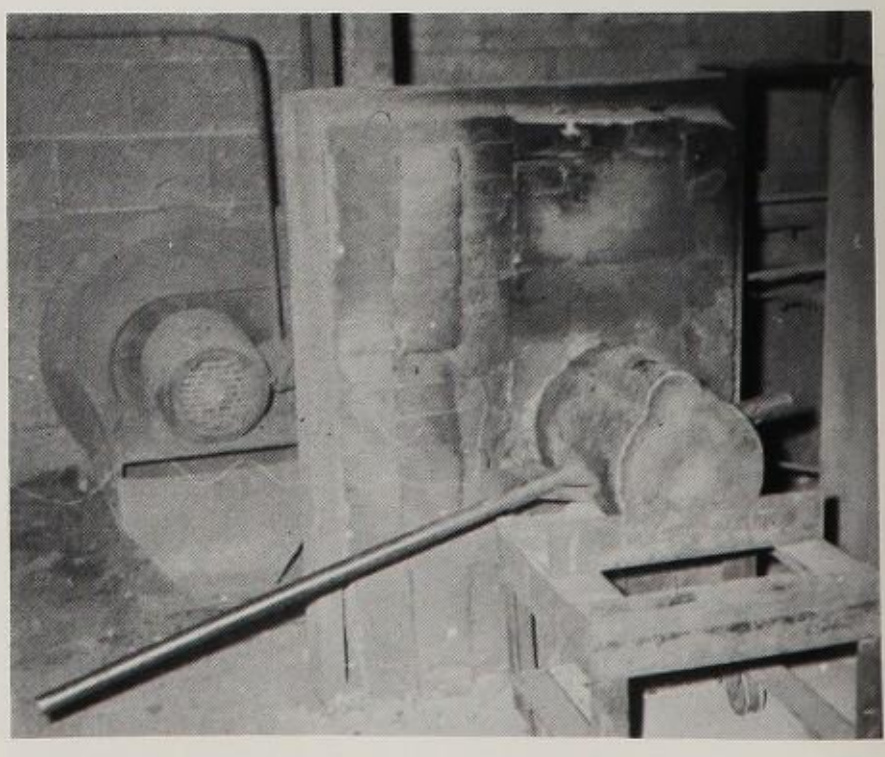
Dale Ward, the club president, works on a problem in Mr. Saylors' class in Engineering Drawing, which is a third-year course. The Industrial Arts Club is of specific interest to many students in the drawing classes.



On a field trip to the Hica Corporation, club members saw many phases of casting steel. As they observed, this pouring bucket was being preheated against an open furnace to receive the molten steel for casting.



Industrial Arts Group Tours Industries

Woodlawn High School is growing rapidly, and as it grows, the interest in Mechanical Drawing is also growing. Three courses are offered—basic mechanical drawing, architectural drawing, and engineering drawing. Classwork in these subjects maintains the interest of the students, but membership in the Industrial Arts Club further develops and promotes that interest. Tours made during the year to some of the leading industries in the Shreveport area have fascinated these future engineers and architects.

Membership is open to students who have taken or are currently enrolled in at least one course offered in the Industrial Arts Department. This includes students enrolled in any of the shop classes. Three teachers, Mr. Byrd, Mr. Saylors, and Mr. Crowder, serve as advisors to this organization.

In addition to the tours, there have been various other activities. Members were invited to a dinner meeting of the Draftsman's Society of Shreveport. Guest speaker at this dinner was Mr. Westmayer, the head of the Saturn project. They also attended the State Industrial Arts Convention which was held in Shreveport during March.

A senior member, Jimmy Downey, won first place in his division at the Natchitoches Industrial Arts Fair in the Spring of 1964. Jimmy is parliamentarian of the club this year.

Athletics

Since Woodlawn opened in 1960, the physical educational Department has offered a varied program of vigorous team activities as well as individual activities designed to meet the individual needs of the students.

Due to an annual increase in enrollment, the number of women instructors has gone from the original list of three to five at present, and the men teachers have increased from two to four.

Tremendous progress can be noted in the field of competitive sports even though the school has a brief history. For all five years, a team has been fielded in football, basketball, baseball, track, and tennis. A boys' golf team was added last year.

To stress this progress, one can note the following comparisons. Only 50 boys played football in 1960 as compared to the 95 who went out this year. The first team lost all nine games, yet the second year the Knights placed first in the district. Runner-up honors were won three times, and the group also reached the state playoffs for the past three years.

In other sports, basketball membership increased from 15 the first year to 29 this year, with a Sophomore team being added in 1963. Baseball has had only a slight increase—from 18 the first year to 20 this year. Track participants have almost doubled during the five year period as the number has increased from 25 to 40. Tennis players numbered 20 this year, whereas only 12 went out the first spring.

As he recalled the years of growth in the area of athletics, Coach Lee Hedges said, "Our competitive sports program has increased in numbers as the school has grown. We now have approximately 150 boys involved in varsity athletics as compared to 75 when the school first opened in 1960. We have developed a fine attitude in our program, and the spirit of the students and community has been excellent for the past five years."

All-State end Ken Liberto returns a punt, one of the many duties he handled. In addition, he punted, and was a standout at both offensive end and defensive halfback.

Knights Lead In Triple-A Scoring

A state playoff game climaxed Woodlawn's football season for the third time in four years as the Knights powered their way to the school's most successful season, finishing with a 10-2 record and a second-place spot in the district standings.

For the second straight year, Woodlawn claimed the honor of being the highest scoring Triple-A team in the state during the regular season. Breaking the previous school record of 259 points, the Knights rolled up 295 points, an average of 26.8 points a game.

The defense was also outstanding, limiting the opponents to 67 points and intercepting 25 enemy passes.

There were many good individual football players on the Woodlawn squad, but week after week they blended into one superb, well-oiled machine which was ranked as one of Louisiana's top AAA football teams.

The first half decade of Woodlawn football teams have set a winning trend, and now it is up to the teams of the future to live up to the "Legend of the Knights."

New Scoring Record Set In First Game

Woodlawn 47 N. Caddo 0

A new school scoring record in one game was set in Woodlawn's 47-0 victory over North Caddo in the season opener. The 47 points broke the previous record of 45 set against Jesuit in 1962.

Halfback Gerald Burnett ran 74 yards on the game's first offensive play to start the scoring for Woodlawn. By halftime, the Knights led 27-0 over the punchless Rebels on the strength of touchdowns by Randy Mason and Ken Liberto on passes from Trey Prather, and Buster Herren's run.

After a scoreless third quarter, Woodlawn added twenty points in the fourth period with touchdowns on Herren's 20-yard run, Randy Tunks' 10-yard run, and a pass from Terry Bradshaw to Russell Evans. Ralph Kraft kicked four extra points and Evans one.

Woodlawn 19 Fair Park 6

Capturing its first District 1-AAA victory of the season, Woodlawn downed Fair Park 19-6. What was an evenly matched game for three quarters was broken open when two last-quarter touchdowns gave Woodlawn an assured lead.

Randy Mason took a three-yard touchdown pass from Trey Prather with 39 seconds left in the half to give the Knights a 6-0 advantage. But Fair Park struck back during the third quarter when Harry Watson rushed 81 yards for a TD to tie the score.

Buster Herren blasted 16 yards and Ralph Kraft kicked the extra point early in the fourth quarter to give the Knights a 13-6 lead. The clinching touchdown came, after Woodlawn had intercepted a pass, on a 33-yard aerial from Prather to Mason.

Woodlawn 26 Bastrop 0

Avenging a defeat from Bastrop last year, Woodlawn won its third game of the season with a 26-0 victory over the Rams.

Woodlawn started moving in the first quarter when Gerald Burnett caught a 28-yard pass from Trey Prather for a TD. Ralph Kraft's PAT gave the Knights a 7-0 lead.

In the third quarter Woodlawn punched across again with Burnett pushing two yards for a touchdown. Later Randy Mason breezed 65 yards for a third TD, and Kraft's kick made it 20-0. Randy Tunks finished the scoring with a six-yard run.

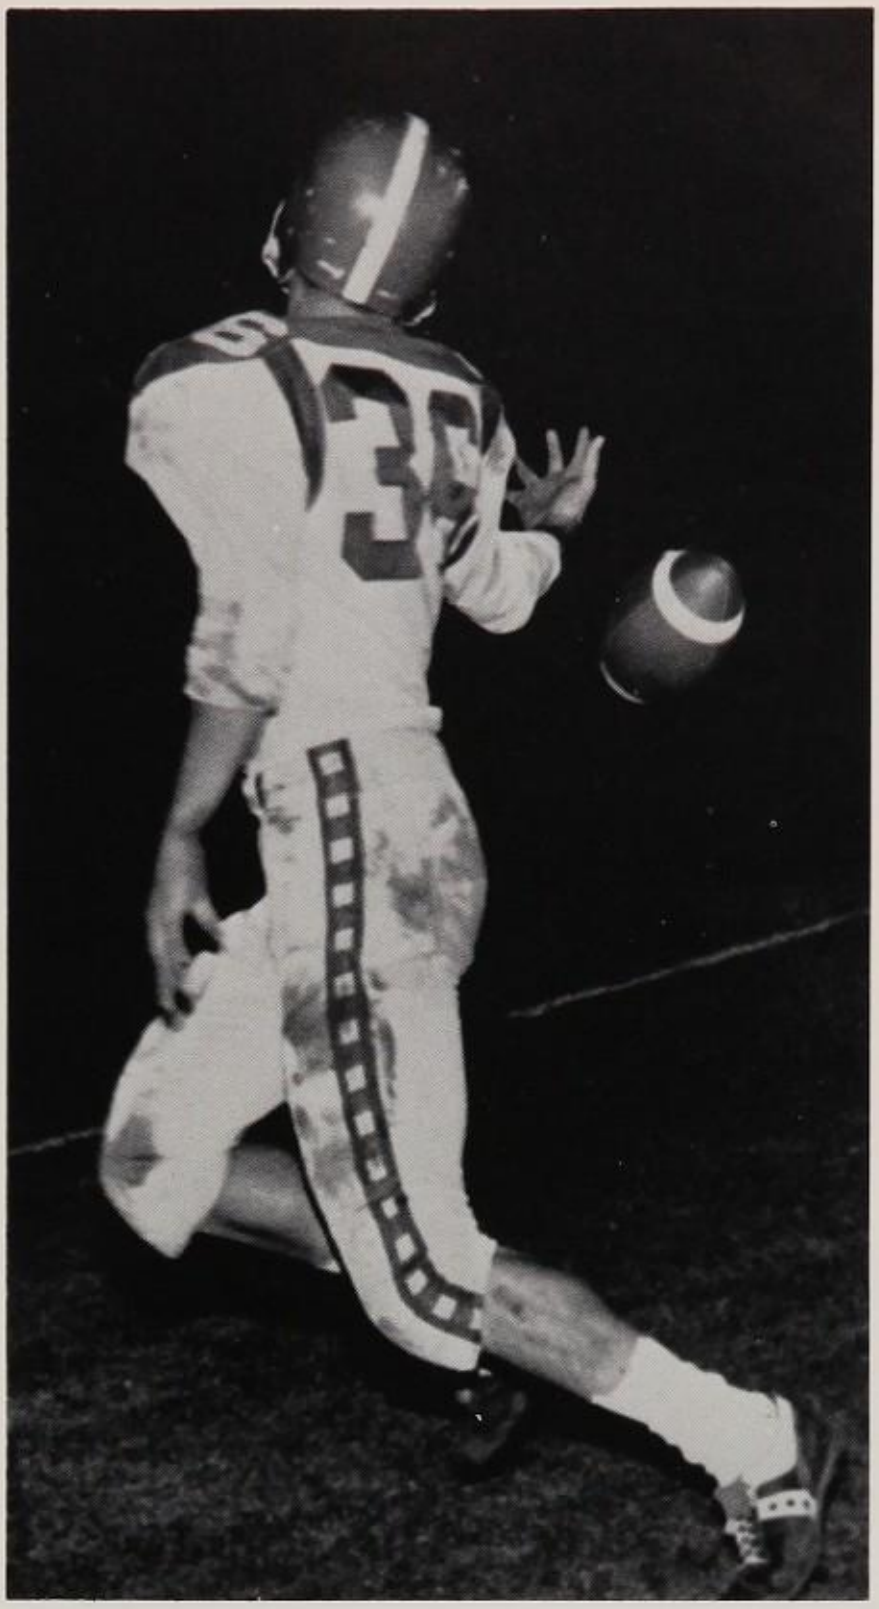
Woodlawn's defense was outstanding, holding Bastrop to 42 yards total offense.

Woodlawn 36 Ouachita 6

A slow start was followed by a whirlwind attack as Woodlawn blitzed Ouachita 36-6. The offense stood out for the Knights, gaining a total of 515 yards.

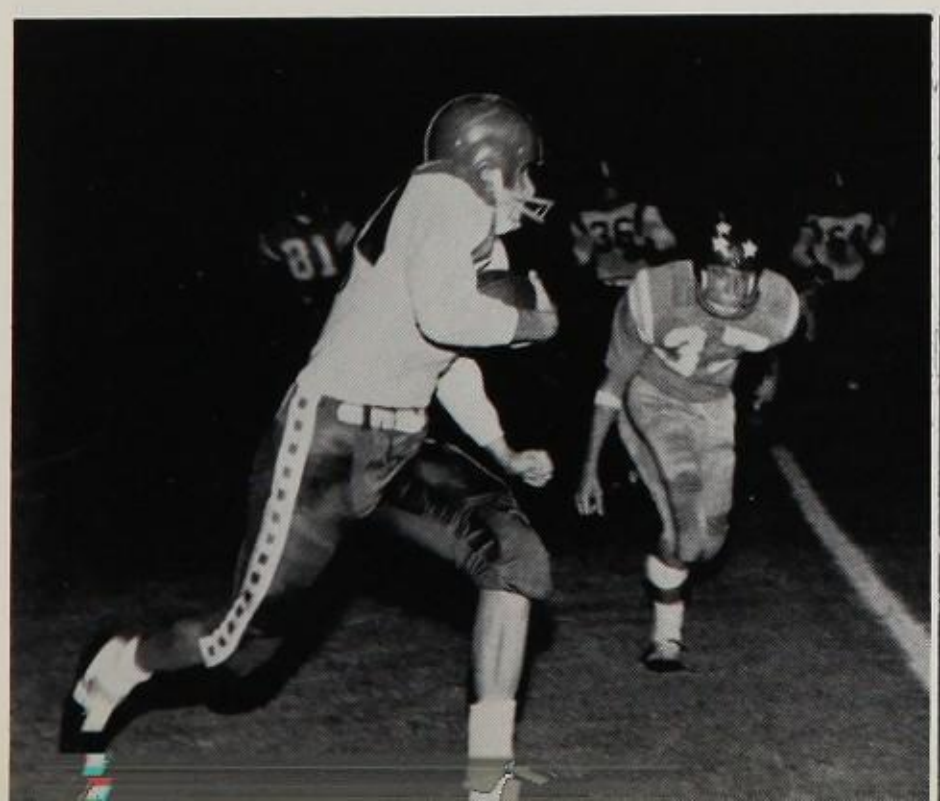
A safety and fullback Buster Herren's two-yard run gave Woodlawn a quick 9-0 lead. The Lions closed the score with a touchdown before the Knights' offense started moving. A 73-yard pass play from Trey Prather to Ken Liberto and Herren's run gave Woodlawn a 23-6 lead at halftime.

Second-half scores came on passes from Prather to Randy Mason and from Terry Bradshaw to Andy Creel. Randy Kraft kicked three extra points for Woodlawn.



Buster Herren, Woodlawn's third All-District fullback in three years, makes a grab at a pass thrown to him. Setting a school record, he rushed for 1,003 yards in 12 games.

Halfback Randy Mason heads toward one of his three touchdowns against West Monroe. Mason set another school mark by crossing the goal line 14 times during the season.



Gerald Burnett "turns the corner" and moves upfield against Fair Park. Burnett made the longest TD play in Woodlawn history when he ran 74 yards against North Caddo.

Woodlawn 27 Airline 0

All four starting backs figured in the scoring for Woodlawn as the Knights became the first team to shut out Airline in their initial year of football competition, blanking the Vikings 27-0.

Trey Prather, Buster Herren, and Randy Mason all scored on one-yard rush, while Gerald Burnett plunged two yards for his score. Ralph Kraft kicked the three extra points, after missing his first attempt. Herren gained 117 yards to lead the Knights in rushing.

The defense was once again a bright spot for the Knights, shutting out its third opponent of the season, and for the second time in the year, intercepting four passes. The young Vikings threatened several times, but each time the Woodlawn defense stiffened and kept the goal line uncrossed.

Woodlawn 38 W. Monroe 6

Keeping its slate clean with a record of 6-0, Woodlawn bounced by West Monroe 38-6 in a District 1-AAA game, which saw the Knights break the game wide open with 32 points in the second half.

This was one of Trey Prather's finest games as he passed for 256 yards and three scores.

The Rebels drew first blood with a first-quarter touchdown, but the Knights tied the score shortly before the half when Kenny Davis snagged a 47-yard pass from Prather.

Randy Mason scored three touchdowns in the second half, Andy Creel took a 38-yard aerial from Prather, and Terry Bradshaw hit Tom Hagin with a 69-yard bomb as the Knights put on a great offensive show to wrap up the win. This made the fourth straight year Woodlawn has beat West Monroe.

Woodlawn 7 Byrd 14

Byrd pinned the first loss of the season on Woodlawn by defeating the Knights 14-7 in the annual "Game of the Year" in the Shreveport area.

The Yellow Jackets capitalized on some Woodlawn mistakes to rack up touchdowns in the second and third quarters and put the Knights 14 points in the hole. But that margin was cut in half near the end of the third stanza when Trey Prather hit Gerald Burnett with a 66-yard TD bomb.

The Knights couldn't score again. They came close in the last minute of play when they drove inside the Byrd 30, but the clock rushed the Woodlawn attack and they lost the ball on downs. The Knights also moved deep into Jacket land early in the game but couldn't score, missing by inches a first down which could have kept the drive going.

Woodlawn 21 Ruston 7

Woodlawn got back into the winning way by stunning Ruston 21-7 in front of a Ruston Homecoming crowd.

Gerald Burnett scampered 18 yards to put the Knights on the scoreboard first. Ralph Kraft kicked the first of three extra points and Woodlawn led 7-0. Ruston tied the score with a TD in the second quarter, but an intercepted pass—one of the four the Knights stole—set up a four-yard scoring run by Buster Herren, which put Woodlawn ahead again.

The turning point in the game came in the third quarter when Ruston failed to score after driving to the Woodlawn 18 and controlling the ball most of the quarter. Randy Mason added the insurance touchdown for Woodlawn on a two-yard jaunt in the fourth period.

Woodlawn 28 Neville 14

Neville of Monroe provided Woodlawn with a great challenge at the Homecoming game, but the Knights easily passed the test and defeated the Tigers 28-14 to become the first team in the state to make the playoffs.

Trey Prather's running and an air-tight defense spurred the Knights to the district victory. Prather gained 89 yards rushing in Woodlawn's ball-control offense, set up by the defensive play of the Knights.

Two short TD runs by Buster Herren in the second period erased an early Neville lead. The Knights led 28-7 after Randy Mason had accounted for two more scores with a short run and an eight-yard TD toss from Prather, in addition to Ralph Kraft's four PAT's. Neville scored again in the last minute, making the final score 28-14.

Woodlawn 26 Minden 0

With their wounds still stinging from last year's defeat to Minden, the Knights impressively swamped the Crimson Tide 26-0 in Minden.

Woodlawn held a slim 6-0 lead at the half, having scored the first time it had the ball on a long drive, which ended when Randy Mason went into the end zone from one yard out.

But Buster Herren, who gained 136 yards rushing, led a strong second-half surge in which the Knights managed three touchdowns.

Trey Prather had a hand in each of the scores, passing 11 yards to Gerald Burnett for one and 21 yards to Mason for the other. The Woodlawn quarterback also ran for one TD from four yards out, a score which was set up by a pass interception by Knight tackle Byron Sprawls.

Knights Bounce Back Following Defeat

Trey Prather, who surprised Neville with his running whizardry, is spilled out of bounds by two Bengal defenders.

The tension of the upcoming game can be felt along the Woodlawn bench moments before the contest is slated to begin.

Woodlawn 20 Bossier 14

Buster Herren gained 112 yards rushing to lead Woodlawn to a 20-14 District 1-AAA win over Bossier's Bearkats, giving the Knights a final 7-1 record in district play.

Herren ran 14 yards for the game's first score in the second quarter and Ralph Kraft's PAT gave Woodlawn a 7-0 advantage. Bossier evened the score with 55 seconds left in the half but a good kickoff return by Tom Hagin put the ball deep in Bossier territory. Trey Prather's one-yard sneak gave the Knights a 13-7 lead with seconds left in the half.

The Knights stretched the lead to 20-7 when Jerry Humphries blasted over for a TD in the fourth quarter and Kraft booted the point. Bossier scored to make it 20-14, but the Kats could not manage another score.

Woodlawn 0 B. Rouge 6

Rain and a muddy field, familiar enemies of Woodlawn in state playoff battles, met the Knights in Baton Rouge and Baton Rouge's Bulldogs came away with a 6-0 victory to end Woodlawn's hopes of a state title.

The elements, which had hindered the Knights' 1963 playoff game, prevented the speedy Woodlawn attack from breaking loose. The Knights were almost unable to pass and only the first two times they had the ball did Woodlawn threaten to score.

Baton Rouge, the eventual state champions, scored the game's lone touchdown in the fourth quarter after blocking a Woodlawn punt. The loss broke an unbeaten streak of 18 road games for Woodlawn and marked the first time in 28 games the Knights had been shut out.

Sophomores Undefeated In Eight Games

Woodlawn's "B" and sophomore teams followed right in line with the tradition of the Woodlawn varsity as both squads played outstanding ball during the 1964 season.

The "B" team, a mixture of juniors and sophomores, recorded a 3-3 record and the sophomores went unbeaten in eight games, winning most of them by a large margin.

This phase of football is an important stepping stone to the varsity, because it provides the younger players with valuable game experience. Many of them play in two or three games a week.

Basketball Letter Earned By Six Boys

A lack of experience and depth were the main reasons Woodlawn's basketball squad was able to win only four of 26 games during the 1964-65 season.

The Knights won three district games, beating Ouachita, West Monroe, and Byrd in home games. Airline was the only other team the Knights defeated. Many of the losses the team suffered came in the last minute of play.

Seniors Ken Liberto, Trey Prather, Tommy Watson, Bobby Basinger, and Fabe Moseley started the majority of the games for Woodlawn, and junior Larry Bazer was the main substitute.

Liberto scored 496 total points in 23 games, an average of 21.6 points a game. Both these marks were new school records.

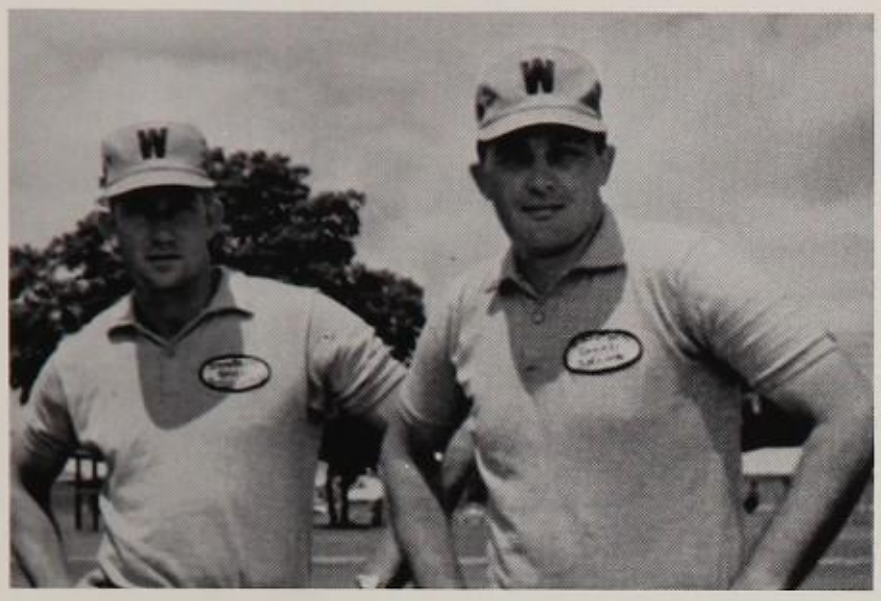
Records Set At District Track Meet



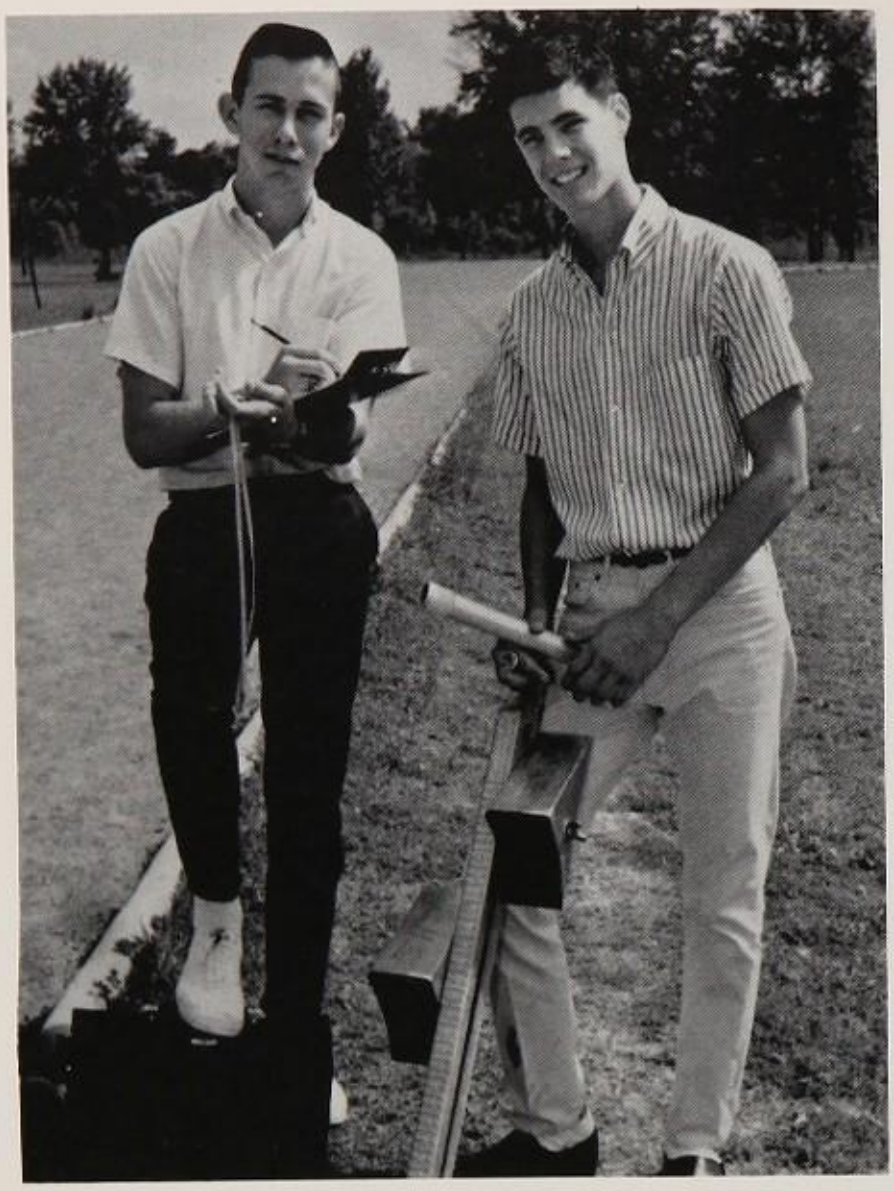
Track Coaches—A. L. Williams and Billy Joe Adcox

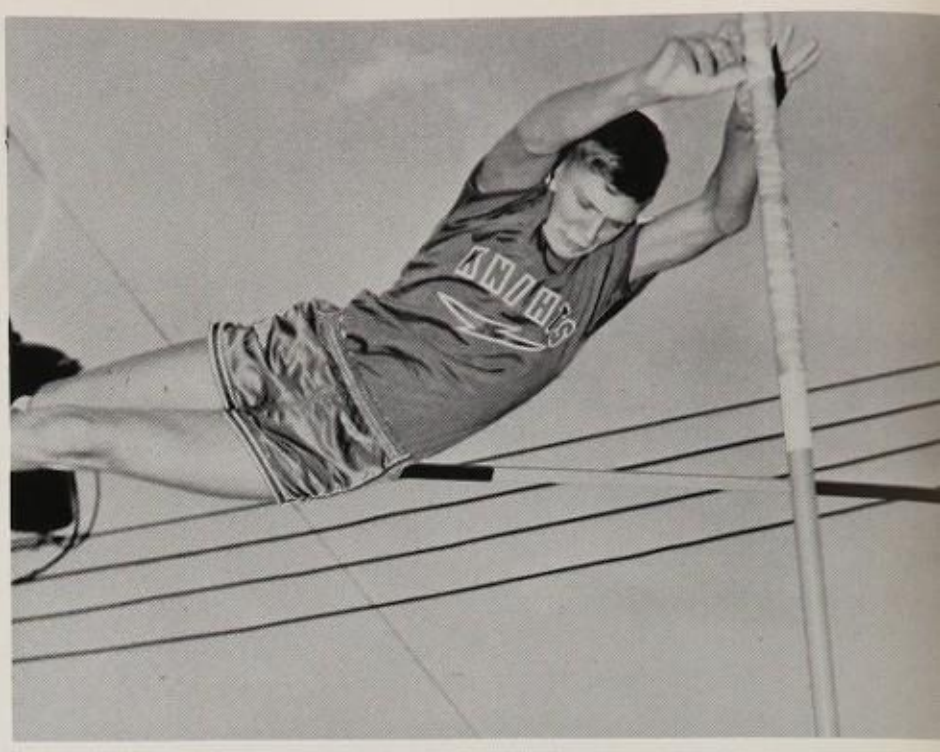
Woodlawn's youthful 1964 track team reached its peak in the district meet and qualified three individuals and two relay teams for the state meet in Baton Rouge and they managed to get five points for the Knights.

Rodney Bauman finished fifth in the 220-yard dash, Larry Alexander took fourth place in the high jump, and the 880-yard relay team came in fifth for the five points. Javelin thrower Terry Bradshaw and the 440-yard relay team also made the trip but did not score.

All three Woodlawn relay teams set new school records in the district meet, and good performances by other Knights gave Woodlawn a third place finish.

Rodney Bauman breaks the tape ahead of his competitors in the 100-yard dash at the Bossier High School Track Meet.





Tommy Spinks, a sophomore, goes high in the air and clears the bar at 11'6" to tie a school record in the pole vault. This event is probably one of the hardest in track.

Keeping time during practice sessions and being where the coaches need them most are a few of the duties of the track managers, Teddy Linn and Gary Bradshaw.

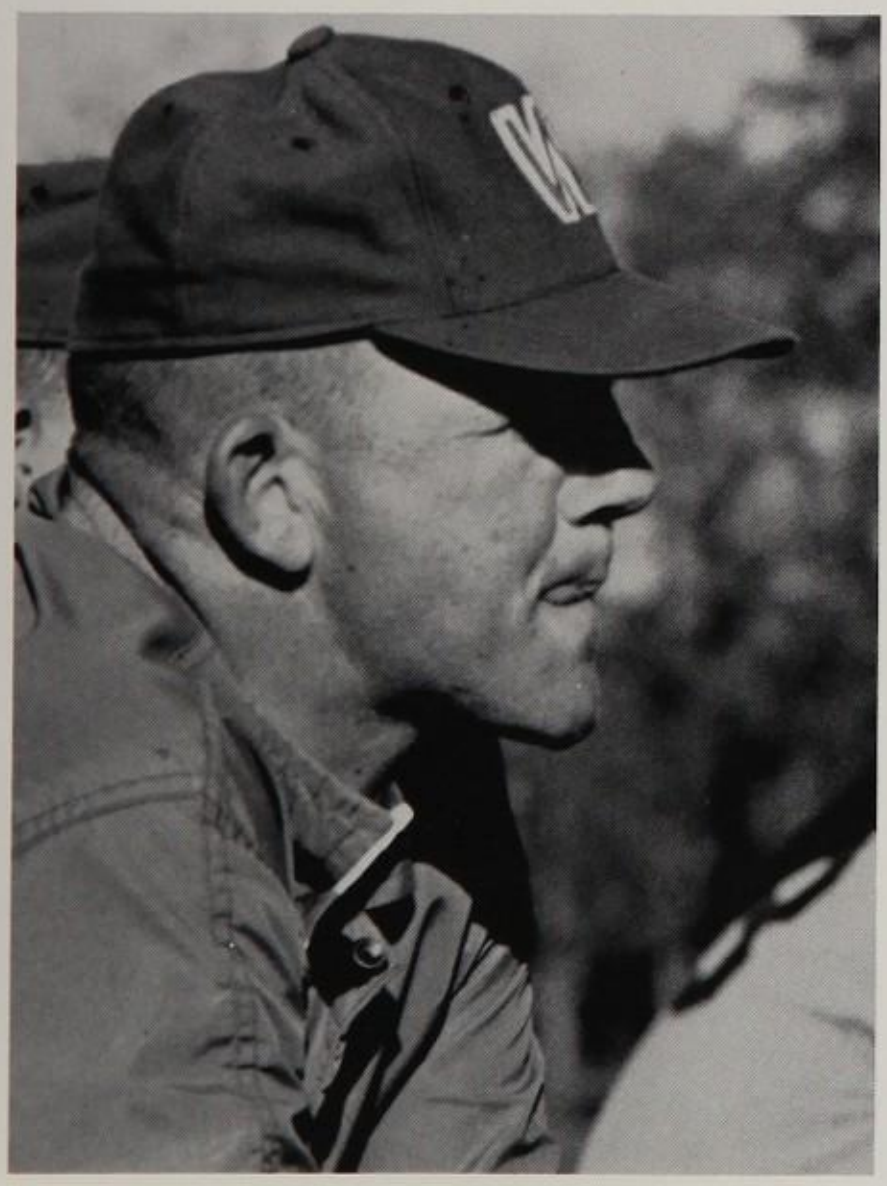
Baseball Team Loses District Playoff



A late season slump, which saw them drop six of seven games, prevented the 1964 Woodlawn baseball team from going into the state playoffs. Nevertheless, the Knights posted a 10-9-1 record, including a 6-3 Western Division record, good enough to tie Fair Park for first place.

The Knights lost a playoff game to Fair Park and took on West Monroe in the district playoffs. The Rebels beat Woodlawn two out of three to end the Knights' state playoff hopes.

Herbie Grubbs, Jimmy Edwards and Byron Sprawls were selected to the All-City team at their positions, and Ken Liberto joined them on the All-Western Division team as a utility player.

Five seniors, Edwards, Grubbs, David Basinger, Dennis Newbury, and Billy Payne headed the team.

Liberto, Sprawls, Joe Colvin, Andy Creel, Ramon Cross, Jerry Friar, Ralph Kraft, and Trey Prather were the junior lettermen, and John Kerley was the lone sophomore to letter.

Coach Jerry Adams keeps the Knights on their toes by leading the spirit from the bench. He works hard to keep the team's morale high so they may play at their best.

Joe Colvin suffers the frustrations of a base runner who is out trying to steal a base against Bossier in a ballgame which the Knights won 4-1.

Four Players Named To All-District

Nico Van Thyn and Rex Lockwood served as baseball managers. They spent hours working because baseball games and practice require much extra time.

Herbie Grubbs, All-District outfielder, comes toward home plate with one of the seven runs the Knights scored in the second playoff game with West Monroe.

First Golf Team Had Six Players

For the first time in the school's history, Woodlawn participated in golf. The Knights held matches with Byrd, Fair Park, Bossier, Minden, North Caddo, Plain Dealing, and Springhill.

Six juniors, Mike Reeves, Leon Williams, Tommy Bellows, Paul Fetterhoff, Ronald Collins, and Frank Gertson, made up the golf team, and the first four named returned to play again this year.

Coach W. B. Calvert was responsible for setting up the matches which were played. The players practiced between three to five o'clock every school day at the Querbes Park course or at Meadowlake Country Club, site of all Woodlawn home matches. The boys furnished their own golf equipment.

Although the first year of golf at Woodlawn was not highly successful, it established the foundation for this sport in future years.

Tennis Team Sends Two To State Meet

Amidst the budding trees and buzzing bees at Woodlawn High in the spring can be heard the sound of swinging tennis rackets. For the tennis players, spring means practice and anticipation of the matches ahead. Many exhausting hours of chasing, serving, and returning tennis balls keep the players busy during practice.

Coached by Lee Hedges, the Knights counted two victories over Ruston and a win and tie over Bossier. Senior Mike Johnson and junior Steve Thurber combined to win two doubles matches in the state meet.

Boys who lettered in 1964 were: Senior Mike Johnson; juniors Steve Thurber, Ray Jackson, Gary Laun; and sophomore John Gray.

Girls who lettered included seniors Woody Herren, Charlotte Webster, Alma O'Con, Linda Gauthier; and juniors Joyce Minnis, Cookie Hollowell, and Betty Bell.

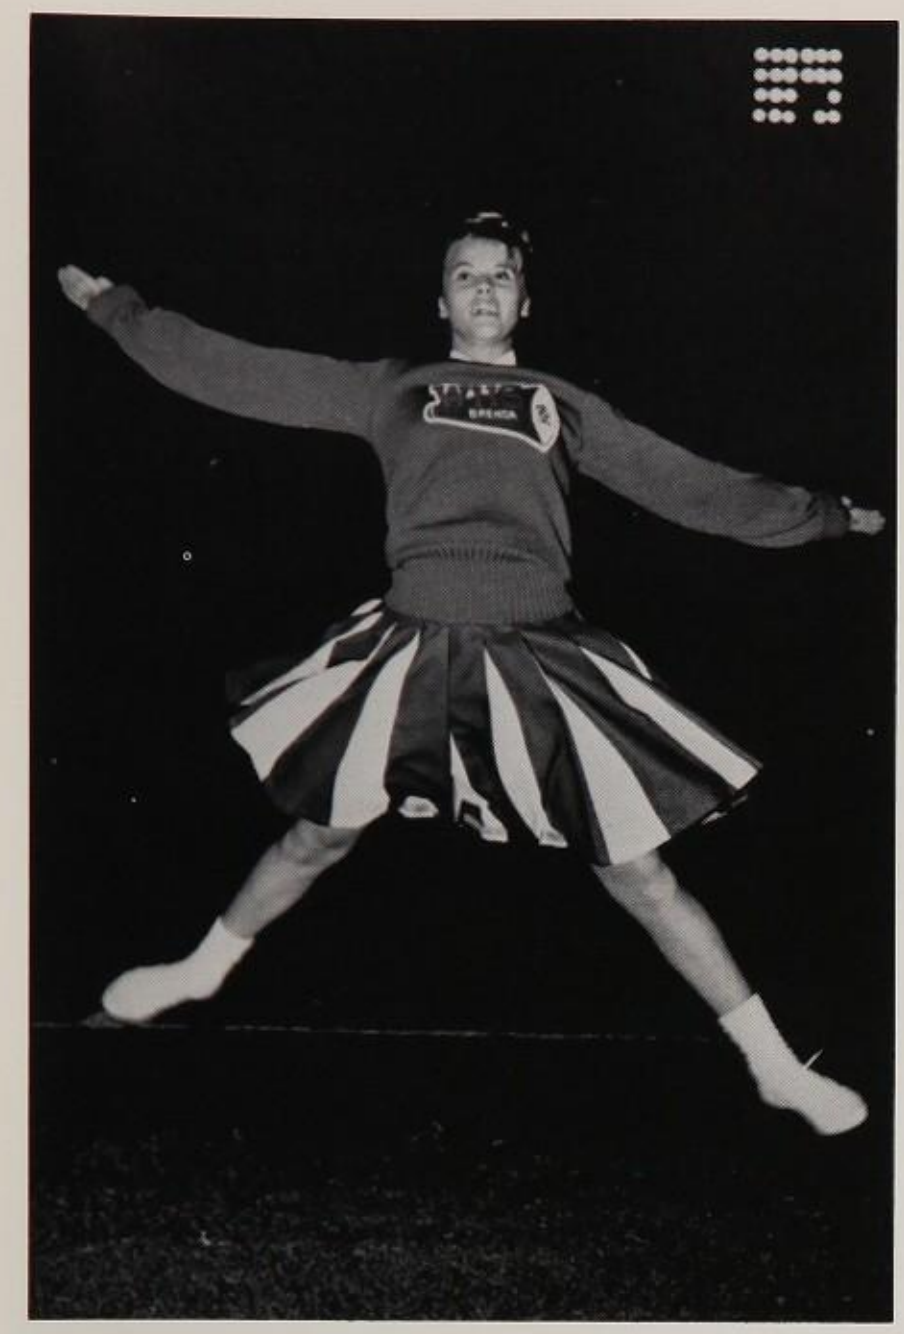
"Snap" go her fingers as Head Cheerleader Pat Rice brings the group to attention at a crucial moment to start a cheer. Pat helps to see that pep rallies are well planned and that the Lancerettes learn the cheers and chants. She is also responsible for learning new cheers and creating dances to the music provided by the band.

From a scroll, senior cheerleader Pam Fain reads "The Legend of The Knight" before proclaiming the entrance of Sir Knight. This ceremony was held at the pep rally before the Byrd game.

Sounds of "swish-sh-sh" were heard each time Judy Cole jubilantly waved her red and blue pom-poms as the cheerleaders did their dance routine to the strains of "Hello, Dolly."



Bouncy is a word that could be used to describe the Cheerleaders as they get lots of practice jumping up and down. Brenda Boyette leaps into the air as she finishes a yell.

Cheerleaders Win 5 Blue Ribbons At SMU

Six young ladies, four seniors and two juniors, dressed gaily in school colors of Scarlet and Royal Blue, lead the cheering for Woodlawn's athletic teams. The entire student body votes in the cheerleader election held each spring, and the girl receiving the most votes is named Head Cheerleader. Pat Rice had the distinction of wearing that title in this the school's fifth year.

To Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, they went last summer from August 9-14 to get training in a cheerleader school. There the group received five first place ribbons—the same number won by last year's cheerleaders—and a Second Place trophy.

All six girls attended all Knight football games this year including the State Play-Off game in Baton Rouge, and all basketball games. They also were guests at the annual football banquet on Wednesday night, December 23.

Meeting in the gym each day during sixth period gives them ample opportunity to practice with the pep squad.

Ball season keeps them extremely busy with practicing motions and cheers, painting posters, planning skits for pep rallies and decorating goal posts. Yet they find time to do other things. They further promote school spirit by selling slogan ribbons, buttons, and decals.

With vigor and vitality, Marcia Dolin, junior cheerleader, shouts "Go, Knights, go," as she helps the other cheerleaders lead the pep squad in rooting for the team.

"Block that kick," chants perky Susie Wright while frantically urging the Lancerettes to yell louder and longer as an opponent attempts to make an extra point.

Lancerettes Do Precision Hand Drills

Approximately 240 girls wear the Lancerette uniform and cheer for the Knights. This number gives the group its largest membership ever, and it is believed to be the largest pep squad in the state.

Unique flash card drills add interest to many performances. The flash card routines include these designs—players' numbers, Coach Hedges' name, a knight's head, a knight on a horse, and the Lancerette shield. When Sir Knight was presented at the game with Byrd, the pep squad marched and spelled out the letters K-N-I-G-H-T on the football field. They also participated in the Homecoming ceremonies.

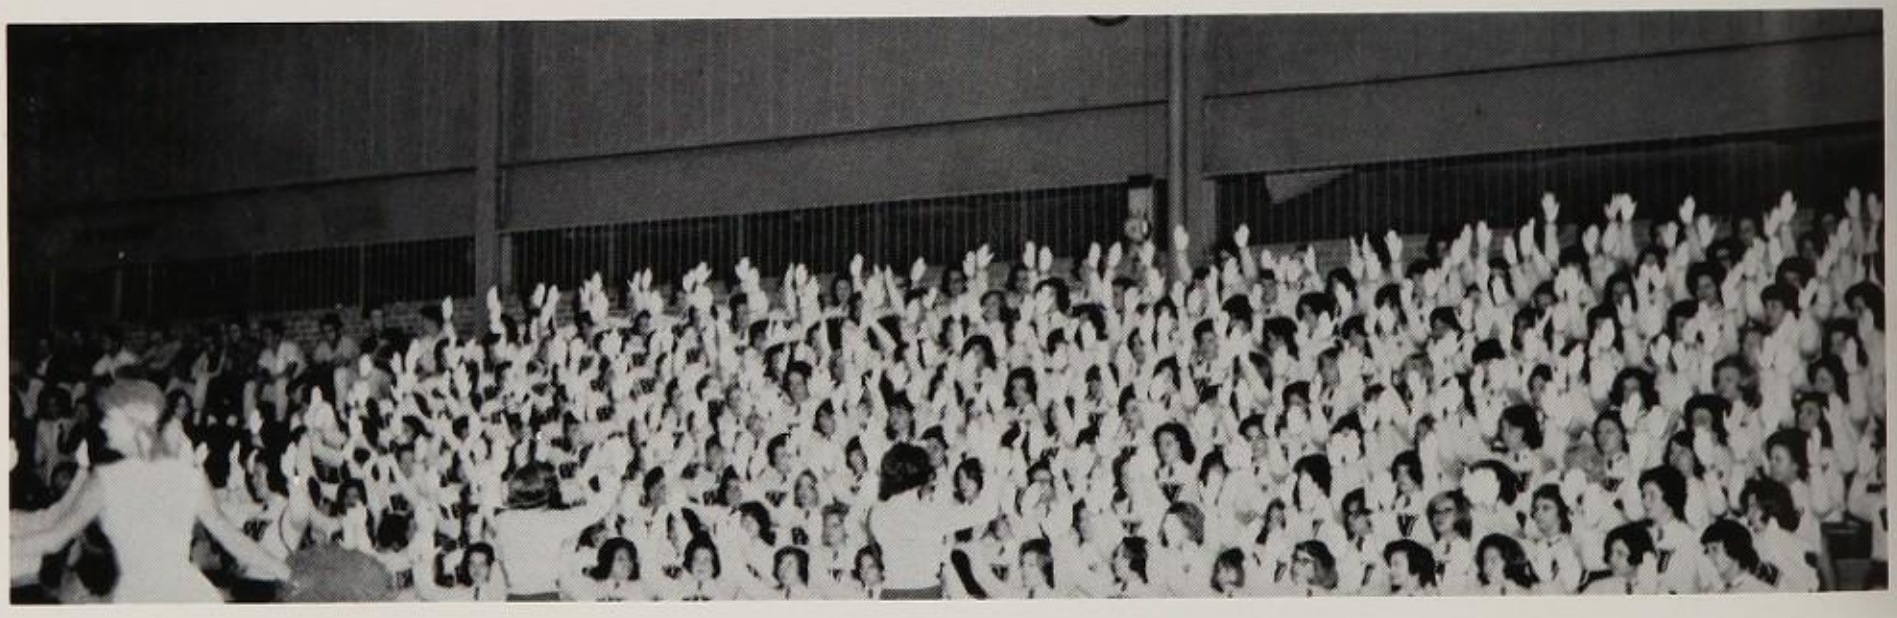
Not only did they attend all football and basketball games, they traveled to Baton Rouge the day after Thanksgiving to see the Knights battle Baton Rouge High in the State Play Offs.

Some memorable events of the year include marching downtown in the State Fair Parade, Holiday-In-Dixie Parade, and attending the annual pep squad Banquet. Funds for the year-end banquet are obtained by sponsoring a Lancerette-Faculty basketball game and running the concession stand at all home basketball games.

The physical education teachers, Miss Joyce Jordan, Miss Pat Bobbitt, Miss Betty Dixon, Mrs. Betty Hervey, and Mrs. Martha Plummer co-operate in sponsoring this large organization.

During football season the group meets daily for practice during the sixth period. For the rest of the year, call meetings bring the group together when necessary. Girls must maintain a C average and meet faculty and sponsor recommendations for membership.

TOP: Pep rallies are made colorful by the participation of the Lancerettes. Row after row of neatly arranged girls, wearing blue skirts and white sweaters, do flashy, precision hand drills revealing hundreds of white gloved hands. BOTTOM: Sounds of clap, clap, clap ring out across the stadium as the pep squad girls cheer at one of the home football games.



A megaphone enables all the girls to hear Colonel Jeanne Annison's voice as she tells them about a new routine.

Teamwork is an important factor in keeping a pep squad together. Lt. Colonel Sandra Groves is out front as they march in the State Fair Parade.

High ranking officers in the pep squad include Lt. Colonel Sandra Groves, Major Sheryl Garner, and Major Sandy Ebarb.

Peppy Jeanne Annison served as Colonel of the 1964-65 Lancerettes. She, as the highest ranking officer, led the large group in all its activities.

Combined Effort Creates Great Spirit

Co-operation is the key to success in most school activities. It has certainly been a main factor in the development of the widely-noted Woodlawn Spirit. Two groups—the Cheerleaders and the Lancerettes—have combined their efforts to make an outstanding cheering section.

All of them have sixth period gym so they have daily practice sessions. This time together is used to learn yells, songs, and chants. During this period, the Lancerettes also have time to practice flash card drills, and the Cheerleaders paint posters and plan pep rallies.

Results of this co-operative effort are witnessed each time these groups make a public appearance whether it be at pep rallies or games.

Pre-school pep rallies create enthusiasm among the students as they gather around to hear the Cheerleaders.

Phys Ed Now Gives One Credit Yearly

Starting with the 1964-1965 session, Louisiana students will receive one full credit yearly in physical education. Thus in four years, each one will graduate with four PE credits, with a few exceptions. Because of this, Caddo teachers are working to synchronize the parish PE program.

Physical activities in the girls' program include basketball, softball, volleyball, tennis, badminton, tumbling, recreational games, and dancing—tap, modern, square and folk. Rules and fundamentals of these activities are also taught, and the students are tested on them.

Six weeks of health is now required within the physical education program in Louisiana high schools, and new health textbooks for each grade level have been adopted by the state and parish.

Physical education is taught to develop the whole individual—mentally, physically, and socially. Team effort, co-operation, and good sportsmanship are constantly stressed by the five gym instructors.

An unusual four week unit on the balance beam is taught by Mrs. Hervey. The beam was made last year by the school shop teacher, and Mrs. Hervey is the only teacher to use it. She says the girls make remarkable progress on it.

Exercises are more fun when the students can lead them. Miss Jordan has two of her students, Alita Mauldin and Linda Vice, instruct the others during the exercise period. Girls are often used to help the teachers demonstrate a new idea to the class.

"Eager to play" describes Mrs. Plummer's senior girls when tennis is mentioned. The girls team up for doubles, and at the end of the unit they have a tournament to pick the best team. One class is practicing on the school's four available courts.

Miss Dixon teaches her junior girls a unit on volleyball each year. Judy Talmadge, Joyce Walls, and Sandra Veillon hit the ball and try to score. All girls wear a uniform that consist of a white shirt and black shorts.

To play basketball, one must be a fast runner. Peggy Horton rushes toward her teammates in a conditioning relay.

Boys' PE Develops Physical Skills

Education of a student would not be complete without training that contributes to his health and physical development. Thus the physical education program is designed to develop physical skill, emotional maturity, and to give emphasis to high moral values. The four boys' PE instructors stress proper attitudes, good sportsmanship, and health habits that will help to enrich the boys' lives in the future.

Excellent equipment and lockers are available for use in the boys' program. The curriculum includes supervised instruction in touch football—a favorite with most boys—basketball, softball, track, tumbling, volleyball, weight lifting, and recreational games. And this year, for the first time, the state is requiring a six weeks study in health education.

PE classes are held one hour daily, five days per week. Previously one-fourth credit per year was earned, giving only one full credit in PE at the end of four years in high school. However, beginning with the current session, a full unit will be earned for each year, giving a total of four credits in phys. ed. to a graduating senior.

Basketball is one of the favorite activities in the boys' PE classes. It is so popular, it is played almost every day. Opponents, above, scramble for the ball in a contest between teams in a fifth period class.

Larry Netherland catches the ball as Donald Cooper (second from left facing front) grits his teeth, clenches his fist, and gets ready to surge forward. This touch football game was in progress in Coach Hedges' 4th period class.

Class Portraits

Around 900 people from several different schools came together for the first time in September, 1960, to comprise Woodlawn's first student body. Classes were small that year, and five classrooms on third floor were not even used.

Each year has brought an increase in enrollment so that the fifth year recorded around 2000 students. This tremendous growth is seen by a comparison of the number of students in each class in 1960 with the total in each group in 1965.

Sophomores in 1960 numbered 426 as compared to 726 registered this year. The junior class has 657 this year, and it had only 357 the first year. The first graduating class had a meager total of 180 seniors that received a diploma in the school's celebrated first graduation program. Graduates in May, 1965, numbered 596.

Clothes made in New York were featured in this year's style show sponsored by the Home Ec classes. Senior Sheila Frady was one model selected to show some of the fashions. The clothes, made from McCall patterns, were pictured in the Back-To-School issue of Seventeen Magazine.

Marching onto the field for the weekly NDCC parade are officers and sponsors Jack Hemphill, Karen Bryant, Martin Philyaw, John English, Margaret Hawthorne, Pam Parker, and Jim Wainwright. The parades teach the corps members the finer details of military discipline.

As the year draws to an end, each senior recalls his days at Woodlawn—days filled with fun, excitement, exams, and preparations for college. Each feels at the time that his work is finished and his dreams have been fulfilled, but actually life is only beginning. No matter how far he may wander from events of his high school days, he will always remember the occasion when he sat, clothed in cap and gown, with his classmates before bidding them farewell.

Space around a mirror is limited as girls dash in to check their make up before the last bell. Peggy Arnold did find one corner where she could check her lipstick.

Student election campaigns mean posters, gadgets, slogans, and gimmicks all over the school campus. Ray Jackson put up his poster and stepped back to look at it.

Juniors Helps With Faculty Pictures

Linda White, faculty editor of the ACCOLADE, touches up her hair style while helping with the teachers' pictures. Linda worked with the photographer to see that the faculty members kept on schedule.

Cheerleaders sell football slogan ribbons on the morning of each game. Marcia Dolin asks Jimmy Buckner and Dale Long which color ribbon they prefer to purchase this time.

When traveling to out-of-town games, the Lancerette drummers see that the drums are kept in good condition. Shelley Carter, Judy Roberts, Mari Tobin, and Darlene Durbin load them on the bus to go to the Bastrop game.

Safety Council members sell home game football tickets to students on the morning of each game. Ralph Chisolm, Joe Thibeau, and Eugene Branch buy the tickets for their homerooms from Rita Woodruff and Karen Bryant.

A part of each school day's routine is standing in the lunchline. Though there are five different shifts, a long line may be found during either period. Around 1600 students wait for the meals prepared daily under the supervision of Mrs. Sybil Thompson.

Attractive posters displayed on four different occasions inspired around 1600 students to buy a copy of the 1965 ACCOLADE. Mary Beth Knight (center, facing camera) and other circulation staff members try to choose a slogan that will be effective.

Junior Barbara Procell and Kathy Driver, senior, read poetry from the Literary Calvacade in fourth period Speech II. Mrs. Judith Bordelon teaches this course which specializes in drama.

Around 600 Knights went by chartered bus to Baton Rouge to see the Knights play Baton Rough High School. The trip was tiring but Shirley Grunwald and Barbara Fonville enjoyed clowning a bit.

Students take time out from their gym classes to catch up on some of the latest castle news. It is printed monthly in the school newspaper—the WOODLAWN HERALD. Interest in school happenings can be witnessed by observing the eager readers with the latest edition.

Rain and overcast skies did not stop Susie Wright from decorating the goal posts for the homecoming game. Susie was protecting her hair for she was presented as a junior maid in the court that night.

Senior Scholastic, used regular in Miss Coffey's American History class, maintained the interest of Mike Flores, Jimmy Buckner; and Andy Creel. Randy Tunks found it necessary to get information from the teacher.

Winners in all school elections usually hear the results in the principal's office. Mr. Turner informs Susie Wright, Pat Rice, Marcia Dolin, Pam Fain and Jane Cantrell that they were elected as homecoming attendants.

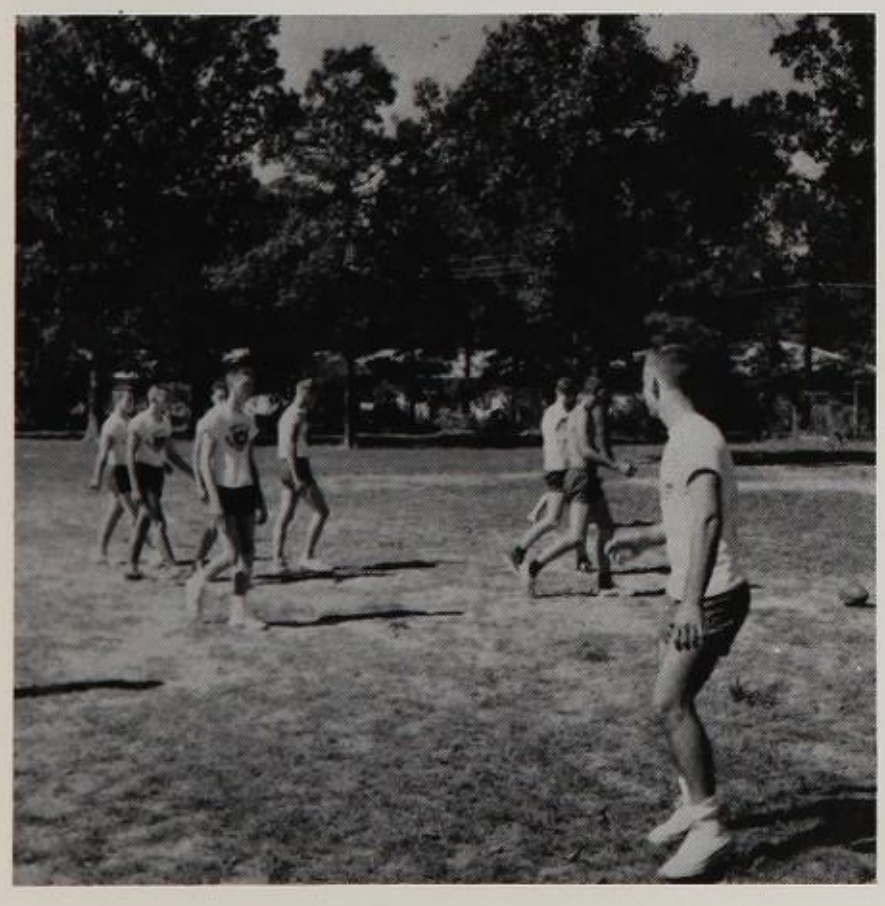
Members of Coach A. L. Williams fifth period class (left) and Coach Lee Hedges second period PE group (right) play touch football during gym class. This game is an important phase in the boys' physical education program at Woodlawn, and it takes up much of the class time in the first two six weeks of school while the weather is still good. Four fulltime instructors are employed to implement physical training for the boys enrolled in school.



Sometimes photographers get photographed unaware. Charlene Humphries, ACCOLADE staff member, was caught in the act of snapping her camera shutter as she was picturing the band reading the HERALD.

Ann Etier exhibits her camera as she gives a required demonstration talk in her fourth period Speech I class. Classmates Ronnie Morrow, Fred Chevalier, and Jane Burks watch and listen as she shows how to use the camera.

Style Show Clothes Shown In Seventeen

McCall patterns were used to make the clothes fashioned in New York, but Woodlawn girls got to model them in a style show. Andra McCullough wore one of the outfits which was featured in the Back-To-School issue of Seventeen Magazine, published in August.

Oblivious to all the excitement at school that day, Barbara Edmonds calmly worked on her suit she was making in home economics. The blackboard clearly indicates what team the Knights played that night.

As he works in Mechanical Drawing II, Craig Estes leans over his desk to draw plans for his own dream house. Craig serves as an officer in the Industrial Arts Club.

ACCOLADE Editor Sharon Bagby evidently said something hilarious to Kay King, junior Lancerette, who rared back in laughter as they waited to practice.

Many Juniors Were Homecoming Nominees

Immediately preceding the election of the homecoming court, Mr. Turner discussed with the nominees the costs involved and what was expected of them so that each could choose if she wished to keep her name on the ballot.

Carey Walters and Bill Hodge help Joyce Racine climb to the top of the fence. The three were getting in place to have a picture taken for the October edition of the HERALD, as they were the Personalities for that issue.

Mr. Bennett's Civics classes studied political parties and campaigns immediately preceding the presidential election. To spark interest in the event, two students presented arguments for the two major nominees. Campaigning for Senator Goldwater was Russell Wilks. Paula Martin spoke in behalf of President Johnson. After the speeches, there were many heated discussions on each candidate's issues. Then the class had a straw vote for their favorite candidate.

Tremendous interest in the football game against Byrd High inspired the school slogan, "Swat the Yellow Jackets." To emphasize this, many students brought fly swatters decorated in the school colors of red and blue. They ranged in size from Barbara Roberts' small beribboned one to the huge swatter of wire displayed by James Moore and Russell Deeds.

When distributed in homerooms each six weeks, report cards bring happiness to some students and sadness to others. Was Betty Frazier happy or sad when she got hers?

Hair dripping from sitting through the downpour during the game, Sherry Boyett and Mary Jane Beam attempted to sleep on the return trip from the play-off game.

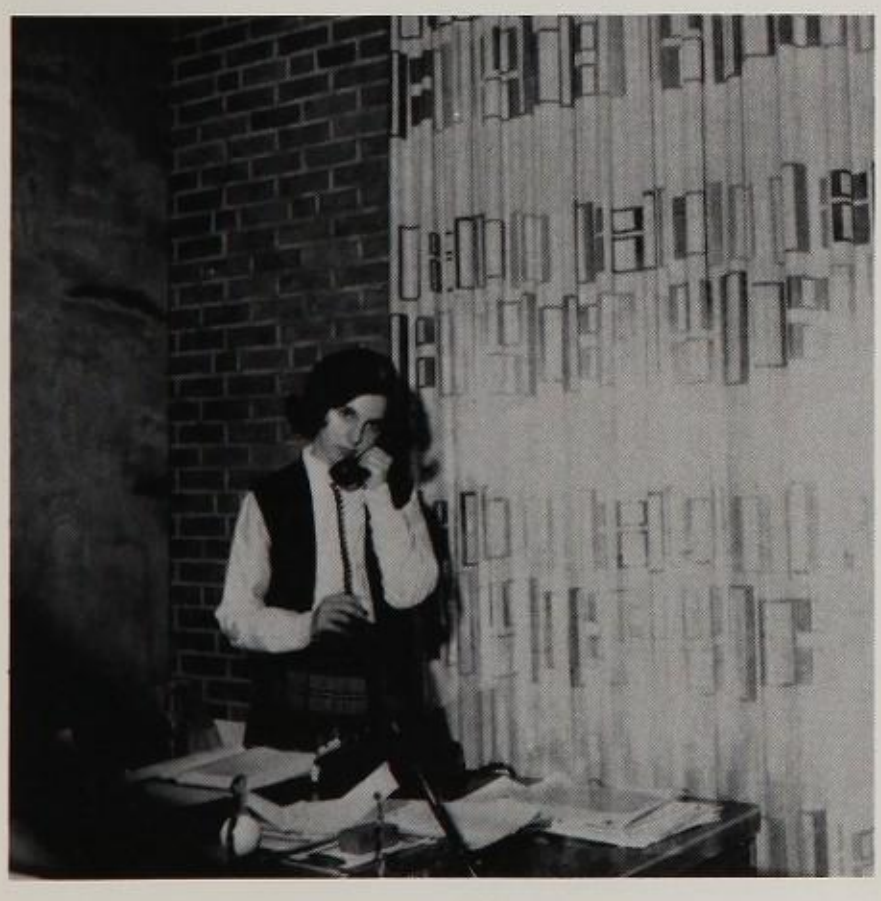
Lorraine Bagby had good news to tell her mother as she used the principal's office phone. Mr. Turner had just informed her that she was elected sophomore class treasurer.



Expressing unbelief at being elected sophomore maid in Woodlawn's Homecoming Court of 1964, Patty Hodge shed tears of joy after learning the news in the office.

The cafeteria staff prepares around 1600 lunches a day for the Knights of Woodlawn. Typical daily scenes reveal long lunch lines and students hurrying to finish eating before their lunch period is over. Lunches are served in five shifts.

Jan Sojka, a member of Future Teachers of America, glanced through a picture album at the School Pictures booth at the State Teachers' Convention in November.

Diane Arnold prepared candies and cookies that were sold by the Future Homemakers at the booth they sponsored at the NDCC Carnival on Tuesday, November 10.

John Popejoy, an excellent typist, worked diligently at this subject and his speed was around 50 words per minute, highly accurate, after only twelve weeks of instruction.

Remembering to bring their money for an early Accolade sale, Mary Steadman and Tommy Rainbolt pay their home-room teacher, Mrs. Allen, and wait for a receipt.

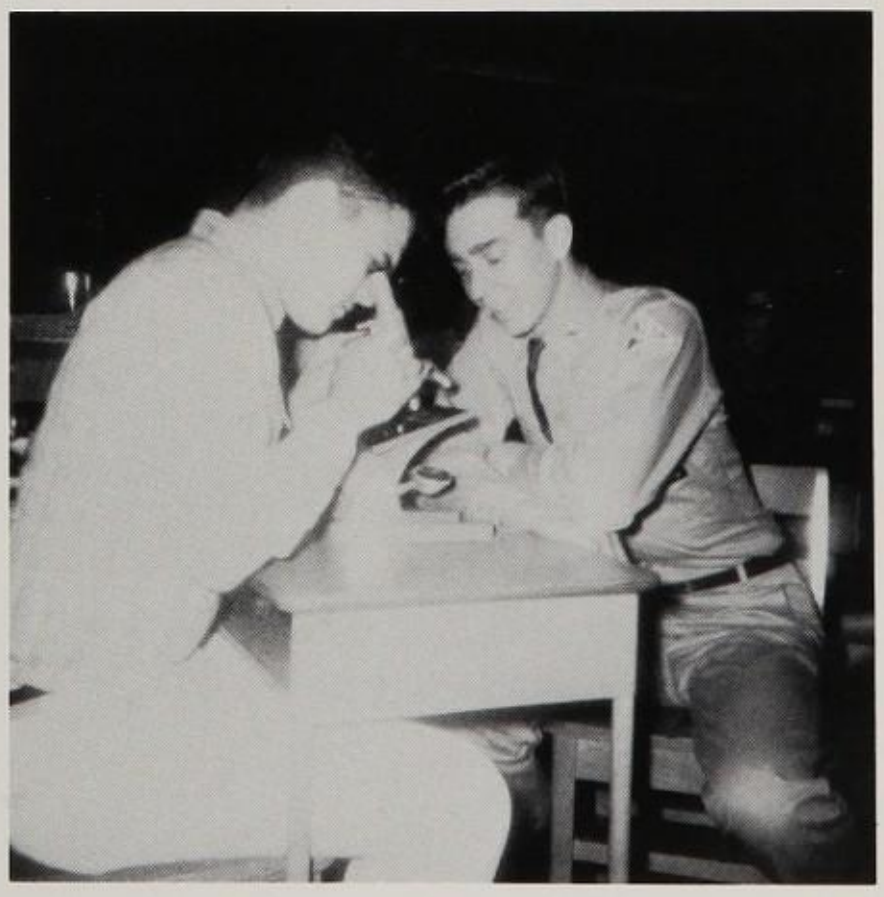
Pep Squad provided thrilling moments as sophomore Lancerettes marched in the State Fair Parade. Sue Cleveland and Suzanne Morrell enjoyed this one.

Fascinating things were observed by Walter Britton and Pat Bradford as they studied animal cells through a microscope in a sophomore biology class.



Advertisements

For five years, growth has been witnessed in all things connected with Woodlawn. This is true in the realm of advertising space in the ACCOLADE as it, too, has greatly increased. The first yearbook, the 1961 ACCOLADE, had 150 advertisements including all sizes. Those ads were displayed on 27 pages. The 1965 book, the fifth one, contains 214 ads which occupy 39 pages.

The increase in the income from advertisements has helped to finance the yearly increase in pages in the yearbook. The book has almost doubled in size as it has grown from 192 pages in the first edition to 368 pages in the fifth edition.

Taking time out from lunch for a refreshing coke are Mary Beth Knight, Judy Barnhill, Cheryl Malone, and Susie Simmons.

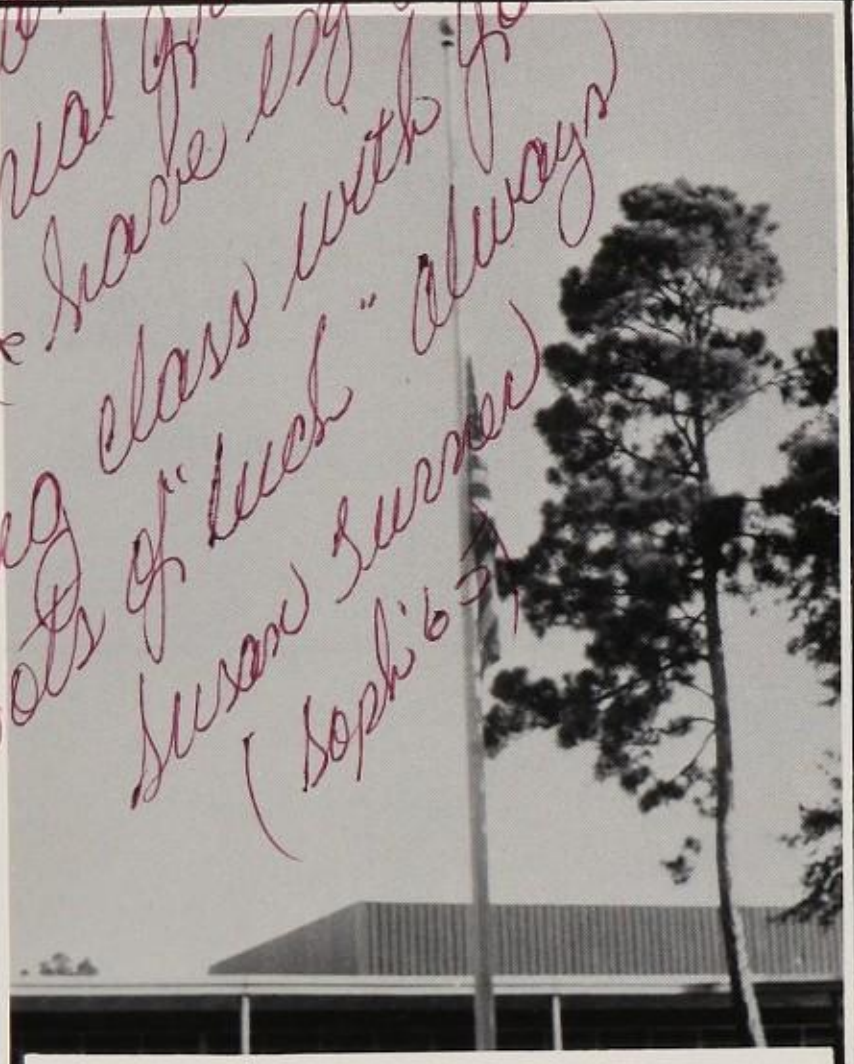
Dreaming of the day when she will order her class ring, junior Priscilla Thomas carefully examines the senior rings of Joyce Williams and Lynda Montgomery.



Half-mast was the command for the 30-day mourning period for the thirty-first president of the United States, Herbert Hoover. President Hoover died on October 20, 1964.

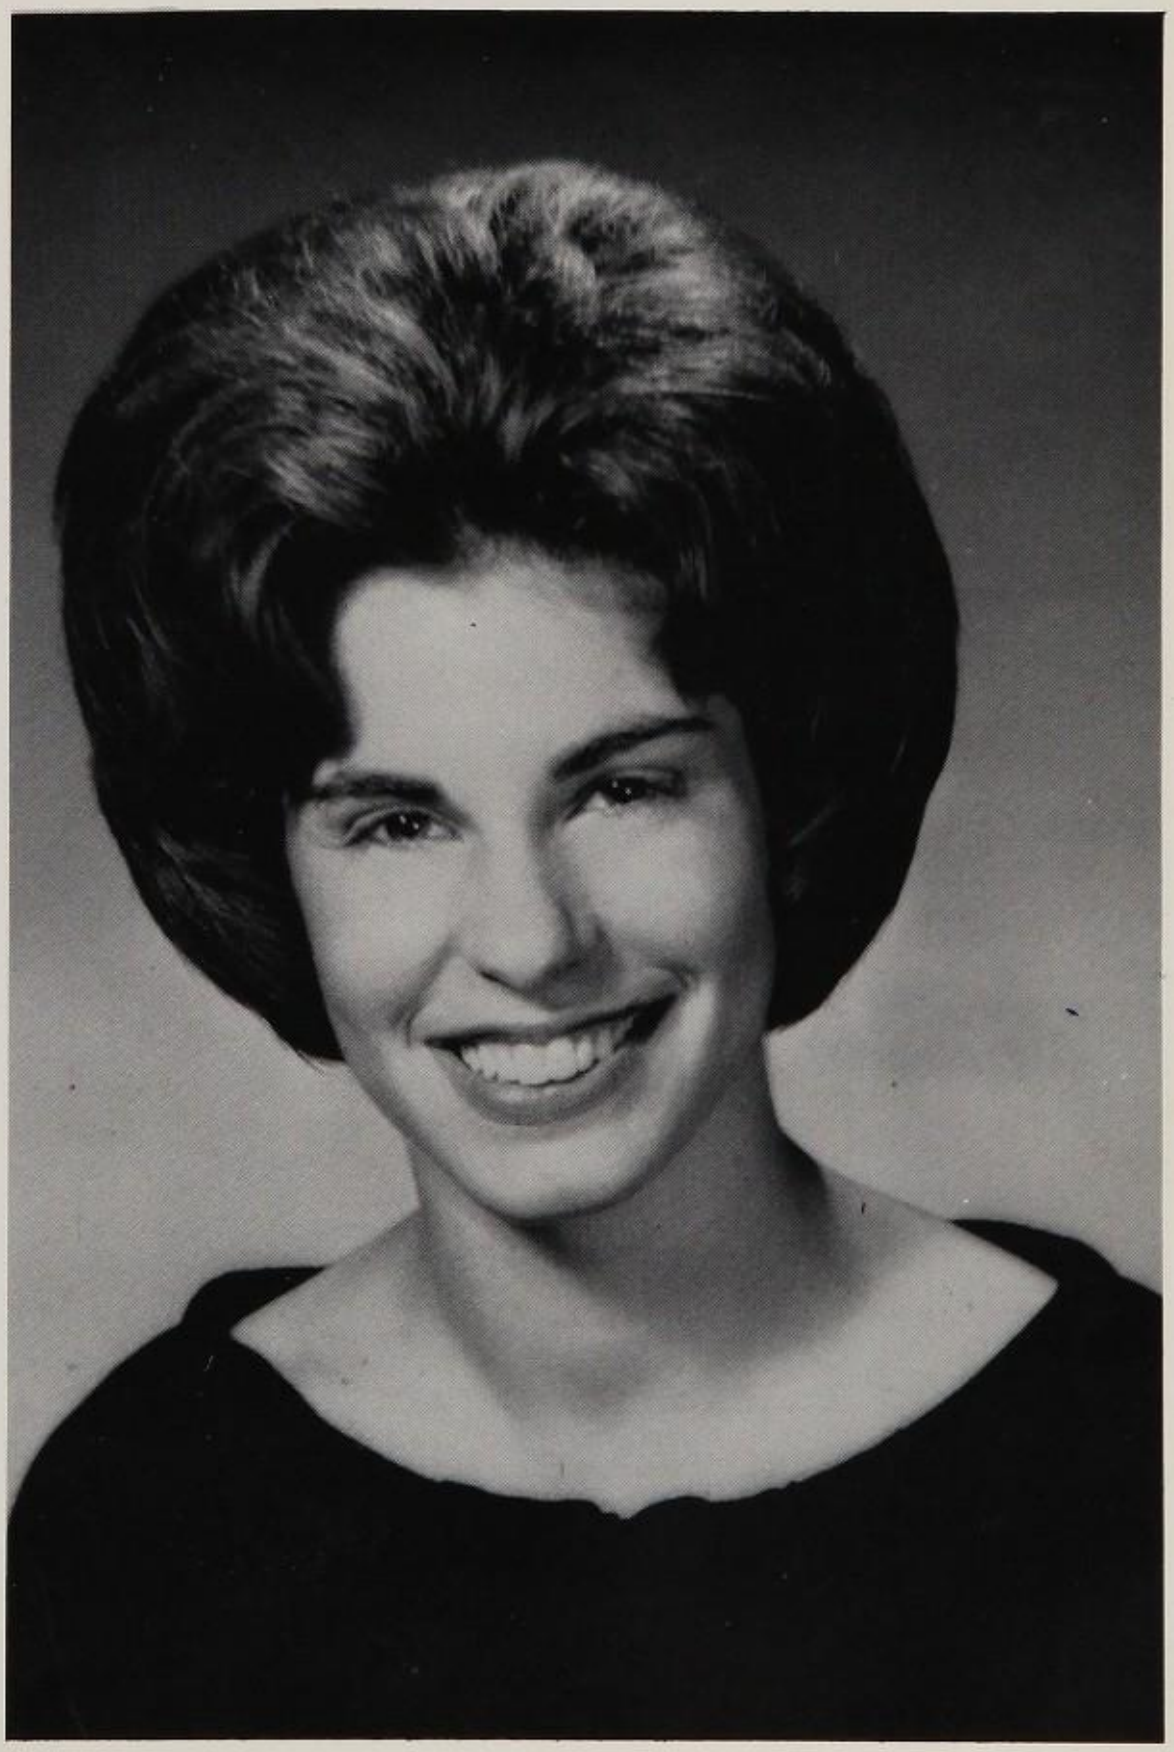
Accolade Editor Expresses Her Thanks

An accolade is presented to a knight in recognition of his service and loyalty to his king. As knights we have worked five years to build a place for Woodlawn in the annals of schools. In so doing, we have strived to develop a character and reputation which would truly become a knight and his castle.

We have given recognition in the 1965 ACCOLADE to those who have helped Woodlawn to become what it is today, to those who have brought honor to Woodlawn through their academic and extra-curricular achievements, to those who are good citizens, as well as to the faculty and other friends who have helped us to present this book.

We express our thanks to: Miss Smith, who taught us everything we know about editing a yearbook; Mr. Turner, who gave us his full co-operation; Mr. Jimmy Cobb, Taylor Representative, who gave valuable assistance and advice; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Drummond, who provided the fine photography; our advertisers, who bought the ads; our student photographers, Shirley Loftin, Charlene Humphries, and Robert Anderson, who traveled many miles to get some pictures; and the other two ACCOLADE staffs and their advisor, Mrs. Mickey Fair, for selling the ads and the book itself.

As this year comes to a close and all the work of the knights is evaluated, we are proud to present the ACCOLADE to you.



Editor-in-chief Sharon Bagby says, "It took long hours for the Editorial staff to make the 1965 ACCOLADE the wonderful book we think it is." She expresses appreciation to them for the extremely hard work they did in helping to meet the deadlines. Staff members included: Gloria Anderson, Helen Charping, Jimmy Hammett, Charlene Humphries, Shirley Loftin, Beverly Tozier, Nico Van Thyn, Renda Vick, Linda White, and Marion Ziobrowski.

This Group, Woodlawn's First Graduating Class, Had 180 Members As Compared To The 1965 Class Which Has 396 Members

To emphasize the growth of Woodlawn during the last five years, one has only to look at the number of students in this the first class ever to graduate at this school, and compare it to the class of 1965. Only 180 received diplomas at the end of the first year, whereas the 1965 class listed 596 as graduating seniors—more than three times the number of those in the first class.

The theme of this book has been to highlight the progress made in five years of existence. Throughout its pages, many facts have been pointed out to indicate the various places where growth can be noted. And the book ends with additional evidence—the increase in the number of graduates during these years.

The 1965 ACCOLADE is finished, but perhaps it has sufficiently indicated how the growth and progress in the school have in turn helped the students themselves to grow.

Woodlawn is still growing, and the people who claim this school as their Alma Mater believe that the students who go forth with a diploma from Woodlawn will surely help to shape the destiny of the world.
